Program Learning Outcomes

Graduates of this program will be able to:

1. Describe the fashion industry, fashion markets, fashion products and services.
2. Integrate conceptual, technical and production design knowledge and skills, leading to a synthesis of the design process from concept to production.
3. Apply skills in the use of basic tools, techniques and processes sufficient to produce work from draft or specifications to finished product, including skills in portfolio preparation.
4. Use conceptual and critical thinking skills that are applicable to the fashion industry.
5. Employ research processes and practices used in the fashion industry.
6. Demonstrate professionalism and communication skills in the appropriate creative industry.

Program Policies

Physical Activity and ROTC Courses

No more than 4 credit hours of Physical Activity, Wellness and Sport (PWS) courses or the first 16 credit hours of ROTC courses—Aerospace Studies (ASTU) and Military Studies (MSCI)—may apply to the 120 credit hours required for graduation.

Veterans who have completed a minimum of one year of active duty may receive PWS credit for military basic training according to branch of service, as follows:

- Army and Marine Corps, 3 credit hours;
- Navy and Coast Guard, 2 credit hours;
- Air Force, 1 credit hour.

Requirement Audit

Upon completion of 60 credit hours, each student is required to contact the College of the Arts Advising office to obtain a current evaluation of progress toward completion of the student's chosen degree program. Requirement evaluations are not a substitute for meeting with a faculty advisor. Students may access GPS (Graduation Planning System) audit through their FlashLine account which provides them with information about their academic progress. Questions about GPS audits are answered in the College of the Arts Advising office.

Full Description

The Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in Fashion Design integrates conceptual, technical and production design knowledge and skills, leading to a synthesis of the design process from concept to production. These processes include color, design and trend research; technical sketching and rendered illustration; pattern-making and garment construction; analysis of appropriate fit and fabric selection; best practices in sustainable methods and knowledge and the ability to communicate specifications for production using industry standards appropriate to specific markets.

The degree program prepares students for professional careers by developing technical competency, creative/independent problem solving and conceptual understanding necessary for the challenges of a career in the creative industries. Students develop portfolios for presentation at industry interviews and are prepared to be strongly competitive for any entry-level design position in the industry.

Students participate in a study abroad/away experience, which includes opportunities to study for a semester in New York City; Florence, Italy; and Paris, France, as well as through collaborative partnership programs with universities in Hong Kong, South Korea and London.

The B.F.A. degree in Fashion Design engages students in a focused-study thesis project (collection development) as a capstone experience that results in submitting their collection for formal review by faculty and industry designer-critics, followed by public presentation in a fashion venue and completion of a thesis "magazine" (print collateral).

* Source of occupation titles and labor data comes from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics' Occupational Outlook Handbook. Data comprises projected percent change in employment over the next 10 years; nation-wide employment numbers; and the yearly median wage at which half of the workers in the occupation earned more than that amount and half earned less.

Admission Requirements

The university affirmatively strives to provide educational opportunities and access to students with varied backgrounds, those with special talents and adult students who graduated from high school three or more years ago.

Admission to the Fashion Merchandising major is selective.

First-Year Students: Prospective applicants must have a minimum 3.000 overall GPA (on a 4.000 scale)(starting with the fall 2026 admission term, a minimum 2.750 overall GPA is required).

Transfer Students: Prospective applicants must have a minimum 2.750 overall GPA based on minimum 24 credit hours of college-level coursework at an accredited institution. Those students meeting this GPA requirement but with fewer than 24 credit hours will be evaluated as new freshmen.

Students who do not meet the criteria for admission to the Fashion Merchandising major may be eligible for admission to the Pre-Fashion Design and Merchandising non-degree major. Starting with the fall 2026 admission term, students who do not meet the criteria for admission to the Fashion Merchandising major will be admitted to the Exploratory Program in University College.

In addition, students who do not meet the admission criteria may initiate the process for declaring the B.S. degree in Fashion Merchandising after completing minimum 12 credit hours of non-developmental coursework at Kent State University and earning a minimum 2.750 overall GPA.

International Students: All international students must provide proof of proficiency of the English language (unless they meet specific exceptions) through the submission of an English language proficiency test score or by completing English language classes at Kent State's English as a Second Language Center before entering their program. For more information, visit the admissions website for international students.

Program Learning Outcomes

Graduates of this program will be able to:

1. Explain the components and processes of the fashion industry, fashion markets, fashion products and services to meet consumer needs.
2. Integrate knowledge of the fashion industry into real world scenarios through a variety of reflective, industry-focused experiential learning opportunities.
3. Apply critical thinking skills to various segments of the fashion value chain in forming strategic business decisions.
4. Apply research practices and systematic analyses to solve problems within the fashion industry.
5. Demonstrate professionalism and communication skills required within the fashion industry through visual, oral and written forms.

Program Policies
Physical Activity and ROTC Courses

No more than 4 credit hours of Physical Activity, Wellness and Sport (PWS) courses or the first 16 credit hours of ROTC courses—Aerospace Studies (ASTU) and Military Studies (MSCI)—may apply to the 120 credit hours required for graduation.

Veterans who have completed a minimum of one year of active duty may receive PWS credit for military basic training according to branch of service, as follows:

- Army and Marine Corps, 3 credit hours;
- Navy and Coast Guard, 2 credit hours;
- Air Force, 1 credit hour.

Requirement Audit

Upon completion of 60 credit hours, each student is required to contact the College of the Arts Advising office to obtain a current evaluation of progress toward completion of the student's chosen degree program. Requirement evaluations are not a substitute for meeting with a faculty advisor. Students may access GPS (Graduation Planning System) audit through their FlashLine account which provides them with information about their academic progress. Questions about GPS audits are answered in the College of the Arts Advising office.

Full Description

The Bachelor of Science degree in Fashion Merchandising allows for students to acquire a thorough background in the business aspects of the fashion industry, whereby they develop competencies in fashion theory, retail operations, management and buying, fashion forecasting and promotion, the merchandising for apparel manufacturing and the development and marketing of fashion goods.

Students participate in a study abroad/away experience, which includes opportunities to study for a semester in New York City; Florence, Italy; and Paris, France, as well as through collaborative partnership programs with universities in Hong Kong, South Korea and London.

Students in the Fashion Merchandising major must declare a minor at Kent State.

In addition, students in the Fashion Merchandising major have the opportunity to enroll in the combined degree program with the Master of Business Administration degree. The combined B.S./M.B.A. degree program allows high-achieving undergraduate students early admission into graduate school. Students enrolled in the combined degree program complete a maximum of 9 credit hours of graduate-level coursework for the M.B.A. degree during their senior year. This allows a student to accelerate their completion of the M.B.A degree after being awarded their undergraduate degree. Students complete a minimum of 150 credit hours (120 representing the B.S. degree in Fashion Merchandising and at least an additional 30 representing the M.B.A. degree). To be eligible for the combined degree program, students must first complete a minimum of 90 credit hours in the Fashion Merchandising major with at least a 3.300 overall grade point average. Upon achieving these requirements, students submit an admissions application to the M.B.A. program by the set application deadline. Students need to satisfy all requirements for the graduate admissions application.

Students in the Fashion Merchandising major can also pursue the B.S. Fashion Merchandising to Juris Doctor (JD) 3+3 degree pathway through Kent State University's partnership with three Northeast Ohio law schools (Case Western Reserve University School of Law, Cleveland State University College of Law and the University of Akron School of Law). Interested students follow a three-year set degree plan and work closely with Kent State University's Pre-Law Center. During the first three years, students complete almost all their general education and major requirements. During year four, students begin their first year of law school courses. Upon successful completion of the first year of law school courses, these credit hours are transferred back to Kent State University to complete the bachelor's degree. After graduating, students complete their last two years of law school to earn their Juris Doctor.

7. Display performance and interpretation skills in music.

School of Music Graduate Study

Program Requirements

Each student will be accepted as a major in a specific curricular area. It may be necessary for the student to complete Kent State University requirements for the appropriate undergraduate degree. Students' academic requirements are based on the catalog in effect during their first semester at Kent State University. Students may elect to complete their degrees under the most recent catalog, but must comply with all the new requirements relevant to their program under the new catalog.

Master's Thesis, Essay, Recital and Final Oral Examination

All Master of Music degree candidates in Performance must perform two recitals or one recital and write an essay depending on their specific degree requirements. Final oral examinations are required for all masters programs. The final oral examination may be attempted two times.

Research Tool Requirement

Candidates for the Master of Arts degree in Ethnomusicology must demonstrate a reading and understanding knowledge of one foreign language. Credit hours earned in meeting this requirement are not applied toward the credit hour requirement for the program.

For Ph.D. degree candidates in Music Theory - Composition, this requirement may be either a reading translating knowledge of one foreign language or demonstrated competence in an area of research specified by the doctoral advisory committee and approved by the Graduate Studies Committee. Credit hours earned in meeting this requirement are not applied toward the credit hour requirement for the program. For Ph.D. degree candidates in Music Education, this requirement is MUS 73283 and related research methods courses in the College of Education, Health and Human Services. These courses are applied toward the credit hour requirement for the program.

Ph.D. Candidacy Exams, Dissertation and Dissertation Defense

Doctoral candidates will take a comprehensive examination upon completion of their coursework and research tool requirement. This candidacy exam normally takes place within four years of beginning coursework. All doctoral candidates write and defend a dissertation via a final oral examination. The dissertation phase normally is completed within five years of passing the candidacy exams.

Time Limits

Master of Arts and Master of Music degree candidates must complete their degree within six calendar years after their first graduate registration at Kent State University. Any credit transferred for meeting degree requirements must also have been earned within the six-year period.

Ph.D. degree candidates must complete their degree within nine calendar years after their first doctoral registration at Kent State University. Any credit transferred for meeting degree requirements must also have been earned within the nine-year period.

Workshop Credit

A maximum 4 credit hours of workshop credit may be applied toward certain graduate degrees. The credit hours must pertain to the degree emphasis. Only workshop credits earned with a B grade or higher may be transferred into a program.

Full Description

The Master of Arts degree in Ethnomusicology is designed to offer students a solid foundation in regional studies of music style, performance practice, history and cultural associations in order to prepare students for continued graduate studies at the doctoral level and/or public sector careers in world music. The program integrates theoretical perspectives relevant to the discipline with these practical aims, so that students can communicate effectively with persons within and outside the field of ethnomusicology.

While a balanced global coverage is emphasized, Kent State music faculty focus on studies in Central Africa, mainland Southeast Asia, East Asia, the Caribbean, North and South America and the Middle East, as well as popular music studies. Theoretical concerns include sociocultural identity, semiotics, gender studies, politics and power, ritual studies, globalization and hybridity, as well as studies in inter-related arts (e.g., dance and theatre).

Graduation Requirements

Minimum Major GPA	Minimum Overall GPA
2.250	2.000

- Minimum C grade required in all music (MUS) courses
- Students in the B.A Music program are required to declare and complete a minor. The number of credit hours required to complete the minor depends on the minor selected. Students may select any minor available at Kent State University. However, the following minors are strongly recommended:
  - Arts Entrepreneurship
  - Audio Recording
  - Digital Media and Production
  - Entrepreneurship for Non-Business Majors
  - Game Design
  - Psychology
  - Speech Pathology and Audiology

University Requirements

All students in a bachelor's degree program at Kent State University must complete the following university requirements for graduation.

NOTE: University requirements may be fulfilled in this program by specific course requirements. Please see Program Requirements for details.

Flashes 101 (UC 10001)	1 credit hour
Course is not required for students with 30+ transfer credits (excluding College Credit Plus) or age 21+ at time of admission.
Diversity Domestic/Global (DIVD/DIVG)	2 courses
Students must successfully complete one domestic and one global course, of which one must be from the Kent Core.
Experiential Learning Requirement (ELR)	varies
Students must successfully complete one course or approved experience.
Kent Core (see table below)	36-37 credit hours
Writing-Intensive Course (WIC)	1 course
Students must earn a minimum C grade in the course.
Upper-Division Requirement	39 credit hours
Students must successfully complete 39 upper-division (numbered 30000 to 49999) credit hours to graduate.
Total Credit Hour Requirement	120 credit hours

Program Learning Outcomes

Graduates of this program will be able to:

1. Work conceptually, aurally and creatively with elements of music such as melody, harmony, form, rhythm and texture.
2. Interpret and perform music from a multitude of diverse musical styles, composers and eras through solo, small group and large group performances.
3. Apply their musical knowledge/skills in an interdisciplinary fashion with an area/areas of their choice.

Program Policies
Dual Degree/Double Major
School of Art

Students are permitted to double major in more than one division of the School of Art or complete more than one concentration in the same division.

1. Students enrolling in more than one major within the school must complete all course requirements in each major. If the two majors represent different degree programs, a minimum of 140 credit hours must be completed.
2. Students enrolling in a double concentration within the B.F.A. program must complete at least 12 upper-division credit hours within each concentration. In addition, all reviews must be passed and a senior project must be completed in each concentration.

A student taking a second major in art history must complete the language requirement. The program requirements for a double major must be approved in advance in writing by either the director or the division coordinator and become a part of the student's permanent file.

The Hugh A. Glauser School of Music

The Bachelor of Music, Bachelor of Arts degree in Music and the Bachelor of Science degree in Music Technology programs can be combined with approval by the faculty and director of the School of Music. In addition, double majors and more than one concentration within a major can be approved by the faculty and director of the School of Music.

Physical Activity and ROTC Courses

No more than 4 credit hours of Physical Activity, Wellness and Sport (PWS) courses or the first 16 credit hours of ROTC courses—Aerospace Studies (ASTU) and Military Studies (MSCI)—may apply to the 120 credit hours required for graduation.

Veterans who have completed a minimum of one year of active duty may receive PWS credit for military basic training according to branch of service, as follows:

- Army and Marine Corps, 3 credit hours;
- Navy and Coast Guard, 2 credit hours;
- Air Force, 1 credit hour.

Requirement Audit

Upon completion of 60 credit hours, each student is required to contact the College of the Arts Advising office to obtain a current evaluation of progress toward completion of the student's chosen degree program. Requirement evaluations are not a substitute for meeting with a faculty advisor. Students may access GPS (Graduation Planning System) audit through their FlashLine account which provides them with information about their academic progress. Questions about GPS audits are answered in the College of the Arts Advising office.

School of Music Undergraduate Professional Standards

1. Ensemble Requirements
   Ensemble participation is an integral part of every music major's program. All full-time music majors must enroll for credit and participate in an ensemble appropriate to their major performance area until the number of semesters required in the program are completed. Music minors in the College of the Arts must enroll in a major ensemble for a minimum of two semesters. Transfer music minors must enroll in a major ensemble for a minimum of one semester.
2. Recital Attendance
   Required recital attendance is intended to enhance the musical perspective of all music majors and give them exposure to a sampling of various genres and performing media. Transfer students must attend a minimum of 10 recitals per semester. Other undergraduate music majors are required to attend a minimum four-year total of 84 concerts or recitals. Attendance at an average of 10-12 School of Music concerts per semester is recommended. Students will be notified of their status in regard to this policy once per semester. Appropriate information for all students will be sent to the college office prior to graduation. Further information is available in the School of Music office.
3. Applied Music Requirement for the Bachelor of Music
   a. 36000-level requirements: All freshmen enter at the 36000-level of applied study. A minimum of four semesters of enrollment are required in the number of applied credit hours as prescribed by the degree program. A jury is performed at the end of each semester. At entrance, all students are informed of the performance standards necessary to advance to the 46000-level as determined by the faculty of each applied area. Transfer students with a minimum of four semesters of applied study (or equivalent) may enter at the 46000-level as determined by the entrance audition.
   b. 46000-level evaluation: Students in the Bachelor of Music degree program will be evaluated during juries to determine if they meet the 46000-level entrance standard. The results of the 46000-level entry evaluation are:
      i. Pass to the 46000-level.
      ii. Probation for one semester: The students will register at the 46000-level and retake the upper-level entrance jury at the end of the probationary semester. If the 46000-level entrance standard is not achieved, the students return to the 36000-level, repeating as needed.
      iii. Failure to pass the entry-level evaluation: The students remain at the 36000-level of applied study until the 46000-level entrance standard is met.
   c. Required accumulation of 46000-level applied credits
      i. Performance concentration: four semesters (16 credit hours)
      ii. Education majors: three semesters (6 credit hours)
      iii. Composition concentration: must pass the 46000-level entry evaluation prior to graduation.
   d. 46000-level outcome assessment/recital
      i. Performance requirement:* All Bachelor of Music performance degree candidates (piano, voice, instrumental) must perform both a one-half junior and a full senior recital; all other Bachelor of Music majors (composition, music education) must perform a half recital. Students who do not pass the recital must repeat 46000-level lessons until the recital is acceptable. Composition students may fulfill the one-half recital requirement in several ways.
   e. Applied music requirements for the Bachelor of Arts in Music
      Students in the Bachelor of Arts in Music program must meet the 46000-level as a graduation requirement and are not required to enroll at the 46000-level. Bachelor of Arts degree candidates are required to perform a half or full senior recital if approved by the faculty while enrolled in applied music or complete MUS 48598.

f. Applied music requirements for the B.S. in Music Technology
   i. Music technology majors are required to complete a total of six semesters (12 credit hours) of Applied Studio Musicianship. A jury is performed at the end of each semester of study.
   ii. Students must meet the Sophomore Proficiency requirement after two semesters and the Senior Proficiency requirement prior to graduation.

4. Advanced Study Admission Requirements
   All Bachelor of Music degree majors must fulfill certain requirements to enter appropriate advanced standing for program specific upper-division coursework in the School of Music. These requirements are as follows:
   a. Performance concentrations: All students must meet the requirements for admission to 46000-level applied study as stated above.
   b. Composition concentration: The composition faculty will evaluate each student's work during the semester in which MUS 21112 is taken to determine if the student should continue to pursue the concentration. A 3.000 GPA is required in music theory classes. A skills test and composition portfolio are required. Specific information may be obtained from the coordinator of theory and composition.
   c. Music Education concentration: Music education majors must apply for admission into advanced study in the College of Education, Health, and Human Services prior to junior year. Music education majors must also pass the music education professional evaluation in the music education division limited to two attempts of the entire evaluation. Specific information may be obtained from the coordinator of music education.
5. Grade Standard
   Music majors and minors must earn a grade of C or better in all music courses in order to count them toward graduation and meet prerequisites for subsequent courses. Music courses required to meet the Writing-Intensive Course requirement must be passed with a C or better.
6. Outcomes Assessment
   Candidates seeking Ohio licensure are required to pass specific assessments in order to apply for licensure. See Ohio Department of Education-Educator Preparation website for more information on assessments specific to licensure type. Taking and passing the licensure tests prior to graduation is encouraged but not required.

To graduate from Kent State University with the B.S. In music technology, students must have successfully completed a music technology Internship through an evaluation by the Music Technology Committee.

Full Description

The Bachelor of Arts degree in Music gives students an opportunity to earn a degree in music that aligns with their future musical and career goals and explore interdisciplinary opportunities by declaring a minor of their choice.

The Music major includes the following optional concentration:

- The Jazz Studies concentration provides students who are focused on jazz the opportunity to take coursework in improvisation, composing and arranging, and fully explore their creativity in music making.

Students in this program are encouraged to craft their major to serve their professional futures. Musicians may pair this major with a minor in areas that include, but are not limited to, media, digital music production, psychology, audiology, entrepreneurship, music technology and more.

Accreditation

The B.M. degree in Music is approved by the National Association of Schools of Music.

* Source of occupation titles and labor data comes from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics' Occupational Outlook Handbook. Data comprises projected percent change in employment over the next 10 years; nation-wide employment numbers; and the yearly median wage at which half of the workers in the occupation earned more than that amount and half earned less.

Admission Requirements

The university affirmatively strives to provide educational opportunities and access to students with varied backgrounds, those with special talents and adult students who graduated from high school three or more years ago.

Admission to this major is selective. Students are required to do a program/scholarship audition. Information regarding audition days and requirements can be found on the school website, and inquiries can be sent to musicadmission@kent.edu.

International Students: All international students must provide proof of proficiency of the English language (unless they meet specific exceptions) through the submission of an English language proficiency test score or by completing English language classes at Kent State's English as a Second Language Center before entering their program. For more information, visit the admissions website for international students.

Program Learning Outcomes

Graduates of this program will be able to:

1. Work conceptually, aurally and creatively with elements of music such as melody, harmony, form, rhythm and texture.
2. Interpret and perform music from a multitude of diverse musical styles, composers and eras through solo, small group and large group performances.
3. Work independently to prepare performances of the highest level as a performer or composer in their area of specialization.

Program Policies

Dual Degree/Double Major

School of Art

Students are permitted to double major in more than one division of the School of Art or complete more than one concentration in the same division.

1. Students enrolling in more than one major within the school must complete all course requirements in each major. If the two majors represent different degree programs, a minimum of 140 credit hours must be completed.
2. Students enrolling in a double concentration within the B.F.A. program must complete at least 12 upper-division credit hours within each concentration. In addition, all reviews must be passed and a senior project must be completed in each concentration.

A student taking a second major in art history must complete the language requirement. The program requirements for a double major must be approved in advance in writing by either the director or the division coordinator and become a part of the student's permanent file.

The Hugh A. Glauser School of Music

The Bachelor of Music, Bachelor of Arts degree in Music and the Bachelor of Science degree in Music Technology programs can be combined with approval by the faculty and director of the School of Music. In addition, double majors and more than one concentration within a major can be approved by the faculty and director of the School of Music.

Physical Activity and ROTC Courses

No more than 4 credit hours of Physical Activity, Wellness and Sport (PWS) courses or the first 16 credit hours of ROTC courses—Aerospace Studies (ASTU) and Military Studies (MSCI)—may apply to the 120 credit hours required for graduation.

Veterans who have completed a minimum of one year of active duty may receive PWS credit for military basic training according to branch of service, as follows:

- Army and Marine Corps, 3 credit hours;
- Navy and Coast Guard, 2 credit hours;
- Air Force, 1 credit hour.

Requirement Audit

Upon completion of 60 credit hours, each student is required to contact the College of the Arts Advising office to obtain a current evaluation of progress toward completion of the student's chosen degree program. Requirement evaluations are not a substitute for meeting with a faculty advisor. Students may access GPS (Graduation Planning System) audit through their FlashLine account which provides them with information about their academic progress. Questions about GPS audits are answered in the College of the Arts Advising office.

School of Music Undergraduate Professional Standards

1. Ensemble Requirements
   Ensemble participation is an integral part of every music major's program. All full-time music majors must enroll for credit and participate in an ensemble appropriate to their major performance area until the number of semesters required in the program are completed. Music minors in the College of the Arts must enroll in a major ensemble for a minimum of two semesters. Transfer music minors must enroll in a major ensemble for a minimum of one semester.

2. Recital Attendance
   Required recital attendance is intended to enhance the musical perspective of all music majors and give them exposure to a sampling of various genres and performing media. Transfer students must attend a minimum of 10 recitals per semester. Other undergraduate music majors are required to attend a minimum four-year total of 84 concerts or recitals. Attendance at an average of 10-12 School of Music concerts per semester is recommended. Students will be notified of their status in regard to this policy once per semester. Appropriate information for all students will be sent to the college office prior to graduation. Further information is available in the School of Music office.
3. Applied Music Requirement for the Bachelor of Music
   a. 36000-level requirements: All freshmen enter at the 36000-level of applied study. A minimum of four semesters of enrollment are required in the number of applied credit hours as prescribed by the degree program. A jury is performed at the end of each semester. At entrance, all students are informed of the performance standards necessary to advance to the 46000-level as determined by the faculty of each applied area. Transfer students with a minimum of four semesters of applied study (or equivalent) may enter at the 46000-level as determined by the entrance audition.
   b. 46000-level evaluation: Students in the Bachelor of Music degree program will be evaluated during juries to determine if they meet the 46000-level entrance standard. The results of the 46000-level entry evaluation are:
      i. Pass to the 46000-level.
      ii. Probation for one semester: The students will register at the 46000-level and retake the upper-level entrance jury at the end of the probationary semester. If the 46000-level entrance standard is not achieved, the students return to the 36000-level, repeating as needed.
      iii. Failure to pass the entry-level evaluation: The students remain at the 36000-level of applied study until the 46000-level entrance standard is met.
   c. Required accumulation of 46000-level applied credits
      i. Performance concentration: four semesters (16 credit hours)
      ii. Education majors: three semesters (6 credit hours)
      iii. Composition concentration: must pass the 46000-level entry evaluation prior to graduation.
   d. 46000-level outcome assessment/recital
      i. Performance requirement:* All Bachelor of Music performance degree candidates (piano, voice, instrumental) must perform both a one-half junior and a full senior recital; all other Bachelor of Music majors (composition, music education) must perform a half recital. Students who do not pass the recital must repeat 46000-level lessons until the recital is acceptable. Composition students may fulfill the one-half recital requirement in several ways.
   e. Applied music requirements for the Bachelor of Arts in Music
      Students in the Bachelor of Arts in Music program must meet the 46000-level as a graduation requirement and are not required to enroll at the 46000-level. Bachelor of Arts degree candidates are required to perform a half or full senior recital if approved by the faculty while enrolled in applied music or complete MUS 48598.
   f. Applied music requirements for the B.S. in Music Technology
      i. Music technology majors are required to complete a total of six semesters (12 credit hours) of Applied Studio Musicianship. A jury is performed at the end of each semester of study.
      ii. Students must meet the Sophomore Proficiency requirement after two semesters and the Senior Proficiency requirement prior to graduation.
4. Advanced Study Admission Requirements
   All Bachelor of Music degree majors must fulfill certain requirements to enter appropriate advanced standing for program specific upper-division coursework in the School of Music. These requirements are as follows:
   a. Performance concentrations: All students must meet the requirements for admission to 46000-level applied study as stated above.
   b. Composition concentration: The composition faculty will evaluate each student's work during the semester in which MUS 21112 is taken to determine if the student should continue to pursue the concentration. A 3.000 GPA is required in music theory classes. A skills test and composition portfolio are required. Specific information may be obtained from the coordinator of theory and composition.
   c. Music Education concentration: Music education majors must apply for admission into advanced study in the College of Education, Health, and Human Services prior to junior year. Music education majors must also pass the music education professional evaluation in the music education division limited to two attempts of the entire evaluation. Specific information may be obtained from the coordinator of music education.
5. Grade Standard
   Music majors and minors must earn a grade of C or better in all music courses in order to count them toward graduation and meet prerequisites for subsequent courses. Music courses required to meet the Writing-Intensive Course requirement must be passed with a C or better.
6. Outcomes Assessment
   Candidates seeking Ohio licensure are required to pass specific assessments in order to apply for licensure. See Ohio Department of Education-Educator Preparation website for more information on assessments specific to licensure type. Taking and passing the licensure tests prior to graduation is encouraged but not required.

To graduate from Kent State University with the B.S. In music technology, students must have successfully completed a music technology Internship through an evaluation by the Music Technology Committee.

Full Description

The Bachelor of Music degree in Music is a performance degree. Students develop the skills and knowledge essential to begin their professional careers.

The Music major comprises the following concentrations:

- The Composition concentration provides preparation for graduate study in the field, a credential for private instruction and the ability to compose and use technology in a variety of musical styles.

- The Instrumental Performance concentration provides preparation for graduate study in the field; a credential for private instruction; and the ability to perform as a soloist, in chamber music and in large ensembles. This program is available on the following instruments: violin, viola, violoncello, double bass, flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon, saxophone, trumpet, horn, trombone, euphonium, tuba and percussion.
- The Piano Performance concentration provides preparation for graduate study in the field; a credential for private instruction; and the ability to perform as a soloist, as an accompanist, in chamber music and in large ensembles.
- The Voice Performance concentration provides preparation for graduate study in the field; a credential for private instruction; and the ability to perform as a soloist, in opera, in chamber music and in large ensembles.

All students have the opportunity to explore non-western and western musical ensembles, chamber music, improvisation, conducting, pedagogy and additional music electives, and demonstrate their acquired skills in two public recitals.

Admission Requirements

Admission to a minor is open to students declared in a bachelor's degree, the A.A.B. or A.A.S. degree or the A.T.S. degree (not Individualized Program major). Students declared only in the A.A. or A.S. degree or the A.T.S. degree in Individualized Program may not declare a minor. Students may not pursue a minor and a major in the same discipline.

Students with a solo performance focus are required to do a program/scholarship audition to participate in applied lessons and select ensembles.

Accreditation

The B.M. degree in Music Education is approved by the National Association of Schools of Music (NASM).

* Source of occupation titles and labor data comes from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics' Occupational Outlook Handbook. Data comprises projected percent change in employment over the next 10 years; nation-wide employment numbers; and the yearly median wage at which half of the workers in the occupation earned more than that amount and half earned less.

Admission Requirements

The university affirmatively strives to provide educational opportunities and access to students with varied backgrounds, those with special talents and adult students who graduated from high school three or more years ago.

Admission to this major is selective. Students are required to do a program/scholarship audition. Information regarding audition days and requirements can be found on the school website, and inquiries can be sent to musicadmission@kent.edu.

International Students: All international students must provide proof of proficiency of the English language (unless they meet specific exceptions) through the submission of an English language proficiency test score or by completing English language classes at Kent State's English as a Second Language Center before entering their program. For more information, visit the admissions website for international students.

Program Learning Outcomes

Graduates of this program will be able to:

1. Plan and implement instruction in a variety of music pedagogy settings that is rooted in musical development and equity for all students.
2. Demonstrate broad knowledge and skills with music theory, music history and musicianship.
3. Acquire music K-12 licensure in the state of Ohio by successfully completing all requirements in music and general education.

Program Policies

Dual Degree/Double Major

School of Art

Students are permitted to double major in more than one division of the School of Art or complete more than one concentration in the same division.

1. Students enrolling in more than one major within the school must complete all course requirements in each major. If the two majors represent different degree programs, a minimum of 140 credit hours must be completed.
2. Students enrolling in a double concentration within the B.F.A. program must complete at least 12 upper-division credit hours within each concentration. In addition, all reviews must be passed and a senior project must be completed in each concentration.

A student taking a second major in art history must complete the language requirement. The program requirements for a double major must be approved in advance in writing by either the director or the division coordinator and become a part of the student's permanent file.

The Hugh A. Glauser School of Music

The Bachelor of Music, Bachelor of Arts degree in Music and the Bachelor of Science degree in Music Technology programs can be combined with approval by the faculty and director of the School of Music. In addition, double majors and more than one concentration within a major can be approved by the faculty and director of the School of Music.

Physical Activity and ROTC Courses

No more than 4 credit hours of Physical Activity, Wellness and Sport (PWS) courses or the first 16 credit hours of ROTC courses—Aerospace Studies (ASTU) and Military Studies (MSCI)—may apply to the 120 credit hours required for graduation.

Veterans who have completed a minimum of one year of active duty may receive PWS credit for military basic training according to branch of service, as follows:

- Army and Marine Corps, 3 credit hours;
- Navy and Coast Guard, 2 credit hours;
- Air Force, 1 credit hour.

Requirement Audit

Upon completion of 60 credit hours, each student is required to contact the College of the Arts Advising office to obtain a current evaluation of progress toward completion of the student's chosen degree program. Requirement evaluations are not a substitute for meeting with a faculty advisor. Students may access GPS (Graduation Planning System) audit through their FlashLine account which provides them with information about their academic progress. Questions about GPS audits are answered in the College of the Arts Advising office.

Requirements for Admission to Advanced Study for Art Education and Music Education

Admission to advanced study is required of all art education and music education majors and minors prior to enrolling in upper-division education courses. Upon completion of coursework, as determined by program area, students should have satisfied the prerequisites for admission to advanced study. Students must submit an application for advanced study by the second Friday of the term during which all prerequisites for advanced study will be completed, and at least one semester prior to beginning any coursework for which "Admission to Advanced Study" is a prerequisite. Students at the Kent Campus apply for Advanced Study through the College of Education, Health and Human Services Student Portal, which can be accessed through the Vacca Office of Student Services web page. Students completing a licensure program at a regional campus should check with that campus for instructions on how to apply for "Advanced Study." Please note: Admission to advanced study is required for students pursuing an undergraduate major that leads to teacher licensure. Please be aware that reapplication may be necessary if postponing advanced study coursework or if withdrawn for one year or more.

Requirements for Admission to Advanced Study for Art Education and Music Education

- College Writing: Students are required to attain a minimum C grade in each writing courses (ENG 11011 and ENG 21011 or equivalent).
- Pre-Advanced Study Coursework: To be eligible for advanced study, students must earn a minimum C grade in CULT 29535 and a minimum C grade in one of the following courses (please note that a minimum C grade must be earned in all of the four courses for teacher licensure programs):
  - EPSY 29525
  - SPED 23000
- Grade Point Average:
  - Art Education majors must have earned a minimum 2.500 cumulative GPA in order to be admitted to Advanced Study.
  - Music Education majors must have earned a minimum 2.500 cumulative GPA and a minimum 2.750 major GPA at the time of application in order to be admitted to Advanced Study.
- Disposition Assessment/Professional Disposition Plans (PDPs): Students are required to have completed all professional dispositions plan (PDPs) at the time of application to be eligible for advanced study.
- Advising Appointment: Art Education and Music Education students should make an advising appointment with a professional advisor in the Vacca Office of Student Services (or Regional Campus advising office if completing the program at that campus) for information about applying for Advanced Study and educator licensure. Advising appointments at the Kent Campus are made through the Vacca Office of Student Services' website at www.kent.edu/ehhs/services/voss.
- Teacher Candidate Acknowledgments and Legal Questions for Licensure: Candidates are required to electronically sign four statements acknowledging that they have read and understand the following areas: background check requirements; professional dispositions; licensure application information; legal questions asked on the licensure application. Statements can be found on the student portal.

1. Ensemble Requirements
   Ensemble participation is an integral part of every music major's program. All full-time music majors must enroll for credit and participate in an ensemble appropriate to their major performance area until the number of semesters required in the program are completed. Music minors in the College of the Arts must enroll in a major ensemble for a minimum of two semesters. Transfer music minors must enroll in a major ensemble for a minimum of one semester.
2. Recital Attendance
   Required recital attendance is intended to enhance the musical perspective of all music majors and give them exposure to a sampling of various genres and performing media. Transfer students must attend a minimum of 10 recitals per semester. Other undergraduate music majors are required to attend a minimum four-year total of 84 concerts or recitals. Attendance at an average of 10-12 School of Music concerts per semester is recommended. Students will be notified of their status in regard to this policy once per semester. Appropriate information for all students will be sent to the college office prior to graduation. Further information is available in the School of Music office.
3. Applied Music Requirement for the Bachelor of Music
   a. 36000-level requirements: All freshmen enter at the 36000-level of applied study. A minimum of four semesters of enrollment are required in the number of applied credit hours as prescribed by the degree program. A jury is performed at the end of each semester. At entrance, all students are informed of the performance standards necessary to advance to the 46000-level as determined by the faculty of each applied area. Transfer students with a minimum of four semesters of applied study (or equivalent) may enter at the 46000-level as determined by the entrance audition.

b. 46000-level evaluation: Students in the Bachelor of Music degree program will be evaluated during juries to determine if they meet the 46000-level entrance standard. The results of the 46000-level entry evaluation are:
   i. Pass to the 46000-level.
   ii. Probation for one semester: The students will register at the 46000-level and retake the upper-level entrance jury at the end of the probationary semester. If the 46000-level entrance standard is not achieved, the students return to the 36000-level, repeating as needed.
   iii. Failure to pass the entry-level evaluation: The students remain at the 36000-level of applied study until the 46000-level entrance standard is met.

c. Required accumulation of 46000-level applied credits
   i. Performance concentration: four semesters (16 credit hours)
   ii. Education majors: three semesters (6 credit hours)
   iii. Composition concentration: must pass the 46000-level entry evaluation prior to graduation.

d. 46000-level outcome assessment/recital
   i. Performance requirement:* All Bachelor of Music performance degree candidates (piano, voice, instrumental) must perform both a one-half junior and a full senior recital; all other Bachelor of Music majors (composition, music education) must perform a half recital. Students who do not pass the recital must repeat 46000-level lessons until the recital is acceptable. Composition students may fulfill the one-half recital requirement in several ways.

e. Applied music requirements for the Bachelor of Arts in Music
   Students in the Bachelor of Arts in Music program must meet the 46000-level as a graduation requirement and are not required to enroll at the 46000-level. Bachelor of Arts degree candidates are required to perform a half or full senior recital if approved by the faculty while enrolled in applied music or complete MUS 48598.

f. Applied music requirements for the B.S. in Music Technology
   i. Music technology majors are required to complete a total of six semesters (12 credit hours) of Applied Studio Musicianship. A jury is performed at the end of each semester of study.
   ii. Students must meet the Sophomore Proficiency requirement after two semesters and the Senior Proficiency requirement prior to graduation.

4. Advanced Study Admission Requirements
   All Bachelor of Music degree majors must fulfill certain requirements to enter appropriate advanced standing for program specific upper-division coursework in the School of Music. These requirements are as follows:
   a. Performance concentrations: All students must meet the requirements for admission to 46000-level applied study as stated above.
   b. Composition concentration: The composition faculty will evaluate each student's work during the semester in which MUS 21112 is taken to determine if the student should continue to pursue the concentration. A 3.000 GPA is required in music theory classes. A skills test and composition portfolio are required. Specific information may be obtained from the coordinator of theory and composition.
   c. Music Education concentration: Music education majors must apply for admission into advanced study in the College of Education, Health, and Human Services prior to junior year. Music education majors must also pass the music education professional evaluation in the music education division limited to two attempts of the entire evaluation. Specific information may be obtained from the coordinator of music education.
5. Grade Standard
   Music majors and minors must earn a grade of C or better in all music courses in order to count them toward graduation and meet prerequisites for subsequent courses. Music courses required to meet the Writing-Intensive Course requirement must be passed with a C or better.
6. Outcomes Assessment
   Candidates seeking Ohio licensure are required to pass specific assessments in order to apply for licensure. See Ohio Department of Education-Educator Preparation website for more information on assessments specific to licensure type. Taking and passing the licensure tests prior to graduation is encouraged but not required.

To graduate from Kent State University with the B.S. In music technology, students must have successfully completed a music technology Internship through an evaluation by the Music Technology Committee.

Full Description

The Bachelor of Music degree in Music Education prepares students to teach grades K-12. Students develop teaching and learning skills; gain experience in conducting, instrumental and choral techniques and methods, jazz, folk and rock; and have the opportunity to explore world music and develop their individual musicianship through private lessons, recitals and small and large ensemble performance.

Professional Licensure Disclosure

This program is designed to prepare students to sit for applicable licensure or certification in Ohio. If you plan to pursue licensure or certification in a state other than Ohio, please review state educational requirements for licensure or certification and contact information for state licensing boards at Kent State's website for professional licensure disclosure.

Minimum Total Credit Hours:		31

[1] With the capstone project, students complete a 12-week, individual research investigation comparable to a master's thesis. Under the supervision of a capstone advisor, students synthesize knowledge through the development of a curricular project applicable to the student's specific area of teaching. A prescribed description outlines requirements, goals, objectives, procedures and assessment. Activities include student reading-research-writing, preparation of a project outline and drafts, regular interaction with a research mentor and evaluation of conclusions for the final submission. The project's goal is to support students to critically analyze and improve their own music teaching and learning skills in classroom settings. The project is reviewed and evaluated by a graduate committee of music education faculty.

Graduation Requirements

Minimum Major GPA	Minimum Overall GPA
-	3.000

- No more than one-half of a graduate student's coursework may be taken in 50000-level courses.
- Grades below C are not counted toward completion of requirements for the degree.

Program Learning Outcomes

Graduates of this program will be able to:

1. Develop and apply knowledge of foundational principles of music education (history, philosophy, sociology, psychology); research methods and practices; music technology; methods of music education in instrumental, choral and general music contexts; western music theory and history; and world music.
2. Exhibit scholarly writing skills focusing on comprehensive knowledge of research methodology.
3. Demonstrate reading, research, writing and critical-thinking skills related to contemporary music education contexts.

School of Music Graduate Study

Program Requirements

Each student will be accepted as a major in a specific curricular area. It may be necessary for the student to complete Kent State University requirements for the appropriate undergraduate degree. Students' academic requirements are based on the catalog in effect during their first semester at Kent State University. Students may elect to complete their degrees under the most recent catalog, but must comply with all the new requirements relevant to their program under the new catalog.

Master's Thesis, Essay, Recital and Final Oral Examination

All Master of Music degree candidates in Performance must perform two recitals or one recital and write an essay depending on their specific degree requirements. Final oral examinations are required for all masters programs. The final oral examination may be attempted two times.

Research Tool Requirement

Candidates for the Master of Arts degree in Ethnomusicology must demonstrate a reading and understanding knowledge of one foreign language. Credit hours earned in meeting this requirement are not applied toward the credit hour requirement for the program.

For Ph.D. degree candidates in Music Theory - Composition, this requirement may be either a reading translating knowledge of one foreign language or demonstrated competence in an area of research specified by the doctoral advisory committee and approved by the Graduate Studies Committee. Credit hours earned in meeting this requirement are not applied toward the credit hour requirement for the program. For Ph.D. degree candidates in Music Education, this requirement is MUS 73283 and related research methods courses in the College of Education, Health and Human Services. These courses are applied toward the credit hour requirement for the program.

Ph.D. Candidacy Exams, Dissertation and Dissertation Defense

Doctoral candidates will take a comprehensive examination upon completion of their coursework and research tool requirement. This candidacy exam normally takes place within four years of beginning coursework. All doctoral candidates write and defend a dissertation via a final oral examination. The dissertation phase normally is completed within five years of passing the candidacy exams.

Time Limits

Master of Arts and Master of Music degree candidates must complete their degree within six calendar years after their first graduate registration at Kent State University. Any credit transferred for meeting degree requirements must also have been earned within the six-year period.

Ph.D. degree candidates must complete their degree within nine calendar years after their first doctoral registration at Kent State University. Any credit transferred for meeting degree requirements must also have been earned within the nine-year period.

Workshop Credit

A maximum 4 credit hours of workshop credit may be applied toward certain graduate degrees. The credit hours must pertain to the degree emphasis. Only workshop credits earned with a B grade or higher may be transferred into a program.

[1] Students may be required to take courses in music theory, which will be applied toward the Musical Literacy requirement of the degree. Requirements will be determined based on the results of a diagnostic exam as stated in the Music Graduate Handbook. Remaining Musical Literacy credit hours are fulfilled by taking courses in music theory, music history, ethnomusicology, composition, conducting, music performance or other related topics of student interest as approved by the academic advisor.

[2] Upon successful completion of the candidacy examination, students take a dissertation topic from the proposal stage through approval, writing, submission and an oral defense process with a faculty committee comprised of the music education advisor, one additional music education faculty member, one representative from music education or education, a member from another music discipline area or education and an appointed graduate faculty representative. Each doctoral candidate, upon admission to candidacy, must register for MUS 88199 for a total of 30 credit hours. It is expected that a doctoral candidate will continuously register for Dissertation I, and thereafter MUS 88299, each semester, until all requirements for the degree have been met.

Graduation Requirements

Minimum Major GPA	Minimum Overall GPA
-	3.000

Residency Requirements

Student must complete a residency requirement of minimum 9 credit hours each year until qualifying exams.

Candidacy Requirements

For the Ph.D. a comprehensive, qualifying, candidacy examination is taken when the student has substantially completed his/her coursework and has received the consent of the advisor committee to attempt the examination. The examination includes an extensive written section consisting of proctored and non-proctored questions, and an oral section taken before a faculty committee. Material for both written and oral sections is drawn from the coursework taken during the degree program, current professional research literature, and current topics in music education. Students who fail the candidacy examination two times will be dismissed from the doctoral program.

Program Learning Outcomes

Graduates of the program will be able to:

1. Demonstrate knowledge of music education research and practice relative to primary, secondary, undergraduate, masters and doctoral levels through writing and oral communication.
2. Engage in research activities appropriate to doctoral and professional level practice in music education.
3. Demonstrate active involvement at local, national and global levels through diverse professional activities, including but not limited to scholarly publications and presentations, collaborative research and engagement with other scholars in order to share knowledge in music and related fields.
4. Communicate a comprehensive and sophisticated knowledge of music education through the lens of history, philosophy, psychology, sociology, research methodologies, advanced pedagogy, learning theories and methods of curricular structure.
5. Demonstrate reading, research, writing and critical-thinking skills related to contemporary music education contexts.

Full Description

The Ph.D. degree in Music Education integrates teaching, theory and research in inquiry about music teaching and learning. Through a collaboration with Kent State's College of Education, Health and Human Services, the degree program allows for emerging scholars to engage in coursework and research in areas connecting musical and educational pedagogies. Students pursuing the Ph.D. degree are interested in preparing music teacher educators at institutions of higher learning; engaging in arts education activities; and exploring emerging practices in curriculum, artistic instruction and educational thought.

University Requirements

All students in a bachelor's degree program at Kent State University must complete the following university requirements for graduation.

NOTE: University requirements may be fulfilled in this program by specific course requirements. Please see Program Requirements for details.

Flashes 101 (UC 10001)	1 credit hour
Course is not required for students with 30+ transfer credits (excluding College Credit Plus) or age 21+ at time of admission.
Diversity Domestic/Global (DIVD/DIVG)	2 courses
Students must successfully complete one domestic and one global course, of which one must be from the Kent Core.
Experiential Learning Requirement (ELR)	varies
Students must successfully complete one course or approved experience.
Kent Core (see table below)	36-37 credit hours
Writing-Intensive Course (WIC)	1 course
Students must earn a minimum C grade in the course.
Upper-Division Requirement	39 credit hours
Students must successfully complete 39 upper-division (numbered 30000 to 49999) credit hours to graduate.
Total Credit Hour Requirement	120 credit hours

Kent Core Requirements

Kent Core Composition (KCMP)	6
Kent Core Mathematics and Critical Reasoning (KMCR)	3
Kent Core Humanities and Fine Arts (KHUM/KFA) (min one course each)	9
Kent Core Social Sciences (KSS) (must be from two disciplines)	6
Kent Core Basic Sciences (KBS/KLAB) (must include one laboratory)	6-7
Kent Core Additional (KADL)	6
Total Credit Hours:	36-37

Program Learning Outcomes

Graduates of this program will be able to:

1. Function as competent and versatile professional studio musicians who perform in diverse commercial music venues.
2. Compose and arrange music.
3. Create appropriate sound for visual media.
4. Create music productions of professional quality.
5. Produce professional audio recordings, both live and in studio, from start to finish.

Program Policies

Dual Degree/Double Major

School of Art

Students are permitted to double major in more than one division of the School of Art or complete more than one concentration in the same division.

1. Students enrolling in more than one major within the school must complete all course requirements in each major. If the two majors represent different degree programs, a minimum of 140 credit hours must be completed.
2. Students enrolling in a double concentration within the B.F.A. program must complete at least 12 upper-division credit hours within each concentration. In addition, all reviews must be passed and a senior project must be completed in each concentration.

A student taking a second major in art history must complete the language requirement. The program requirements for a double major must be approved in advance in writing by either the director or the division coordinator and become a part of the student's permanent file.

The Hugh A. Glauser School of Music

The Bachelor of Music, Bachelor of Arts degree in Music and the Bachelor of Science degree in Music Technology programs can be combined with approval by the faculty and director of the School of Music. In addition, double majors and more than one concentration within a major can be approved by the faculty and director of the School of Music.

Physical Activity and ROTC Courses

No more than 4 credit hours of Physical Activity, Wellness and Sport (PWS) courses or the first 16 credit hours of ROTC courses—Aerospace Studies (ASTU) and Military Studies (MSCI)—may apply to the 120 credit hours required for graduation.

Veterans who have completed a minimum of one year of active duty may receive PWS credit for military basic training according to branch of service, as follows:

- Army and Marine Corps, 3 credit hours;
- Navy and Coast Guard, 2 credit hours;
- Air Force, 1 credit hour.

Requirement Audit

Upon completion of 60 credit hours, each student is required to contact the College of the Arts Advising office to obtain a current evaluation of progress toward completion of the student's chosen degree program. Requirement evaluations are not a substitute for meeting with a faculty advisor. Students may access GPS (Graduation Planning System) audit through their FlashLine account which provides them with information about their academic progress. Questions about GPS audits are answered in the College of the Arts Advising office.

School of Music Undergraduate Professional Standards

1. Ensemble Requirements
   Ensemble participation is an integral part of every music major's program. All full-time music majors must enroll for credit and participate in an ensemble appropriate to their major performance area until the number of semesters required in the program are completed. Music minors in the College of the Arts must enroll in a major ensemble for a minimum of two semesters. Transfer music minors must enroll in a major ensemble for a minimum of one semester.

2. Recital Attendance
   Required recital attendance is intended to enhance the musical perspective of all music majors and give them exposure to a sampling of various genres and performing media. Transfer students must attend a minimum of 10 recitals per semester. Other undergraduate music majors are required to attend a minimum four-year total of 84 concerts or recitals. Attendance at an average of 10-12 School of Music concerts per semester is recommended. Students will be notified of their status in regard to this policy once per semester. Appropriate information for all students will be sent to the college office prior to graduation. Further information is available in the School of Music office.
3. Applied Music Requirement for the Bachelor of Music
   a. 36000-level requirements: All freshmen enter at the 36000-level of applied study. A minimum of four semesters of enrollment are required in the number of applied credit hours as prescribed by the degree program. A jury is performed at the end of each semester. At entrance, all students are informed of the performance standards necessary to advance to the 46000-level as determined by the faculty of each applied area. Transfer students with a minimum of four semesters of applied study (or equivalent) may enter at the 46000-level as determined by the entrance audition.
   b. 46000-level evaluation: Students in the Bachelor of Music degree program will be evaluated during juries to determine if they meet the 46000-level entrance standard. The results of the 46000-level entry evaluation are:
      i. Pass to the 46000-level.
      ii. Probation for one semester: The students will register at the 46000-level and retake the upper-level entrance jury at the end of the probationary semester. If the 46000-level entrance standard is not achieved, the students return to the 36000-level, repeating as needed.
      iii. Failure to pass the entry-level evaluation: The students remain at the 36000-level of applied study until the 46000-level entrance standard is met.
   c. Required accumulation of 46000-level applied credits
      i. Performance concentration: four semesters (16 credit hours)
      ii. Education majors: three semesters (6 credit hours)
      iii. Composition concentration: must pass the 46000-level entry evaluation prior to graduation.
   d. 46000-level outcome assessment/recital
      i. Performance requirement:* All Bachelor of Music performance degree candidates (piano, voice, instrumental) must perform both a one-half junior and a full senior recital; all other Bachelor of Music majors (composition, music education) must perform a half recital. Students who do not pass the recital must repeat 46000-level lessons until the recital is acceptable. Composition students may fulfill the one-half recital requirement in several ways.
   e. Applied music requirements for the Bachelor of Arts in Music
      Students in the Bachelor of Arts in Music program must meet the 46000-level as a graduation requirement and are not required to enroll at the 46000-level. Bachelor of Arts degree candidates are required to perform a half or full senior recital if approved by the faculty while enrolled in applied music or complete MUS 48598.
   f. Applied music requirements for the B.S. in Music Technology
      i. Music technology majors are required to complete a total of six semesters (12 credit hours) of Applied Studio Musicianship. A jury is performed at the end of each semester of study.
      ii. Students must meet the Sophomore Proficiency requirement after two semesters and the Senior Proficiency requirement prior to graduation.
4. Advanced Study Admission Requirements
   All Bachelor of Music degree majors must fulfill certain requirements to enter appropriate advanced standing for program specific upper-division coursework in the School of Music. These requirements are as follows:
   a. Performance concentrations: All students must meet the requirements for admission to 46000-level applied study as stated above.
   b. Composition concentration: The composition faculty will evaluate each student's work during the semester in which MUS 21112 is taken to determine if the student should continue to pursue the concentration. A 3.000 GPA is required in music theory classes. A skills test and composition portfolio are required. Specific information may be obtained from the coordinator of theory and composition.
   c. Music Education concentration: Music education majors must apply for admission into advanced study in the College of Education, Health, and Human Services prior to junior year. Music education majors must also pass the music education professional evaluation in the music education division limited to two attempts of the entire evaluation. Specific information may be obtained from the coordinator of music education.
5. Grade Standard
   Music majors and minors must earn a grade of C or better in all music courses in order to count them toward graduation and meet prerequisites for subsequent courses. Music courses required to meet the Writing-Intensive Course requirement must be passed with a C or better.
6. Outcomes Assessment
   Candidates seeking Ohio licensure are required to pass specific assessments in order to apply for licensure. See Ohio Department of Education-Educator Preparation website for more information on assessments specific to licensure type. Taking and passing the licensure tests prior to graduation is encouraged but not required.

To graduate from Kent State University with the B.S. In music technology, students must have successfully completed a music technology Internship through an evaluation by the Music Technology Committee.

Full Description

The Bachelor of Science degree in Music Technology prepares students as musicians within a broad field of constantly changing technology. Students study in courses that develop expertise in music computer technology for application in the recording industry, audio-engineering and music production.

The development of music technology has had an enormous impact on the music industry. There are many career opportunities for talented musicians in music technology. Skilled musicians can apply formal training to recording careers, studio performance, arranging or producing and live performances. Opportunities are also available in non-traditional, contemporary popular music venues, the movie industry, television, multi-media events and music for advertising, as well as traditional performing arts venues. The growth of music technology has made knowledge and experience in this area a necessity for all students preparing for a career in any area of the music industry. To compete effectively in the contemporary music world, one must possess a strong traditional music background, plus the technical expertise required to make the most of a rapidly changing and developing technology.

The Music Technology major comprises the following concentrations:

- The Audio Recording concentration provides students the opportunity to learn advanced audio recording techniques.
- The Music Production concentration provides students the opportunity to learn how to use technology to realize creative work such as original music, arranging and production.
- The Performance concentration provides students who want to perform the necessary technological tools to succeed in the modern music industry.

Music Technology - Minor

College of the Arts
School of Music
www.kent.edu/music

About This Program

The Music Technology minor is designed to give students a strong foundation in the rapidly developing field of music production and audio recording technologies. Coupled with courses in applied music, the minor provides students with the necessary tools to be successful in studio equipment, techniques and standards.

- Minimum 6 credit hours in the minor must be outside of the course requirements for any major or other minor the student is pursuing.
- Minimum 50 percent of the total credit hours for the minor must be taken at Kent State (in residence).

Program Learning Outcomes

Graduates of this program will be able to:

1. Be proficient in using music production software, digital audio workstations (DAWs) and other relevant music technology tools.
2. Have the ability to critically listen to and analyze various genres of music, identifying production techniques and sonic characteristics.

Music Theory - M.A.

College of the Arts
School of Music
www.kent.edu/music

About This Program

The Master of Arts degree in Music Theory is designed to enhance music theory abilities of advanced students and prepare them for admission to doctoral study. Based on a solid undergraduate music degree, the master's degree further develops abilities in music theory, including analytical, aural, written, keyboard and pedagogical skills. The program further develops breadth and depth in the area of music history and literature.

- Grades below C are not counted toward completion of requirements for the degree.

Program Learning Outcomes

Graduates of this program will be able to:

1. Analyze music from a wide range of styles and style periods, and communicate results in written and oral formats.

2. Demonstrate and apply functional aural, written and keyboard skills.
3. Recognize, identify and analyze representative literature from different historical periods, countries and composers.
4. Communicate knowledge of music theory and other aspects of music as would be done in classroom and private teaching.

School of Music Graduate Study

Program Requirements

Each student will be accepted as a major in a specific curricular area. It may be necessary for the student to complete Kent State University requirements for the appropriate undergraduate degree. Students' academic requirements are based on the catalog in effect during their first semester at Kent State University. Students may elect to complete their degrees under the most recent catalog, but must comply with all the new requirements relevant to their program under the new catalog.

Master's Thesis, Essay, Recital and Final Oral Examination

All Master of Music degree candidates in Performance must perform two recitals or one recital and write an essay depending on their specific degree requirements. Final oral examinations are required for all masters programs. The final oral examination may be attempted two times.

Research Tool Requirement

Candidates for the Master of Arts degree in Ethnomusicology must demonstrate a reading and understanding knowledge of one foreign language. Credit hours earned in meeting this requirement are not applied toward the credit hour requirement for the program.

For Ph.D. degree candidates in Music Theory - Composition, this requirement may be either a reading translating knowledge of one foreign language or demonstrated competence in an area of research specified by the doctoral advisory committee and approved by the Graduate Studies Committee. Credit hours earned in meeting this requirement are not applied toward the credit hour requirement for the program. For Ph.D. degree candidates in Music Education, this requirement is MUS 73283 and related research methods courses in the College of Education, Health and Human Services. These courses are applied toward the credit hour requirement for the program.

Ph.D. Candidacy Exams, Dissertation and Dissertation Defense

Doctoral candidates will take a comprehensive examination upon completion of their coursework and research tool requirement. This candidacy exam normally takes place within four years of beginning coursework. All doctoral candidates write and defend a dissertation via a final oral examination. The dissertation phase normally is completed within five years of passing the candidacy exams.

Time Limits

Master of Arts and Master of Music degree candidates must complete their degree within six calendar years after their first graduate registration at Kent State University. Any credit transferred for meeting degree requirements must also have been earned within the six-year period.

Ph.D. degree candidates must complete their degree within nine calendar years after their first doctoral registration at Kent State University. Any credit transferred for meeting degree requirements must also have been earned within the nine-year period.

Workshop Credit

A maximum 4 credit hours of workshop credit may be applied toward certain graduate degrees. The credit hours must pertain to the degree emphasis. Only workshop credits earned with a B grade or higher may be transferred into a program.

About This Program

The Ph.D. degree in Music Theory–Composition prepares composers, research scholars and college/university teachers in the areas of music theory and composition. This degree program is based on the premise that original composition of high quality requires a strong background in theory, and that significant scholarship in theory requires experience in original composition.

School of Music Graduate Study

Program Requirements

Each student will be accepted as a major in a specific curricular area. It may be necessary for the student to complete Kent State University requirements for the appropriate undergraduate degree. Students' academic requirements are based on the catalog in effect during their first semester at Kent State University. Students may elect to complete their degrees under the most recent catalog, but must comply with all the new requirements relevant to their program under the new catalog.

Master's Thesis, Essay, Recital and Final Oral Examination

All Master of Music degree candidates in Performance must perform two recitals or one recital and write an essay depending on their specific degree requirements. Final oral examinations are required for all masters programs. The final oral examination may be attempted two times.

Research Tool Requirement

Candidates for the Master of Arts degree in Ethnomusicology must demonstrate a reading and understanding knowledge of one foreign language. Credit hours earned in meeting this requirement are not applied toward the credit hour requirement for the program.

For Ph.D. degree candidates in Music Theory - Composition, this requirement may be either a reading translating knowledge of one foreign language or demonstrated competence in an area of research specified by the doctoral advisory committee and approved by the Graduate Studies Committee. Credit hours earned in meeting this requirement are not applied toward the credit hour requirement for the program. For Ph.D. degree candidates in Music Education, this requirement is MUS 73283 and related research methods courses in the College of Education, Health and Human Services. These courses are applied toward the credit hour requirement for the program.

Ph.D. Candidacy Exams, Dissertation and Dissertation Defense

Doctoral candidates will take a comprehensive examination upon completion of their coursework and research tool requirement. This candidacy exam normally takes place within four years of beginning coursework. All doctoral candidates write and defend a dissertation via a final oral examination. The dissertation phase normally is completed within five years of passing the candidacy exams.

Time Limits

Master of Arts and Master of Music degree candidates must complete their degree within six calendar years after their first graduate registration at Kent State University. Any credit transferred for meeting degree requirements must also have been earned within the six-year period.

Ph.D. degree candidates must complete their degree within nine calendar years after their first doctoral registration at Kent State University. Any credit transferred for meeting degree requirements must also have been earned within the nine-year period.

Workshop Credit

A maximum 4 credit hours of workshop credit may be applied toward certain graduate degrees. The credit hours must pertain to the degree emphasis. Only workshop credits earned with a B grade or higher may be transferred into a program.

Full Description

The Master of Music degree in Performance is designed to prepare students for professional careers in music.

The Performance major includes the following optional concentrations:

- The Composition concentration provides students the opportunity to compose works for various mediums and see them through to performance.
- The Conducting concentration provides students the opportunity to develop advanced competencies in musicianship and analysis and a broad gestural vocabulary, building on their baccalaureate training.

Voice, instrumental and piano performance students who do not declare a concentration have the opportunity to build their technical and interpretive skills to prepare informed and artistic performances.

Admission Requirements

The university affirmatively strives to provide educational opportunities and access to students with varied backgrounds, those with special talents and adult students who graduated from high school three or more years ago.

Admission to this major is selective. Students must audition before being admitted to the Dance major. More information about dance auditions can be found on the school website.

International Students: All international students must provide proof of proficiency of the English language (unless they meet specific exceptions) through the submission of an English language proficiency test score or by completing English language classes at Kent State's English as a Second Language Center before entering their program. For more information, visit the admissions website for international students.

Program Learning Outcomes

Graduates of this program will be able to:

1. Perform a wide range of dance works with an intentional focus on the inclusion of Western and non-Western dance forms.
2. Articulate and communicate an embodied understanding of diverse dance forms; their histories, including the role of oppression; and their relationship and representation in the contemporary era of dance.
3. Articulate and demonstrate dance theory, aesthetics, pedagogy and choreography.
4. Create, revise, reflect and present choreography.

Physical Activity and ROTC Courses

No more than 4 credit hours of Physical Activity, Wellness and Sport (PWS) courses or the first 16 credit hours of ROTC courses—Aerospace Studies (ASTU) and Military Studies (MSCI)—may apply to the 120 credit hours required for graduation.

Veterans who have completed a minimum of one year of active duty may receive PWS credit for military basic training according to branch of service, as follows:

- Army and Marine Corps, 3 credit hours;
- Navy and Coast Guard, 2 credit hours;
- Air Force, 1 credit hour.

Requirement Audit

Upon completion of 60 credit hours, each student is required to contact the College of the Arts Advising office to obtain a current evaluation of progress toward completion of the student's chosen degree program. Requirement evaluations are not a substitute for meeting with a faculty advisor. Students may access GPS (Graduation Planning System) audit through their FlashLine account which provides them with information about their academic progress. Questions about GPS audits are answered in the College of the Arts Advising office.

Full Description

The Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in Dance develops technically sound, intellectually diverse and creatively expressive dance artists who can contribute significantly to the art form and society. The curriculum provides students with opportunities for strong and varied technical preparation in contemporary dance forms, including modern, ballet, jazz and improvisation. Opportunities for performance and choreography, along with dance theory courses, complete a degree focused on the artist/scholar.

Admission Requirements

The university affirmatively strives to provide educational opportunities and access to students with varied backgrounds, those with special talents and adult students.

First-Year Students on the Kent Campus: First-year admission policy on the Kent Campus is selective. Admission decisions are based upon cumulative grade point average, strength of high school college preparatory curriculum and grade trends. Students not admissible to the Kent Campus may be administratively referred to one of the seven regional campuses to begin their college coursework. For more information, visit the admissions website for first-year students.

First-Year Students on the Regional Campuses: First-year admission to Kent State's campuses at Ashtabula, East Liverpool, Geauga, Salem, Stark, Trumbull and Tuscarawas, as well as the Twinsburg Academic Center, is open to anyone with a high school diploma or its equivalent. For more information on admissions, contact the Regional Campuses admissions offices.

International Students: All international students must provide proof of proficiency of the English language (unless they meet specific exceptions) through the submission of an English language proficiency test score or by completing English language classes at Kent State's English as a Second Language Center before entering their program. For more information, visit the admissions website for international students.

Former Students: Former Kent State students who have not attended another institution since Kent State and were not academically dismissed will complete the re-enrollment process through the Financial, Billing and Enrollment Center. Former students who attended another college or university since leaving Kent State must apply for admissions as a transfer or post-undergraduate student.

Transfer Students: Students who attended an educational institution after graduating from high school or earning their GED must apply as transfer students. For more information, visit the admissions website for transfer students.

Admission policies for undergraduate students may be found in the University Catalog's Academic Policies.

Students may be required to meet certain criteria to progress in their program. Any progression requirements will be listed on the program's Coursework tab

Program Learning Outcomes

Graduates of this program will be able to:

1. Perform a wide range of dance works within Western and non-Western dance forms.
2. Articulate and communicate an embodied understanding of diverse dance forms; their histories, including the role of oppression; and their relationship and representation in the contemporary era of dance.
3. Articulate and demonstrate dance theory, aesthetics, pedagogy and choreography.
4. Create, revise, reflect and present choreography.
5. Articulate a relationship between their dance studies and a secondary concentration, minor or double major, as applicable.

Program Policies

Physical Activity and ROTC Courses

No more than 4 credit hours of Physical Activity, Wellness and Sport (PWS) courses or the first 16 credit hours of ROTC courses—Aerospace Studies (ASTU) and Military Studies (MSCI)—may apply to the 120 credit hours required for graduation.

Veterans who have completed a minimum of one year of active duty may receive PWS credit for military basic training according to branch of service, as follows:

- Army and Marine Corps, 3 credit hours;
- Navy and Coast Guard, 2 credit hours;
- Air Force, 1 credit hour.

Requirement Audit

Upon completion of 60 credit hours, each student is required to contact the College of the Arts Advising office to obtain a current evaluation of progress toward completion of the student's chosen degree program. Requirement evaluations are not a substitute for meeting with a faculty advisor. Students may access GPS (Graduation Planning System) audit through their FlashLine account which provides them with information about their academic progress. Questions about GPS audits are answered in the College of the Arts Advising office.

Full Description

The Bachelor of Arts degree in Dance Studies allows students who have previous dance experience and a strong interest in another subject area, within or outside of the arts, the opportunity to combine the two into one plan of study. The curriculum provides students with a solid foundation in dance techniques and dance academics while allowing flexibility to incorporate another area or minor.

The B.A. degree program encourages exploration of areas that can be combined with dance to enhance opportunities for future employment.

* Source of occupation titles and labor data comes from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics' Occupational Outlook Handbook. Data comprises projected percent change in employment over the next 10 years; nation-wide employment numbers; and the yearly median wage at which half of the workers in the occupation earned more than that amount and half earned less.

Admission Requirements

The university affirmatively strives to provide educational opportunities and access to students with varied backgrounds, those with special talents and adult students who graduated from high school three or more years ago.

Admission to this major is selective. Applicants must pass an audition in each of the three performance areas — dance, singing and acting — to be admitted. Students who pass the audition are admitted directly into the major in the first semester of their first year at Kent State. In exceptional cases, students may be admitted to the program in the second semester of their first year.

International Students: All international students must provide proof of proficiency of the English language (unless they meet specific exceptions) through the submission of an English language proficiency test score or by completing English language classes at Kent State's English as a Second Language Center before entering their program. For more information, visit the admissions website for international students.

Upon completion of 60 credit hours, each student is required to contact the College of the Arts Advising office to obtain a current evaluation of progress toward completion of the student's chosen degree program. Requirement evaluations are not a substitute for meeting with a faculty advisor. Students may access GPS (Graduation Planning System) audit through their FlashLine account which provides them with information about their academic progress. Questions about GPS audits are answered in the College of the Arts Advising office.

Full Description

The Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in Musical Theatre prepares students for life as working artists in the musical theatre field. Practical training and creative experiences are coupled with an interdisciplinary liberal arts curriculum and a foundation in theatre history, analysis and criticism.

Students are able to study and perform in the school's theatrical and dance productions. Kent State's Center for the Performing Arts houses three theatres, performance and rehearsal spaces, costume shop and laboratories for costumes, drafting, lighting and scenery. In addition, the School of Theatre and Dance oversees the outdoor venue Porthouse Theatre.

Students in their senior year may participate in the annual New York City Musical Theatre Showcase, which enables students to perform for prospective casting directors, talent managers and theatrical and commercial agents.

Progression Requirements

Students are expected to participate in at least one main-stage production each semester, which may be in addition to any production design assignment.

Graduation Requirements

Minimum Major GPA	Minimum Overall GPA
-	3.000

- No more than one-half of a graduate student's coursework may be taken in 50000-level courses.
- Grades below C are not counted toward completion of requirements for the degree.

Culminating Requirement

The culminating project requirements include documentation, portfolio presentation and an exit interview. Documentation consists of a design analysis, process journal, relevant research and other supporting materials (e.g., photos, links to the candidate's website). The scope of work may include, but not necessarily be limited to, evidence of research, drawing and drafting, rendering and associated digital image, video or audio files, which will be presented at an exit interview. The topic of each M.F.A. candidate's culminating project will be proposed by the candidate and based on faculty feedback from yearly portfolio and academic assessments. The student will register for THEA 61310 for the student's project assignment. The process is then documented in a format appropriate for the project and presented to the faculty advisor.

Program Learning Outcomes

Graduates of this program will be able to:

1. Demonstrate advanced creative and technical abilities to develop the design of a production from concept to finished product through collaborative efforts.
2. Analyze text, music and dance and the ways that historical, critical and theoretical content inform acting, directing and design.
3. Produce and communicate design ideas and accurate production models, paperwork, and drawings by hand and/or through the use of current industry standard software in a professional setting.
4. Demonstrate the integration of current technology, tools and methods, and health and safety practices in one's area of specialization.
5. Prepare and present a professional resume and a portfolio of design- and technology-related work that demonstrate one's abilities, strengths, processes and experiences.
6. Demonstrate and model professional ethics and practice.

Full Description

The Master of Fine Arts degree in Theatre Design and Technology is a terminal degree designed for those who are interested in achieving the artistry and skills necessary to qualify as practicing professionals in the entertainment industry and/or professional theatre educators. The program is a three-year course of study with a flexible curriculum for students to explore areas of special interest.

The Theatre Design and Technology major comprises the following concentrations:

- The Costume Design and Technology concentration prepares students for careers in the entertainment industry, professional theatre or theatre education. Students study both design and technology, including related areas such as dye techniques, costume crafts and wigs and makeup. Students also design costumes for main-stage departmental productions. The curriculum includes core classes in theatre history, dramatic theory and historical periods.
- The Lighting Design concentration balances instruction and experience in lighting design with instruction and experience in lighting technology. Studies include digital rendering, CAD, lighting technology and automated lighting. Students research and study all of aspects of theatrical lighting, including the design process from concept to execution, communication skills, integration of technology into design, documentation of the work and critical evaluation of the work.
- The Scene Design concentration balances focused classroom instruction with practical design and production experience. Students also study related artisan areas such as digital and traditional rendering techniques, 3D CAD, props, fabrication, scene painting and presentation techniques with particular emphasis on integrating contemporary digital techniques into the design process. The curriculum contains courses in construction theory, rigging, costume crafts and projection/media design.
- The Technical Direction concentration provides students with training and practical experiences in planning main stage productions for the School of Theatre and Dance. Studies focus on safety and all logistics of production assembly, including touring and dance. Technical directors have the opportunity work in four very different theatre spaces: black box, large proscenium, thrust and open outdoor.

Admission Requirements

The university affirmatively strives to provide educational opportunities and access to students with varied backgrounds, those with special talents and adult students.

First-Year Students on the Kent Campus: First-year admission policy on the Kent Campus is selective. Admission decisions are based upon cumulative grade point average, strength of high school college preparatory curriculum and grade trends. Students not admissible to the Kent Campus may be administratively referred to one of the seven regional campuses to begin their college coursework. For more information, visit the admissions website for first-year students.

First-Year Students on the Regional Campuses: First-year admission to Kent State's campuses at Ashtabula, East Liverpool, Geauga, Salem, Stark, Trumbull and Tuscarawas, as well as the Twinsburg Academic Center, is open to anyone with a high school diploma or its equivalent. For more information on admissions, contact the Regional Campuses admissions offices.

International Students: All international students must provide proof of proficiency of the English language (unless they meet specific exceptions) through the submission of an English language proficiency test score or by completing English language classes at Kent State's English as a Second Language Center before entering their program. For more information, visit the admissions website for international students.

Former Students: Former Kent State students who have not attended another institution since Kent State and were not academically dismissed will complete the re-enrollment process through the Financial, Billing and Enrollment Center. Former students who attended another college or university since leaving Kent State must apply for admissions as a transfer or post-undergraduate student.

Transfer Students: Students who attended an educational institution after graduating from high school or earning their GED must apply as transfer students. For more information, visit the admissions website for transfer students.

Admission policies for undergraduate students may be found in the University Catalog's Academic Policies.

Students may be required to meet certain criteria to progress in their program. Any progression requirements will be listed on the program's Coursework tab

University Requirements

All students in a bachelor's degree program at Kent State University must complete the following university requirements for graduation.

NOTE: University requirements may be fulfilled in this program by specific course requirements. Please see Program Requirements for details.

Flashes 101 (UC 10001)	1 credit hour
Diversity Domestic/Global (DIVD/DIVG)	2 courses
Students must successfully complete one domestic and one global course, of which one must be from the Kent Core.
Experiential Learning Requirement (ELR)	varies
Students must successfully complete one course or approved experience.
Kent Core (see table below)	36-37 credit hours
Writing-Intensive Course (WIC)	1 course
Students must earn a minimum C grade in the course.
Upper-Division Requirement	39 credit hours
Students must successfully complete 39 upper-division (numbered 30000 to 49999) credit hours to graduate.
Total Credit Hour Requirement	120 credit hours

Kent Core Requirements

Kent Core Composition (KCMP)	6
Kent Core Mathematics and Critical Reasoning (KMCR)	3
Kent Core Humanities and Fine Arts (KHUM/KFA) (min one course each)	9
Kent Core Social Sciences (KSS) (must be from two disciplines)	6

Kent Core Basic Sciences (KBS/KLAB) (must include one laboratory)	6-7
Kent Core Additional (KADL)	6

Program Learning Outcomes

Graduates of this program will be able to:

1. Articulate basic elements and principles of design theory and composition.
2. Produce and communicate design ideas and accurate production models, paperwork and drawings by hand and/or through the use of current industry standard software programs.
3. Describe the full process of design and production for a finished production, including the roles that various personnel play in the mounting of a finished production.
4. Articulate and use best practices and industry standards related to safety for theatrical venues and production elements.
5. Prepare and present a professional resume and a portfolio of design/production work that demonstrate one's cumulative accomplishments.
6. Recognize and evaluate a diverse selection of contemporary and historical theatre repertory.
7. Apply theories to and perform technical skills in a variety of realized stage productions.

Physical Activity and ROTC Courses

No more than 4 credit hours of Physical Activity, Wellness and Sport (PWS) courses or the first 16 credit hours of ROTC courses—Aerospace Studies (ASTU) and Military Studies (MSCI)—may apply to the 120 credit hours required for graduation.

Veterans who have completed a minimum of one year of active duty may receive PWS credit for military basic training according to branch of service, as follows:

- Army and Marine Corps, 3 credit hours;
- Navy and Coast Guard, 2 credit hours;
- Air Force, 1 credit hour.

Requirement Audit

Upon completion of 60 credit hours, each student is required to contact the College of the Arts Advising office to obtain a current evaluation of progress toward completion of the student's chosen degree program. Requirement evaluations are not a substitute for meeting with a faculty advisor. Students may access GPS (Graduation Planning System) audit through their FlashLine account which provides them with information about their academic progress. Questions about GPS audits are answered in the College of the Arts Advising office.

Full Description

The Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in Theatre Design, Technology and Production fosters the artistic development of theatre designers, technicians and artisans. Students study both traditional theatre practices and new methods, materials and technologies. Students must demonstrate continued progress through annual portfolio reviews, course work and production responsibilities. In addition, students are expected to complete a significant production assignment each semester.

In the major, students apply design and technology concepts for the school's theatrical and dance productions. Kent State's Center for the Performing Arts houses three theatres, performance and rehearsal space, a scene shop, a costume shop and laboratories for costumes, drafting, lighting and scenery. In addition, the School of Theatre and Dance oversees the outdoor venue Porthouse Theatre.

The B.F.A. degree program prepares students for M.F.A. degree study, as well as such occupations as scenic designer, costume designer, lighting designer, sound/projection designer, prop master, scenic artist, stage manager, production manager, wardrobe supervisor, technical director and stage technicians.

Graduation Requirements

Minimum Major GPA	Minimum Overall GPA
2.500	2.000

- Students must declare and graduate with a minor or another major (double major or dual degree) to earn the B.A. degree in Theatre Studies.
- Students on academic probation may not participate in School of Theatre and Dance productions.
- Students may be dropped from the program for failure to maintain a 2.500 GPA.

Roadmap

This roadmap is a recommended semester-by-semester plan of study for this program. Students will work with their advisor to develop a sequence based on their academic goals and history. Courses designated as critical (!) must be completed in the semester listed to ensure a timely graduation.

University Requirements

All students in a bachelor's degree program at Kent State University must complete the following university requirements for graduation.

NOTE: University requirements may be fulfilled in this program by specific course requirements. Please see Program Requirements for details.

Flashes 101 (UC 10001)	1 credit hour
Diversity Domestic/Global (DIVD/DIVG)	2 courses
Students must successfully complete one domestic and one global course, of which one must be from the Kent Core.
Experiential Learning Requirement (ELR)	varies
Students must successfully complete one course or approved experience.
Kent Core (see table below)	36-37 credit hours

Writing-Intensive Course (WIC)	1 course
Students must earn a minimum C grade in the course.
Upper-Division Requirement	39 credit hours
Students must successfully complete 39 upper-division (numbered 30000 to 49999) credit hours to graduate.
Total Credit Hour Requirement	120 credit hours

Kent Core Requirements

Kent Core Composition (KCMP)	6
Kent Core Mathematics and Critical Reasoning (KMCR)	3
Kent Core Humanities and Fine Arts (KHUM/KFA) (min one course each)	9
Kent Core Social Sciences (KSS) (must be from two disciplines)	6
Kent Core Basic Sciences (KBS/KLAB) (must include one laboratory)	6-7
Kent Core Additional (KADL)	6

Program Learning Outcomes

Graduates of this program will be able to:

1. Articulate procedures and approaches to differentiate various theatrical styles and techniques.
2. Examine playwriting and production processes and the artistic and cultural forces that shape them.
3. Apply intermediate to advanced skills in one or more theatre specializations in creation, performance or scholarship.
4. Evaluate a diverse selection of theatre repertory.
5. Describe the basic process involved in mounting a theatre production.
6. Synthesize research, performance and/or production.

Program Policies

Physical Activity and ROTC Courses

No more than 4 credit hours of Physical Activity, Wellness and Sport (PWS) courses or the first 16 credit hours of ROTC courses—Aerospace Studies (ASTU) and Military Studies (MSCI)—may apply to the 120 credit hours required for graduation.

Veterans who have completed a minimum of one year of active duty may receive PWS credit for military basic training according to branch of service, as follows:

- Army and Marine Corps, 3 credit hours;
- Navy and Coast Guard, 2 credit hours;
- Air Force, 1 credit hour.

Requirement Audit

Upon completion of 60 credit hours, each student is required to contact the College of the Arts Advising office to obtain a current evaluation of progress toward completion of the student's chosen degree program. Requirement evaluations are not a substitute for meeting with a faculty advisor. Students may access GPS (Graduation Planning System) audit through their FlashLine account which provides them with information about their academic progress. Questions about GPS audits are answered in the College of the Arts Advising office.

Full Description

The Bachelor of Arts degree in Theatre Studies gives students an opportunity for study in all aspects of theatre and its relationship to other liberal arts studies. This program serves students who seek a wider range of possibilities to fulfill individual creative goals, whether as theatre artists, scholars, educators and/or contributors in related fields. Students receive thorough grounding in theatre history and theory and learn imaginative and critical thinking, the process of making theatre and leadership skills.

The Theatre Studies major comprises the following concentrations:

- The General Studies concentration combines the study of dramatic literature, production and performance work.
- The Performance concentration offers in-depth training in acting. Through a series of acting courses, students learn a variety of acting styles and techniques applicable to both stage and screen.
- The Production concentration offers specified training in one or more design, technology and production specializations.

In addition, students in the Theatre Studies major must declare another major or a minor at Kent State.

Graduate College (GCOL)

GCOL 60098 RESEARCH 1-6 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) Independent research or scholarly activity for master's level graduate students conducted under the supervision of a faculty member.
Prerequisite: Graduate standing.
Schedule Type: Research
Contact Hours: 3-18 other
Grade Mode: Standard Letter-IP

GCOL 60100 APPLICATIONS IN DESIGN THINKING AND INNOVATION 3 Credit Hours
(Slashed with GCOL 80100) This course blends analytical skills, intuition and creative thinking to develop practical solutions to real world problems. This will be a reflective lecture and small project-based course that addresses the programmatic, technical, business, social and human factors of design in a way that leads to innovation(s) in the development of integrated solutions. After being introduced to essential concepts, students, working in interdisciplinary teams, will learn how to engage with end users, effectively frame problems, identify potential solutions, build prototypes to test assumptions and learn what works (and doesn't).
Prerequisite: Graduate standing.
Schedule Type: Laboratory, Lecture, Combined Lecture and Lab
Contact Hours: 2 lecture, 2 lab
Grade Mode: Standard Letter

GCOL 61001 WORKSHOP IN COLLEGE TEACHING 1 Credit Hour
(Slashed with GCOL 71001) Orientation to college teaching for new teaching assistants.
Prerequisite: Graduate standing.
Schedule Type: Workshop
Contact Hours: 1 other
Grade Mode: Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory

GCOL 61094 COLLEGE TEACHING 2 Credit Hours
(Slashed with GCOL 71094) Training, supervision and evaluation in college-level instruction.
Prerequisite: Graduate standing.
Schedule Type: Lecture
Contact Hours: 2 lecture
Grade Mode: Standard Letter

GCOL 61095 SPECIAL TOPICS 1-4 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) (Slashed with GCOL 81095) Special topics in graduate education announced when scheduled. Specialized offerings in response to emerging trends or topics intended to encourage interdisciplinary study to cover areas not treated adequately in traditional coursework and to make available promptly the new and significant experience of graduate faculty.
Prerequisite: Graduate standing.
Schedule Type: Lecture
Contact Hours: 1-4 other
Grade Mode: Standard Letter

GCOL 61096 INDIVIDUAL INVESTIGATION 1-3 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) Individual investigation as agreed upon by the instructor and student.
Prerequisite: Graduate standing.
Schedule Type: Individual Investigation
Contact Hours: 3-9 other
Grade Mode: Standard Letter-IP

GCOL 61195 SPECIAL TOPICS SEMINAR 1-4 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) (Slashed with GCOL 81195) Variable topic seminar; varies per course offering.
Prerequisite: Graduate standing.
Schedule Type: Seminar
Contact Hours: 1-4 other
Grade Mode: Standard Letter

GCOL 71001 WORKSHOP IN COLLEGE TEACHING 1 Credit Hour
(Slashed with GCOL 61001) Orientation to college teaching for new teaching assistants.
Prerequisite: Doctoral standing.
Schedule Type: Workshop
Contact Hours: 1 other
Grade Mode: Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory

GCOL 71094 COLLEGE TEACHING 2 Credit Hours
(Slashed with GCOL 61094) Training, supervision and evaluation in college-level instruction.
Prerequisite: Doctoral standing.
Schedule Type: Lecture
Contact Hours: 2 lecture
Grade Mode: Standard Letter

GCOL 80098 RESEARCH 1-6 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) Independent research or scholarly activity for doctoral-level graduate students conducted under the supervision of a faculty member.
Prerequisite: Doctoral standing.
Schedule Type: Research
Contact Hours: 3-18 other
Grade Mode: Standard Letter-IP

Mission of the College

The mission of the Honors College is to provide an enriched educational experience for academically motivated and talented students at Kent State University. We welcome students of diverse backgrounds and are firmly committed to advancing a diverse, inclusive and equitable community of scholars. We affirm that all members of the Honors College community are valued for their contributions and treated with dignity and respect. Each student in the college plays a vital role in enhancing and influencing critical debate, critical thinking and learning from each other through their individual stories and lived experiences. This synergy creates a unique and inclusive foundation on which students can explore and develop their sense of belonging.

Founded in 1933, the Honors College is at the center of Kent State University's tradition of providing special attention to undergraduates with outstanding intellectual and creative ability. Within the framework of the larger university, with its diverse academic programs and excellent research and library facilities, the Honors College offers students enriched and challenging courses and programs, opportunities for close relationships with their peers and faculty, and careful advising to meet their interests and goals.

Academic Programs

Special Programs - Non-Degree

- Honors Program

Design Innovation (DI)

DI 10010 SURVEY OF DESIGN INNOVATION NODES 3 Credit Hours
Develop awareness and actively utilize the wide array of shared-resource laboratories and environments across Kent State University's eight campus system that are connected as part of the Design Innovation (DI) Ecosystem. Explore the context of maker-communities, emerging technologies and social innovation resources while working in collaborative cross-disciplinary teams to tackle projects that intentionally connect the capabilities of multiple DI Nodes.
Prerequisite: None.
Schedule Type: Lecture
Contact Hours: 3 lecture
Grade Mode: Standard Letter

DI 20020 BE SMARTER THAN YOUR SMARTPHONE 3 Credit Hours
This course uses the development of the smart phone to illustrate the multi-disciplinary nature of design and innovation. It provides an understanding of the technologies that make the smartphone possible. Specifically, the course covers the role of research and design in product development, the changed in patterns and nature of our communications through smartphones, and the implications for businesses, markets and society. The aim of this course is to introduce the multidisciplinary nature of innovation using the smartphone as an example. It presents the complexities, challenges, and opportunities that the smartphone has created.
Prerequisite: None.
Schedule Type: Lecture
Contact Hours: 3 lecture
Grade Mode: Standard Letter

DI 20100 INTRODUCTION TO DESIGN INNOVATION 3 Credit Hours
This course blends analytical skills, intuition and creative thinking to develop practical solutions to real world problems. Students will gain a high-level understanding of the design process through team-based projects tackling challenges. Design thinking, methods and strategies offer novel ways to discover market opportunities, experiment to validate concepts and mitigate risk, and deliver value to all. This will be a reflective lecture and small project-based course that addresses the programmatic, technical, business, social and human factors of design in a way that leads to innovation(s) in the development of integrated solutions. Learn how to engage with end users, effectively frame problems, identify potential solutions, build prototypes to test assumptions and learn what works (and doesn't). Then dive into a range of ways large and small to bring design innovation into your daily life.
Prerequisite: None.
Schedule Type: Laboratory, Lecture, Combined Lecture and Lab
Contact Hours: 2 lecture, 3 lab
Grade Mode: Standard Letter

DI 30099 CHALLENGE-BASED INNOVATION (ELR) 3 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) Challenge-Based Innovation (CBI) is a project and problem-based learning course, where multidisciplinary student teams and their instructors collaborate with faculty researchers, community and industry partners to discover novel solutions for the future of humankind. The projects are an elaborate mixture, proposed by cross-disciplinary faculty teams and derived from using research to tackle messy or complex problems to meet societal, human-driven needs. The multidisciplinary student teams act as catalysts in creating novel solutions to pressing problems.
Prerequisite: None.
Schedule Type: Laboratory, Lecture, Combined Lecture and Lab, Project or Capstone
Contact Hours: 2 lecture, 3 lab
Grade Mode: Standard Letter
Attributes: Experiential Learning Requirement

DI 49095 SPECIAL TOPICS IN DESIGN INNOVATION STUDIO 1-6 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) Analysis and cross-disciplinary problem-solving of significant and current issues in design innovation not covered in existing design innovation courses. This studio course is offered when opportunities and resources permit; the topic is announced when the course is scheduled.
Prerequisite: None.
Schedule Type: Studio
Contact Hours: 2-6 other
Grade Mode: Standard Letter

DI 49099 DESIGN INNOVATION WORKSHOP (ELR) 1-4 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) This course supports brief, intensive and interactive activities that address a narrowly defined range of problems in which the content is practical and concentrates on the acquisition of specific information and skills related to practices in design innovation. The variable credit format allows for intensive challenges that might occur in short periods, and that it might be focused on a single problem.
Prerequisite: None.
Schedule Type: Project or Capstone, Workshop
Contact Hours: 1-4 other
Grade Mode: Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory

DI 49995 SPECIAL TOPICS IN DESIGN INNOVATION 1-3 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) Analysis and cross-disciplinary problem-solving of significant and current issues in design innovation not covered in existing design innovation courses. This course is offered when opportunities and resources permit; the topic is announced when the course is scheduled.
Prerequisite: None.
Schedule Type: Lecture
Contact Hours: 1-3 lecture
Grade Mode: Standard Letter

DI 49999 DESIGN INNOVATION GRAND CHALLENGES STUDIO PROJECT (ELR) 3 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) A cross disciplinary project-based capstone course that collaboratively focuses on a single grand challenge. Challenges range from those identified by GrandChallenges.org, "solving global health and development problems for those most in need" to one of the "Grand Challenges for Engineering", to one from the list regularly updated by the National Science Foundation, to a pressing challenge identified by the faculty. Taught by a multidisciplinary team of primary instructors with input from industry leaders with complementary expertise, the collaborative effort of students, faculty members, industry partners and-or community leaders, focuses on developing robust multi-perspective, actionable solutions considering multiple criteria including but not limited to technical, socio-cultural and economic dimensions. Outcomes range from early designs, to physical prototypes or policy solutions with an understanding of how to take them to a next phase. Travel component may be included.
Prerequisite: None.
Schedule Type: Project or Capstone
Contact Hours: 6 other
Grade Mode: Standard Letter
Attributes: Experiential Learning Requirement

HONR 10010 HONORS LEADERSHIP ACADEMY 2 Credit Hours
This course will examine effective leadership in the public and nonprofit sectors from both a theoretical and practical perspective. Using course readings, discussions, and assignments students will be challenged and equipped to serve as actively engaged citizens at the university and in the greater community. Students will examine the complexities of generational leadership, working in groups, using effective communication, inspiring a shared vision and purpose, group problem solving, and decision making, ethical leadership, civic engagement, and leading in communities of difference. This class will feature multiple learning methods including lectures, class discussion, case studies, group exercises, in and out-of-class assignments, presentations, and self-reflection. This course aims to teach first semester Honors freshmen students how to be engaged Honors College leaders from the beginning of their college career.
Prerequisite: None.
Schedule Type: Seminar
Contact Hours: 2 lecture
Grade Mode: Standard Letter

HONR 10096 INDIVIDUAL HONORS WORK 1-4 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) Directed independent study for freshmen in any department.
Prerequisite: Special approval of department.
Schedule Type: Individual Investigation
Contact Hours: 1-4 other
Grade Mode: Standard Letter-IP

HONR 10197 FRESHMAN HONORS COLLOQUIUM I (KCMP) 3 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) Required of all honors freshmen and can be taken in lieu of College Writing. Stresses exploration, discussion and communication of ideas expressed in works related to theme of colloquium.
Prerequisite: Admitted to the Honors College.
Schedule Type: Colloquium
Contact Hours: 3 lecture
Grade Mode: Standard Letter
Attributes: Kent Core Composition

HONR 10297 FRESHMAN HONORS COLLOQUIUM II (KCMP) 3 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) Continuation of HONR 10197, and can be taken in lieu of ENG 21011.
Prerequisite: Admitted to the Honors College.
Schedule Type: Colloquium
Contact Hours: 3 lecture
Grade Mode: Standard Letter
Attributes: Kent Core Composition

HONR 13597 COLLOQUIUM: THE WESTERN IDENTITY (KADL) 3 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) Focuses on Western and non-Western cultures from a comparative perspective, in order to identify both different and shared values and to see how one's own culture shapes one's perspective, ideology, and values.
Prerequisite: Admitted to the Honors College; and special approval.
Schedule Type: Colloquium
Contact Hours: 3 lecture
Grade Mode: Standard Letter
Attributes: Kent Core Additional

HONR 20096 INDIVIDUAL HONORS WORK 1-4 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) Directed independent study for sophomores in any department.
Prerequisite: Special approval of the department.
Schedule Type: Individual Investigation
Contact Hours: 1-4 other
Grade Mode: Standard Letter-IP

HONR 20197 SOPHOMORE COLLOQUIUM 1-4 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) One-semester course or two-semester sequence exploring interdisciplinary ideas and issues related to a single theme, by means of readings, discussion and individual papers and projects.
Prerequisite: Admitted to the Honors College.
Schedule Type: Colloquium
Contact Hours: 1-4 other
Grade Mode: Standard Letter-IP

HONR 30096 INDIVIDUAL HONORS WORK 1-4 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) Directed independent study for juniors in any department.
Prerequisite: Special approval of department.
Schedule Type: Individual Investigation
Contact Hours: 1-4 other
Grade Mode: Standard Letter-IP

HONR 30197 JUNIOR COLLOQUIUM 1-4 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) One-semester course or two-semester sequence for juniors or seniors exploring interdisciplinary ideas and issues related to single theme, by means of readings, discussion and individual papers and projects.
Prerequisite: Admitted to the Honors College.
Schedule Type: Colloquium
Contact Hours: 1-4 other
Grade Mode: Standard Letter-IP

HONR 30297 JUNIOR COLLOQUIUM 1-4 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) One-semester course or two-semester sequence for juniors or seniors exploring interdisciplinary ideas and issues related to single theme, by means of readings, discussion and individual papers and projects.
Prerequisite: Admitted to the Honors College.
Schedule Type: Colloquium
Contact Hours: 1-4 other
Grade Mode: Standard Letter-IP

HONR 40085 SENIOR HONORS PORTFOLIO 1 Credit Hour
Construction of a senior portfolio, consisting of a collection of artifacts and a reflective essay interpreting the student's growth during the college years.
Prerequisite: Senior standing.
Schedule Type: Individual Investigation
Contact Hours: 1 other
Grade Mode: Standard Letter-IP

HONR 40096 INDIVIDUAL HONORS WORK 1-4 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) Directed independent study for seniors in any department.
Prerequisite: Prior special approval of instructor; and special approval of and preregistration with Honors College.
Schedule Type: Individual Investigation
Contact Hours: 1-4 other
Grade Mode: Standard Letter-IP

HONR 40099 SENIOR HONORS THESIS/PROJECT (ELR) 1-10 Credit Hours
(Repeatable for credit) Thesis or creative project.
Prerequisite: Special approval of department.
Schedule Type: Senior Project/Honors Thesis
Contact Hours: 1-10 other
Grade Mode: Standard Letter-IP
Attributes: Experiential Learning Requirement

HONR 40197 SENIOR COLLOQUIUM 1-4 Credit Hours

Admission Requirements

The Honors College seeks incoming students who demonstrate the potential for superior academic and creative ability at Kent State University. Admission to the Honors College for new undergraduate students is by invitation only. In addition to reviewing the student's admission application, the college conducts a holistic review of many variables, including, but not limited to, high school performance (curriculum, grade point average), essay, extra-curricular activities and work experiences. Standardized tests are considered but not required for admission to the Honors College.

Program Requirements

Honors section of courses can be used to meet requirements in all degree granting colleges and schools of the university and to also satisfy Kent Core requirements. All new honors students are enrolled in the year-long colloquium (HONR 10197 and HONR 10297). The colloquium is designed to be a rigorous course in reading, thinking and writing about literature and ideas. The goal of the courses are to develop habits of intellectual inquiry, mature understanding and effective communication that will serve the students through the college years and afterward.

Beyond the honors colloquium courses, many Honors courses are offered by distinguished faculty from academic departments throughout the university. Although these courses differ significantly in content, from art to zoology, they share a common form. Class enrollments are small, and students can get to know each other and their professors in an environment that encourages learning through discussion, reading, individual work and writing.

Seniors in the Honors College can conclude their undergraduate careers by completing a sustained scholarly or creative project under faculty guidance. Theses and projects have been submitted by seniors from all of the degree-granting colleges and schools at Kent State University and have ranged over many disciplines and areas of creative endeavor. Novels and plays have been written; research has been undertaken in the natural and social sciences; historical events and periods have been critically analyzed; architectural models have been proposed for urban renewal sites; and paintings and films have been created and exhibited. Each thesis/project attests to the willingness of Honors students to extend learning beyond the classroom to self-directed efforts appropriate to the conclusion of an enriched program of study.

Graduation Requirements

The college offers three programs for Graduation with Honors. Although each has minimum overall GPA requirements, the primary emphasis is on the successful completion of an undergraduate degree program, including a Senior Honors Thesis or Project.

- Graduation with Departmental Honors requires completion of a Senior Honors Thesis or Project and a minimum 3.5 overall GPA. The requirements are sufficiently flexible to enable undergraduates who join the college in their junior year to participate in this program.
- Graduation with General Honors requires completion of a Senior Honors Thesis or Project plus 24 Honors College credit hours and a minimum 3.5 overall GPA.
- Graduation with University Honors requires completion of a Senior Honors Thesis or Project plus 24 Honors College credit hours and a minimum 3.8 overall GPA.

Students who do not wish to complete a Senior Honors Thesis or Project to graduate with Honors may alternatively finish 24 Honors College credit hours and achieve a minimum 3.25 overall GPA to graduate from the university as Honors College Scholars.

The Honors Concept

The Honors College is guided by two basic principles:

- The first is a responsibility to provide academic work that offers intellectual challenge to the best students in the university and demands of them the best effort of which they are capable. To this end, courses are designed to stretch the mind, sharpen skills and encourage high standards of performance.
- The second principle is a belief that, regardless of degree program, students should be liberally educated. That is, they should understand and appreciate the language, literature and history of our culture; the social, political and economic structure of our society; the creative achievements that enrich our lives; and the basic assumptions and substance of the natural sciences. Honors students are, therefore, encouraged to select courses that provide an understanding of the arts, humanities and sciences.

Honors Advising

Students meet with their Honors College advisors at least once per semester. During advising meetings, students are encouraged to develop long-range plans to organize their academic work and co-curricular experiences in accordance with their interests and career aspirations.

Community

The Stopher-Johnson complex is located at the center of campus. Honors student living there have the best of worlds - a nurturing and stimulating experience with other Honors students as well as convenient access to the surrounding Kent State campus community.

The Honors complex includes the three-story Johnson and Stopher Residence Halls, a library/computer room, a reception lobby and advising offices. Students live just steps from the Honors College dean and its academic advisors.

Student involvement in the affairs of the college is a tradition. For example, Honors students are eligible to serve on the Honors College College Advising Committee.

Scholarships

All new students who are admitted to the Honors College will automatically be considered for an Honors College scholarship award. Honors College scholarships are renewable for maximum eight semesters of undergraduate work, provided students remain in good standing with the Honors College. These scholarships are in addition to university awards.

Mission of the College

The mission of the University College is to help foster an inclusive environment that empowers all students to explore, engage and succeed.

The college's record of innovation includes 20 national awards, three internationally certified programs and nearly $10 million in grant funding in the past several years.

Initiatives in the University College for students to succeed include the following:

- Students who regularly attend services offered by the Academic Success Center are 17 percent more likely to return for the next academic year and had a graduation rate 18.9% higher than their classmates.
- Students who attend Academic Success Center sessions GPA 0.26 points, on average, higher than their classmates.
- The college's Office of Career Exploration and Development helps our students find on-campus employment, and these students are more likely to earn higher grades and stay in school.

- Our Career Exploration and Development mantra is “Early and Often” – The results are that first-year students engage in career experiences at the same rate as junior and senior students.
- Students who participate in the Exploratory Advising Center’s Exploratory Learning Community are nearly 10 percent more likely to return to Kent State compared to their peers.
- Student Support Services exceeded all Ohio Department of Education performance goals by 10 percent or more.

Admission Requirements

- Students must have one semester as a degree-seeking student at Kent State prior to their first co-op rotation.
- Students must be enrolled as a half- or full-time student (minimum 6 credit hours) in the semester prior to enrollment in the co-op education program.
- Students must have earned a minimum 2.000 overall GPA at the time of their co-op application.
- Students must have no holds on their student's record from any source (financial, academic, conduct).
- Cooperative position must be approved and relevant to students' career direction.
- Students must have received a completed grade and have resolved any outstanding non-completed grades for previous co-op rotations.
- International students must receive work authorization prior to enrolling in each co-op rotation.

The University College will work with the student's college to assess all applicants holistically, considering their academic progress, related experience, academic and extracurricular activities, among others, to evaluate the student's likelihood of success in the program.

Full Description

Students in Kent State University's Cooperative Education Program (co-op) enhance their degree program by relating theory to practice and applying what they have learned in the classroom to real-life workplace scenarios. This process of "learning by doing" increases student motivation and employability after graduation and maximizes student growth and development. Through a co-op experience, students explore career and academic options, test career choices, increase professional skills and earn money to contribute to educational expenses. Cooperative education experiences are highly desired, selective and in the student's chosen field.

All students participating in a co-op experience must register for COOP 20092 (non-credit, offered through University College) and pay the co-op fee. Enrollment in the course is restricted by special approval, and students may only register after submission and approval of all application forms. Enrollment in the course will ensure the student is designated and reported as a full-time student and permit the student to have access to all student services and resources during the co-op semester. Students participating in a cooperative education course do not earn credit hours the semester away. As a result, students are not eligible to receive federal or state grants, student loans or institutional scholarships. However, students will be reported to their federal loan services as enrolled full-time, allowing for student loans to remain in the in-school deferment status and therefore not enter repayment.

Admission Requirements

The university affirmatively strives to provide educational opportunities and access to students with varied backgrounds, those with special talents and adult students.

First-Year Students on the Kent Campus: First-year admission policy on the Kent Campus is selective. Admission decisions are based upon cumulative grade point average, strength of high school college preparatory curriculum and grade trends. Students not admissible to the Kent Campus may be administratively referred to one of the seven regional campuses to begin their college coursework. For more information, visit the admissions website for first-year students.

First-Year Students on the Regional Campuses: First-year admission to Kent State's campuses at Ashtabula, East Liverpool, Geauga, Salem, Stark, Trumbull and Tuscarawas, as well as the Twinsburg Academic Center, is open to anyone with a high school diploma or its equivalent. For more information on admissions, contact the Regional Campuses admissions offices.

International Students: All international students must provide proof of proficiency of the English language (unless they meet specific exceptions) through the submission of an English language proficiency test score or by completing English language classes at Kent State's English as a Second Language Center before entering their program. For more information, visit the admissions website for international students.

Former Students: Former Kent State students who have not attended another institution since Kent State and were not academically dismissed will complete the re-enrollment process through the Financial, Billing and Enrollment Center. Former students who attended another college or university since leaving Kent State must apply for admissions as a transfer or post-undergraduate student.

Transfer Students: Students who attended an educational institution after graduating from high school or earning their GED must apply as transfer students. For more information, visit the admissions website for transfer students.

Admission policies for undergraduate students may be found in the University Catalog's Academic Policies.

Students may be required to meet certain criteria to progress in their program. Any progression requirements will be listed on the program's Coursework tab

Program Learning Outcomes

Completers of this program will be able to:

1. Identify their majors of#interest.
2. Relate their major interests to future career possibilities.
3. Develop#meaningful relationships within the Exploratory community.

4. Identify available resources and support for individual success.
5. Report feeling confident about declaring their major.

Full Description

The Exploratory pre-major affords a tremendous opportunity for students to engage in meaningful and experience driven self-discovery — leading to confidence in themselves and their major declaration. Students benefit from the guidance, advising and support offered in the Exploratory program. Beginning in a student's first semester, students partner with academic advisors through a personalized exploration process.

The Exploratory pre-major does not lead to a degree. Students must declare a degree-granting major by the time they have earned 45 credit hours at Kent State University.

The Exploratory pre-major is housed in the Exploratory Advising Center. The Exploratory Advising Center values the following:

1. Validating and celebrating the uniqueness of each student
2. Relationship-building and authentic conversations
3. Openness to learning and curiosity
4. Building resiliency and confidence in decision-making
5. Being present in the now and being open to future possibilities

The Exploratory pre-major may be a good fit for students who are:

- Undecided in a major of interest;
- Looking to take time to make an informed decision;
- Wanting to gain a better understanding of themselves;
- Looking to discover different career possibilities; and
- Wanting to build confidence in decision making.

Exploratory students meet with their assigned exploratory advisor at least once a semester. These expert academic advisors are focused on partnering with the student. This partnership includes guiding students through their personalized exploration plan, keeping them on track to declare their major (and staying on track to graduate as planned) and celebrating their major declaration and graduation.

A and AS Levels

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Kent State accepts for credit the successful completion of A (Advanced) Level and AS (Advanced Subsidiary) Level qualification conferred as part of the General Certificate of Education administered by AQA, Edexcel or the University of Cambridge International Examinations.

The A and AS Levels Credit Chart gives information about these exams and credits earned for passed exam reports. The chart reflects Cambridge exam numbers and syllabi, but exams from other sources will be cross-referenced by the Office of Global Education in consultation with faculty upon evaluation of scores.

An official score report must be submitted to Kent State before A- and AS-level credit can be applied to a student's academic record. Specific questions regarding how these credits apply to program requirements should be directed to the student's major program's college office.

Academic Standing - Graduate Student

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Effective Date: Fall 2025
Last Reviewed: Fall 2024
Last Revised: Fall 2013
Next Review: Fall 2034

Policy Statement

Good academic standing indicates that students are meeting university and program requirements and are making satisfactory progress towards their academic program. The definition of satisfactory performance and progress toward completion may differ among programs; therefore, it is imperative that each graduate program have these requirements in writing in their graduate handbook and distribute them to graduate students when they matriculate into the program.

Progress Toward Degree Completion

All graduate students are expected to meet university and program requirements, and to make progress toward completion of their program. This progress includes satisfying the conditions listed below and achieving the requirements set by the individual program.

Students who fail to satisfy the requirements of their program and/or the conditions outlined below may be dismissed from the program.

1. Students must maintain their status as degree-seeking by registering for, at minimum, 1 graduate credit hour that contributes to their degree requirements as determined by their graduate program each year (defined as three consecutive terms, including summer as one term) or by taking an approved leave of absence. Courses taken for audit and course withdrawals will not be counted as fulfilling the minimum enrollment requirements. Meeting this minimum enrollment requirement does not guarantee students will meet the minimum requirements of other programs, offices or agencies.
2. Students are expected to maintain a minimum 3.000 grade point average (GPA).[1] Some programs have minimum academic standards that may exceed the overall university standards and are listed in the University Catalog.
3. Doctoral degree students must comply with the time limits for passing candidacy. Reference policy on Candidacy for Doctoral Degree.
4. Students must comply with the policy of Time Limits for Graduate Programs.

In addition to the performance and progress made upon the conditions listed above, individual programs will review student performance in the fulfillment of the program's requirements. Consideration may include, but is not limited to, such factors as performance during informal coursework and seminars; research capability and performance; professional standards of conduct; and the number of AU (Audit), IN (Incomplete), IP (In Progress) and W (Withdrawal) administrative marks on a student's record. Violations of the administrative policy on plagiarism and cheating may also impact a student's academic standing.

Grades of C- and below are not counted toward completion of requirements for any graduate degree, minor, certificate, endorsement, licensure and other non-degree programs, but are counted in the graduate GPA. Credit hours earned in undergraduate courses are not counted toward completion of any graduate degree or certificate and are not counted in the graduate GPA. A change by a graduate student from one department or program to another does not remove from the student's GPA the grades that were earned in the first enrollment. Refer to the Grading Policies and Procedures in the University Catalog for information on grades and administrative marks and their application to the GPA.

Review of Academic Performance

Each graduate program should review the academic performance and progress of its students, according to university and program requirements, at least once per academic year. Reviews may result in one of four outcomes:[2]

1. No action
2. Warning
3. Probation
4. Dismissal

(1) No Action

If a student's performance and progress are satisfactory, the program may provide the student with written communication regarding the student's satisfactory performance and progress in the program.

(2) Warning

A warning may be issued to a student if the student's performance and/or progress falls slightly below expectations (e.g., failure to make timely progress on thesis or dissertation; overall GPA is 3.000 or higher, but term GPA is below 3.000).

The department chair, school director or program coordinator administrating the program will provide the student with written communication regarding the warning, including expectations for future performance and a timetable for the correction of deficiencies. Warnings are documented by the graduate program and may be communicated to the college dean, or designee.

(3) Probation

Students are placed on academic probation at the end of any semester in which their overall Kent State GPA in graduate courses within the current program is below 3.000. Students must complete 6 graduate credit hours at Kent State before being subject to academic probation. Enrollment is permitted only on a term-by-term basis until the probation is removed.

The department chair, school director or program coordinator administrating the program will provide written communication and contact the student to schedule a probationary meeting. The purpose of the probationary meeting is to review expectations for future performance and create a timetable for the correction of deficiencies.

Students must obtain a minimum 3.000 semester GPA in the first semester of probation. Failure to do so will result in academic dismissal.

Students who earn a 3.000 or higher semester GPA in their first semester probation but still have an overall GPA below 3.000 will be given one additional term to raise their overall GPA to 3.000 or higher. Failure to do so will lead to academic dismissal.

Exceptions:

- A student on an official leave of absence cannot be issued academic probation.
- If a student on academic probation does not take any graded (A-F) coursework, then that semester will not count as their semester of probation.
- A second semester of academic probation requires approval of the student's school/department and college dean.
- Any further extensions or exceptions require approval of the student's school/department, college dean and the Graduate College.

Students are not eligible to begin a new graduate assistant position while on academic probation.

Students in the College of Podiatric Medicine will have the probation noted on their student record, including the official transcript.

Coursework used in raising the student's GPA must be a part of normal program requirements and must be approved in advance by the program. The department chair, school director or program coordinator must notify the college dean, or designee, of the review outcome.

(4) Academic Dismissal

Review of a student's performance, progress and adherence to professional standards in a graduate program may result in a recommendation for academic dismissal. Refer to the Dismissal and Appeal—Graduate policy in the University Catalog for more information.

[1] Refer to the College of Podiatric Medicine's section in the University Catalog for GPA expectations for students seeking the Doctor of Podiatric Medicine degree.

[2] The College of Podiatric Medicine has two additional outcomes:

1. Dean's List. Full-time students in the College of Podiatric Medicine who have a minimum 3.500 current GPA for the fall and spring semesters and earned no grade below a C or S (Satisfactory) in all course/rotation work will be cited on the Dean's List at the end of each semester. Only students taking a full course load will be eligible for the Dean's List. College of Podiatric Medicine students are ranked at the end of each semester according to their overall grade point averages. Ranking is done on an individual basis by class year.
2. Good Standing. Students in the College of Podiatric Medicine and/or the College of Nursing are considered to be in good standing if they are meeting course and/or program expectations and have not failed any requirements.

Reason for Policy

This policy provides clear guidelines regarding student status related to warnings and probationary status and creates a consistent approach for student progress to prevent dismissal. The policy also clarifies minimum GPA and guidelines for students to know what they must earn when in status of probation.

Procedures

The academic status of graduate students is reviewed by the student's department at the end of each semester. Good academic standing is defined by a student achieving both of the following:

- Minimum 3.000 semester GPA and
- Minimum 3.000 overall GPA

Once status is determined, the department chair, school director or program coordinator administrating the program will provide the student with written communication regarding the consequences of academic status, i.e., warning or probation.

Upon exceeding the term of probation, the department chair, school director or program coordinator will submit recommendation for dismissal following the Dismissal and Appeal—Graduate policy.

Frequently Asked Questions

1. What are my options if I have been given a warning or placed on probation?
   Students who have a question or concern related to warning or probation status may contact the Student Ombuds.
2. Will a warning or probation appear on my transcript?
   No, a warning or probation will not appear on a student's transcript.

Definitions

Minimum GPA: A minimum GPA is no more than 6 credits of grades below a 3.000.

Warning notice: A warning notice will be sent from the academic unit to students whose semester GPA falls below a 3.000.

Probation: The academic status condition in which a student's overall GPA is below 3.000.

Revision History

Amended August 2025: Revised policy removes variance by credit hour (8 credit hours of grades lower than a B or more than 4 credit hours lower than a C) to be subject to dismissal; adds reference to minors, certificate, endorsement, licensure and other non-degree programs; clarifies probation and amount of time allotted to be in good standing; and requires students to be in good standing to begin a new graduate assistantship.

Effective August 2013: Establishes of a policy on academic standing for graduate students to replace current policies on dismissal and dismissal appeals.

Academic Standing - Undergraduate Student

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Because undergraduate students must earn a minimum 2.000 overall grade point average (GPA) to graduate from the university, they must maintain that average throughout the undergraduate years. Students whose GPA falls below 2.000 should make a positive effort to improve their academic performance. Such students should devote their entire attention and energies to their studies by improving study habits and concentrating on such basic skills as composition, reading and mathematics.

The following academic standing designations apply to undergraduate students:

President's List

In recognition of an extremely high level of academic excellence, a President's List is compiled each academic semester. To qualify, students must have a 4.000 GPA in the semester and must have completed 15 or more credit hours (all of which must have regular letter grades) by the end of that semester. This notation will be printed on students' official transcripts.

Dean's List for Full-Time Students

In recognition of academic excellence, a Dean's List is compiled each academic semester. To qualify, students must have a minimum 3.400 GPA in the semester and must have completed 12 or more regular letter-graded credit hours by the end of that semester. This notation will be printed on students' official transcripts.

Dean's List for Part-Time Students

A Dean's List for Part-Time Students is compiled after spring semester grades are issued. To qualify, students must have a minimum 3.400 GPA in 12 or more regular letter-graded hours taken during the previous summer, fall and spring semesters. Such students must have registered for fewer than 12 hours in each of the semesters under consideration. This notation will be printed on students' official transcripts.

In Good Academic Standing

Students with a minimum 2.000 GPA are in good academic standing. Students with an overall GPA below 2.000 are placed on academic probation. Good academic standing is not the same as eligibility for financial aid or for participation in other activities of the university such as athletics, student organization leadership, extracurricular activities, etc. For information about eligibility standards, students should contact the appropriate office or organization.

Midterm Warning

Students who earn a midterm GPA of less than 2.000 will be placed on midterm warning.

Semester Warning

Students with a minimum 2.000 overall GPA who earn a semester GPA of less than 2.000 in any given semester will be placed on semester warning.

Selected Academic Program Warning

If a student's GPA does not meet the standards required for a selective program, the dean may place the student on selective academic program warning. The student would be allowed to remain enrolled in the selective major while attempting to improve academic performance.

Program Progression Requirements

Students not progressing academically in their selected academic program will be deemed not permitted to continue based on criteria established by their program area. Refer to the Program Progression Requirements policy in the University Catalog for more information.

Academic Probation

Students who fail to maintain a minimum 2.000 overall GPA will be placed on academic probation. This probation signifies that the cumulative performance is below the minimum university requirement for graduation. Probation is an emphatic warning to the students that the quality of their academic performance must improve if they are to obtain the minimum grades required for graduation. Students on probation must show considerable improvement in their academic work or they will be dismissed from the university. Students on probation must reduce their course load to 15 hours and may receive a prescription from the dean of their college or campus that they further reduce their hours carried until removed from probation. The students also should reduce participation in social and extracurricular activities. Students are removed from probation only when they have achieved a minimum 2.000 overall GPA. Students on probation will be notified by their dean's office.

In addition, the following students will be placed on academic probation:

1. Students reinstated to the university after being dismissed because of poor scholarship.
2. Transfer students whose cumulative records at all previous institutions do not meet the minimum GPA requirements of Kent State University.

Academic Dismissal

Students whose academic performance indicates a limited chance of obtaining the minimum grades required for graduation will be subject to dismissal from the university. Refer to the Dismissal, Appeal and Reinstatement–Undergraduate policy in the University Catalog for more information.

Accommodations for Student Religious and Spiritual Beliefs

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Date Effective: June 12, 2023

Policy Statement

A student will be granted up to three days each academic term to take holidays for reasons of faith or religious or spiritual belief system, or participate in organized activities conducted under the auspices of any religious or spiritual organization. Kent State University shall not impose an academic penalty as a result of a student being absent as permitted in this policy.

Students will be provided with alternative accommodations with regard to examinations and other academic requirements missed due to an absence, if both of the following apply:

- The student's sincerely held religious belief or practice severely affects the student's ability to take an examination or meet an academic requirement; and
- Not later than 14 days after the first day of instruction in a particular course, the student provides the instructor with written notice of the specific dates for which the student requests alternative accommodations.

The instructor shall accept without question the sincerity of a student's religious or spiritual belief system. An instructor shall keep requests for alternative accommodations confidential. An instructor shall schedule a time and date for an alternative examination, which may be before or after the time and date the examination or other academic requirement was originally scheduled but shall do so without prejudicial effect.

Instructors are required to include in each course syllabus a statement regarding this policy. The statement shall include a description of the general procedure for requesting accommodations and contact information for an individual whom a student may contact for more information about the policy.

Reason for Policy

The purpose of this policy is to establish procedures to reasonably accommodate the sincerely held beliefs and practices of individual students with regard to all examinations or other academic requirements and absences for reasons of faith or religious or spiritual belief system consist with Ohio Revised Code 3345.026.

Procedures

Students requesting alternative accommodations in a course due to religious belief or practice must provide the course instructor written notice no later than 14 days after the first day of instruction in that course. Students with concerns about an alleged violation of this policy are encouraged, but not required, to first discuss those concerns with their instructor. Students may also notify the university of any complaint following the Administrative Policy and Procedure for Student Academic Complaints (3342.4-02.3).

Forms/Instructions

- Non-exhaustive list of major religious holidays or festivals
  This list may not be used to deny accommodations to a student for a holiday or festival of the student's faith or religious or spiritual belief system that does not appear on the list. No inclusion or exclusion of a religious holiday or festival on the list shall preclude a student from full and reasonable accommodations for any sincerely held religious beliefs and practices with regard to all examinations or other academic requirements and absences for reasons of faith or religious or spiritual belief system provided under this policy.

Admission of Former Graduate Students

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Kent State University graduate students who withdrew from or left the university in good standing will be required to re-apply for admission and pay the non-refundable application fee. Refer to the policy for Enrollment - Graduate in the University Catalog for more information.

For information concerning former graduate students who have been dismissed from the university, refer to the policy for Academic Standing - Graduate Student in the University Catalog.

Admission of Graduate Non-Degree Students

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Admission as a non-degree student enables students to take a limited number of courses for credit (either full time or part time). Students in this status are not seeking a degree, but may wish to earn a certificate or take courses for job achievement, personal enrichment, intellectual curiosity or other personal reasons. Students cannot earn a degree in the non-degree status.

Application for graduate non-degree student status should be made through the Office of Admissions. Students who plan to pursue a graduate certificate program must apply as a non-degree student, unless they are already in a concurrent degree program. Admission is based on the same criteria detailed in the Admission of Graduate Students policy in the University Catalog.

Graduate non-degree students must register for coursework within one year after the admission date. Admission of students who do not register within one year will be inactivated. Reapplication must be made if students desire to register for coursework at this time. Once registered, graduate non-degree students may continue to take courses for six years. Six years after the first registration, non-degree students will be inactivated and must reapply for admission if continued registration in graduate coursework at Kent State University is desired. Anyone who has been denied admission to graduate studies, or is under dismissal from the university, is not eligible for graduate non-degree student status.

Graduate non-degree students who wish to pursue a degree must apply for admission to the degree program. A maximum of 12 semester credit hours taken as a non-degree student may be petitioned to satisfy requirements of a degree program. A petition for transfer of credit must receive approval of the department or school and the college dean. Note that some departments and schools will not accept any credit hours for transfer.

Non-degree students must meet all prerequisites for courses (or obtain permission of the instructor). In addition, graduate non-degree students must obtain approval from the corresponding graduate program coordinator to register for graduate courses. Students may not transfer in credit earned at another university while in non-degree status.

All fees, deadlines and performance standards for degree students apply to non-degree students.

Admission of Graduate Students

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Kent State University is an access institution and has an important role to play in making sure its graduate programs are open to applicants who desire to pursue them. Applicants are evaluated based on both past academic performance and potential for continued achievement. In all cases, a combination of quantitative and qualitative measures is assessed. Credentials indicating an ability to succeed in graduate-level work may include overall and major grade point average (GPA), caliber of prior institutions attended, progression of academic performance over time, written communication skills, recommendation letters, relevant work experience, indices of leadership, prior research experience and correspondence between research interests and available faculty expertise.

Refer to the end of this section for admission procedures for the College of Podiatric Medicine.

Minimum Qualifications For Admission

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university. If applicant attended a non-U.S. college or university, the degree must have been received from a recognized institution where the requirements for the bachelor's degree are similar to those at Kent State University, as determined by Kent State's Office of Global Education.
2. A total undergraduate grade point average (GPA) of 2.750 on a 4.000 point scale. For graduate-level coursework, a minimum 3.000 GPA is required. Some programs may require a higher minimum undergraduate or graduate GPA. Refer to individual program admission criteria in the University Catalog for any required GPA above the minimum.

Applicants who do not meet the minimum GPA requirement may still be considered for admission if the applicant demonstrates one or more of the following conditions:

- Earned a graduate degree from an accredited institution with a 3.000 GPA.
- Completed 9 or more graduate credit hours at Kent State University or an accredited institution and earned a minimum 3.000 overall GPA in graduate-level courses.
- Scored at the 50th percentile or above on a standardized admission examination relevant to the academic program (e.g., GRE, GMAT, MCAT, LSAT).
- Earned a 3.000 overall GPA in the undergraduate major or in courses related to the academic program to which the applicant has applied.
- Earned a 3.000 overall GPA in the last 60 credit hours of completed undergraduate courses.
- Other compelling evidence as determined by the academic program.

Applicants who do not meet the minimum university and/or program requirements for admission may be considered for conditional admission. Admission in such cases will depend heavily on other indices of the student's ability to handle graduate-level work. These might include strong performance on standardized tests, GPA in the major and/or other experiences that are clearly indicative of strong academic ability.

Conditional Admission

The purpose of conditional admission is to provide applicants with an opportunity to compensate for any deficiencies and to demonstrate their ability to satisfactorily complete graduate level work. Conditional admission is normally assigned for one or more of the following reasons:

1. Applicant does not meet minimum university/program requirements. The conditions are determined by the applicant's program/college. Normally, conditions will include the successful completion of specified graduate coursework and/or the achievement of a specified first semester GPA. A statement of the conditions of admission, as well as the rationale for conditional admission, will be sent to the student in writing by the academic college. Monitoring the student's success in meeting specified conditions is the responsibility of the program.
2. Applicant does not have expected academic background in the field of proposed graduate study. The conditions are determined by the applicant's program/college. Normally, the conditions will include the successful completion of specified undergraduate coursework. A statement of the conditions of admission, as well as the rationale for conditional admission, will be sent to the student in writing by the academic college. Monitoring the student's success in meeting specified conditions is the responsibility of the program.
3. Applicant does not meet minimum English proficiency requirements. A statement of the conditions of admission will be included in the student's letter of admission. Conditions include the successful completion of English as a Second Language (ESL) courses and proof of English proficiency. Enrollment in ESL courses does not assure admission to an academic program. ESL faculty members are responsible for monitoring the student's conditions.

It is recommended that students who are admitted conditionally do not enroll in more than 9 credit hours during their first semester of enrollment.

Students admitted conditionally must satisfactorily complete the conditions of admission as prescribed by the academic program to which they are admitted and maintain a 3.000 overall GPA in the first 9 credit hours of graduate coursework attempted.

Required Application Materials For Admission

- Online application and non-refundable application fee.
- Copy of official transcripts from the college or university that conferred a bachelor's degree (or equivalent) and any further degree(s) earned. Additional transcripts, official or unofficial, may be required. Scanned copies of official transcripts may be uploaded as PDF files in the electronic admission application.
    - Applicants previously enrolled at Kent State do not need to submit the Kent State transcript. The Admissions Office will obtain the Kent State transcripts on the applicants behalf, as long as Kent State is listed as a previous institution on the admission application. Applicants must still submit transcripts for all post-secondary work done elsewhere.
    - Students offered admission to Kent State University will be required to submit official transcripts from the college or university that conferred any degree, undergraduate or graduate. The offer of admission will be considered "Provisional" until all required official transcripts are received by Kent State University.
    - The Admissions Office is responsible for monitoring receipt of official transcripts. If official transcripts are not received by the Admissions Office by the second week of students' first semester of attendance, a registration hold will be placed on their records. Students will not be able to register or adjust their course schedule until all official transcripts have been received.
    - Any significant discrepancies found between student-provided unofficial transcripts and official transcripts will be grounds for dismissal.
- Letters of recommendation. Most programs require three letters, although some programs require two. The letters should be completed by persons who are familiar with the applicant's educational goals and professional and/or academic ability.
- Proof of English proficiency. All applicants whose education has been primarily outside the United States must have objective evidence of proficiency in the English language. Exceptions may be granted for applicants who have completed their education in a primarily English speaking country/territory. Refer to individual program admission criteria in the University Catalog for minimum test score requirements and applicable exceptions.
- Test Scores. As an access institution, Kent State University does not require the Graduate Record Exam (GRE) or the Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT) for graduate admission. However, a graduate program may require a GRE or GMAT score as part of its admissions criteria if it is deemed necessary. Refer to individual program admission criteria in the University Catalog for any minimum test score requirements.
- Additional materials as required by the graduate program to which the individual is applying.

Once received, all application materials become the property of Kent State University and will not be returned. Application materials are kept for a period of one year from the date the completed online application form is submitted. After that time, materials will be destroyed. Applicants interested in admission after one year will need to reapply and submit a new application fee.

Multiple Applications

If an applicant chooses to apply to more than one graduate program, the applicant must submit a separate application and application fee for each program. Contact the Admissions Office to have application materials applied to more than one application. Applicants may be required to submit additional materials. Refer to individual programs in the University Catalog for required application materials.

Deadlines For Admission

For timely consideration of the application, it is recommended applicants submit a complete application at least one month before the start of the semester of first coursework. Some programs may have much earlier deadlines. Refer to individual programs in the University Catalog for their deadlines.

Application Procedures

Domestic Applicants

Domestic applications are received and processed by the Admissions Office. All transcripts, letters of recommendation, goal/purpose statements, vita/résumés and other required materials as specified by the program must be sent to gradapps@kent.edu.

After completing the online application form, applicants will receive notification via e-mail that the application was received. Applicants can also view the status of their submitted application using the Login ID and PIN that they created to complete the application. The Admissions Office will send applicants periodic e-mail reminders regarding any required application materials that have yet to be received.

Once all required application materials are received, the completed application form and materials are electronically forwarded to the respective program for review. The program's review committee then forwards its recommendation for admission or denial to the academic college dean. The dean's final admission decision is sent to the Admissions Office where it is documented on the applicant's record. The official admission decision letter is sent by the dean of graduate studies. Individual programs may send additional information to applicants, such as information about a graduate assistantship.

International Applicants

International applications are received and processed by Kent State's Office of Global Education. Applicants who require an F-1 or J-1 student visa must:

1. Meet the visa eligibility requirements.
2. Verify that they have the financial resources to cover their expenses during graduate study at Kent State University. The Financial Information Worksheet for International Students is available through the Office of Global Education. If a governmental entity is funding the student, an official letter regarding the funding must be submitted along with the Financial Information Worksheet for International Students.

The Financial Information Worksheet for International Students, proof of English proficiency and all transcripts, letters of recommendation, goal/purpose statements, vita/résumés and other required materials as specified by the graduate program must be sent to the Office of Global Education, Kent State University, 106 Van Campen Hall, 625 Loop Road, Kent, OH 44242, USA.

After completing the online application form, international applications will receive notification via e-mail that it was received. Applicants can also view the status of their submitted application using the Login ID and PIN that they created to complete the application. The Admissions Office will send applicants periodic e-mail reminders regarding any required application materials that have yet to be received.

Once all required application materials are received, the completed application form and materials are electronically forwarded to the respective program for review. The program's review committee then forwards its recommendation for admission or denial to the academic college dean. The dean's final admission decision is sent to the Admissions Office where it is documented on the applicant's record. The official admission decision letter is sent by the dean of graduate studies. Individual programs may send additional information to applicants, such as information about a graduate assistantship. If accepted for admission, the Office of Global Education will issue the form I-20 or DS-2019.

International students may enroll at Kent State University only if they have been admitted to a degree program, certificate program or post-baccalaureate teacher education program. The form I-20 (required to obtain F-1 immigration status) or the form DS-2019 (required to obtain J-1 immigration status) is issued only after the application is complete, all documents are properly verified, the applicant is admitted to a program and proof of funding is received.

Fraudulent Records

Any transcripts, certificates, translations or examination results that appear irregular will be verified with the appropriate school or examination authorities, and the application process will be delayed until verification is received. If it is determined that an applicant has submitted false records or omitted information about previous school attendance, the application will be denied, and legal action may be taken.

Change Of Application Term

Applications and application materials are valid for one year only. Applicants may change the term of their application to a later term within one calendar year from the date the completed online application form was submitted. To be considered for admission during a different term, contact the Admissions Office to have the term of application changed. Some programs admit only one term per year. Refer to individual programs in the University Catalog for the term(s) during which they will consider admission. Applicants interested in admission after one year will need to re-apply and submit a new application fee.

Defer Enrollment

Admitted students are expected to enroll in and attend courses during the term of their admission. Students may defer the term of enrollment to another term within one calendar year from the term of admission. Initial enrollment beyond one year is not permitted. To defer enrollment to a later term, contact the Admissions Office. Students who have not enrolled in and attended courses within one calendar year of admission will need to re-apply and submit a new application fee.

College Of Podiatric Medicine

Kent State University's College of Podiatric Medicine adheres to the admissions policies set forth by the American Podiatric Medical Association. For the college's admissions procedures and requirements, visit the College of Podiatric Medicine website. Applicants to the Doctor of Podiatric Medicine degree will need to apply through the American Association of Colleges of Podiatric Medicine Application Service.

Admission of Non-Traditional Master's Degree Students

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

In rare instances, persons who have not completed a baccalaureate will be considered for admission to the appropriate graduate unit due to unusual and exemplary experiential learning.

Such applicants may apply for admission by presenting for departmental consideration a curricular plan encompassing undergraduate and graduate coursework to achieve a liberal educational background and professional graduate degree and three letters of recommendation attesting to their potential for graduate study. Upon departmental recommendation and the approval of the college dean, applicants will be admitted to undertake graduate work.

Upon successful completion of the curricular plan and the particular master's degree requirements, the students will be awarded the master's degree.

Admission of Transient Students

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Students pursuing a degree at another institution may apply as transient students to Kent State. Such students must be in good standing. Transient undergraduate students must possess a minimum 2.000 GPA (on a scale of 4.000) to be eligible for admission. The transient permission form must be certified in writing by the registrar or college dean of the institution where the students are enrolled. Graduate students may obtain a Graduate Transient Certification of Good Standing form on the Graduate College website.

Transient status is for one semester only. Students wishing to attend more than one semester must reapply. Returning transient students must be in good academic standing at Kent State. A non-refundable transient student fee will be assessed for each transient admission. An ID card may be obtained through the FLASHcard Office in the Kent Student Center.

Kent State undergraduate students wishing for take coursework at another institution should refer to the policy on Transfer of Undergraduate Credit in the University Catalog.

Transient International Visiting Graduate Students

Students who are in good standing in a graduate degree program at a university abroad may be admitted as transient students at Kent State University to take coursework that may apply to their degree program.

Steps for approval:

1. Complete the International Transient Certification of Good Standing form, which will be processed through the Office of Global Education, 106 Van Campen Hall.
2. Submit a request letter from the advisor at the home institution certifying that the student is in good standing.
3. Submit a letter of acceptance from a Kent State faculty member.
4. Receive approval by the department/school graduate program committee and by the college dean.

International transient students are allowed to work using Kent State facilities for maximum 12 months. Students may also register for research hours or for regular courses not to exceed a total of 12 credit hours over the visiting period. Tuition will be paid by students' home institution or by a Kent State grant. Students will be identified as full time.

Policy Statement

Kent State University affirmatively strives to provide educational opportunities and access to students with varied backgrounds, those with special talents and adult students.

All credentials submitted for admission become the property of the university and are not returnable or transferable. Kent State reserves the right to change, without notice, any admissions procedures described in the University Catalog.

Admission Types

First-Year Applicants

First-year applicants are the following:

- Applicants are currently attending their final year of high school or homeschool.
- Applications have earned their high school diploma or GED (or diploma equivalency) and have not attended any other educational institution.
- Applicants have taken college-level courses while in high school or homeschool (e.g., College Credit Plus) but have not attended any other educational institution after graduating from high school or earning their GED (or diploma equivalency).

Transcript Requirements for High School Applicants

First-year applicants must submit an official high school transcript with their application. In-progress transcripts are accepted for admission consideration during the applicant's final year of high school. All years of high school should be included in the transcript with explanations of delays or unexpected class advancements. If an applicant has attended multiple high schools, transcripts may be required from each school attended. See the policy on official transcript submission.

Applicants who are taking college-level courses while in high school (e.g., College Credit Plus) are not required to submit official college transcripts for admission consideration. Admitted students who completed college-level courses through an institution other than Kent State must send their official transcripts to the Office of Admissions after their high school graduation and prior to the start of their admission term.

Admitted students must submit an official, final high school transcript with the diploma conferral date prior to the start of their admission term before they can start courses, and any financial aid can be disbursed at Kent State University.

Transcript Requirements for Homeschool or GED Applicants

Home-schooled applicants must submit the following with their application:

- A General Educational Development (GED) diploma or a transcript or portfolio that documents all completed secondary coursework.
- Ohio residents: written acknowledgment from their local school district verifying their homeschool status.
- Non-Ohio residents: documentation that meets the home-school verification requirements of their respective state.

Applicants with a diploma equivalency (e.g., GED) must submit the official results of their examination with their application.

Admitted students must submit an official, final transcript with diploma conferral by the parent or homeschool administrator, a GED score report or a diploma equivalency prior to the start of their admission term before they can start courses, and any financial aid can be disbursed at Kent State University.

Admission as a First-Year Student

First-year applicants to the Kent Campus should demonstrate college readiness. See the policy on University Readiness Standards and Placement Assessment for more information.

Admission to the regional campuses is open to all applicants who are in the process of graduating from high school or who have obtained a high school diploma or diploma equivalency. See the section below for more information on being referred to a regional campus at admission.

Transfer Applicants

Transfer applicants have attended an educational institution after graduating from high school or earning a diploma equivalency (e.g., GED).

Transcript Requirements for Transfer Applicants
Transfer applicants must list on the application each educational institution they attended following high school graduation, regardless of credit hours earned, and submit official transcripts from each institution. See the policy on official transcript submission.

Applicants who completed college-level courses while in high school (e.g., College Credit Plus) at an educational institution other than Kent State must submit official transcripts during the admission process. Applicants who have not finished their first term of college-level coursework may be provisionally admitted based on their academic achievement during high school. Provisionally admitted applicants cannot receive financial aid until an official transcript is provided directly to the Office of Admissions from the educational institution.

Applicants who have earned fewer than 12 college credit hours also must submit an official, final high school transcript (or diploma equivalency) with the diploma conferral date before being considered for admission.

Admission as a Transfer Student
Generally, transfer applicants may be admitted to the Kent Campus if they have earned a minimum of 12 credit hours of non-remedial/developmental coursework with a minimum 2.000 overall GPA as computed by Kent State University (on a scale of 4.000). Applicants who have taken fewer than 12 credit hours will be evaluated on both their college and high school records.

Applicants who have been academically dismissed from another educational institution will be considered for admission to Kent State if any one of the following is true:

- Applicants are eligible to return to their previous institution.
- Applicants have been out of college for at least 12 consecutive months since their academic dismissal.
- Applicants have earned a minimum 12 credit hours of credit at another institution with a minimum 2.000 overall GPA (on a scale of 4.000).

Admission to the regional campuses is open to all applicants who are in the process of graduating from high school or who have obtained a high school diploma or diploma equivalency, including those who have been academically dismissed from other institutions. See the policy on referred to a regional campus.

Acceptance of Transfer Credit
More information about the transfer of college courses and credit hours can be found in the Transfer of Undergraduate Credit policy.

Post-Undergraduate Applicants

Post-undergraduate applicants have earned a bachelor's degree and wish to take additional undergraduate coursework, either to earn a second degree or an undergraduate certificate, to prepare for graduate study or to pursue personal or professional development.

Admission Process
Applicants with a Kent State bachelor's degree who have not enrolled in undergraduate coursework at another institution after graduation should complete the re-enrollment process, as outlined on the Financial, Billing and Enrollment Center website.

Applicants who earned their bachelor's degree at another institution or earned a Kent State bachelor's degree and completed undergraduate coursework at another institution since earning that bachelor's degree must apply for admission as post-undergraduate applicants.

Transcript Requirements for Post-Undergraduate Applicants
Post-undergraduate applicants must list on the application each educational institution they attended following high school graduation, regardless of credit hours earned, and submit official transcripts from each institution. Applicants in the process of finishing their bachelor's degree should provide a letter confirming their eligibility to receive a bachelor's degree in time to begin their post-undergraduate program at Kent State. See the policy on official transcript submission.

Guest Applicants

Guest applicants enroll in a limited number of Kent State courses without being formally admitted to a degree or certificate program. Guest students typically are seeking personal or professional enrichment or are planning to transfer coursework back to another educational institution. Financial aid is not available to guest students through Kent State.

Guest students cannot earn a degree or certificate and may take a maximum of 18 credit hours of coursework. To continue beyond these credit limits or to pursue a degree or certificate, guest students must apply for regular admission.

Admission Requirements for Guest Applicants
- Applicants are not required to provide transcripts for admission.
- Applicants must have a high school diploma, GED or diploma equivalency.
- Applicants must meet all course prerequisites or obtain instructor permission to register for courses.
- Applicants were not denied admission to Kent State due to student conduct or criminal history.
- Applicants were not academically dismissed from Kent State University.

Non-Degree Applicants

Non-degree undergraduate applicants enroll in a limited number of Kent State courses to earn a certificate or other non-degree credential; to meet prerequisites before applying to a degree program; or for job achievement, personal enrichment, intellectual curiosity or other personal reasons. Students cannot earn a degree as a non-degree student.

Non-degree students may enroll in courses for one academic year or until a maximum of 45 credit hours are earned. Non-degree students planning to pursue a degree, either before or upon earning 45 credit hours, can apply for admission to any of Kent State's campuses or locations.

Non-degree students must meet all course prerequisites or obtain instructor permission to register for courses. All fees, deadlines and performance standards that apply for degree students also apply to non-degree students.

Transcript Requirements for Non-Degree Applicants
Non-degree applicants must list on the application each educational institution they attended, regardless of credit hours earned, and submit official transcripts from each institution.See the policy on official transcript submission.

International Applicants

International applicants are not citizens of the United States or are not currently maintaining immigration status in the United States as a legal permanent resident, refugee or asylee. Applications from international students are received and processed by the Office of International Admissions. See the policy on international transcript submission.

English Proficiency Requirement

All international applicants must provide proof of proficiency in the English language (unless they meet specific exceptions to waive the requirement) through the submission of an English language proficiency test score or by completing English language classes at Kent State's English at a Second Language Center before entering their program. Information on submission and score requirements can be found on the International Admissions website.

Student Visa

International applicants should apply for admission at least six months before classes begin to allow time to complete the application and immigration process. Applicants who require an F-1 or J-1 student visa must meet visa eligibility requirements and be able to verify that they have the financial resources to cover their expenses while studying at Kent State University. The form I-20 (required for F-1 immigration status) or the form DS-2019 (required for J-1 immigration status) is issued only after all the following are complete:

- Applicants submitted a fully complete admission application to Kent State.
- Applicants are admitted to a degree program at Kent State University.
- All the applicants' documents are properly verified.
- Kent State has received and verified the applicants' proof of funding.

Former Kent State Students

Former Kent State undergraduate students who wish to return as undergraduate students will complete one of the following admission processes depending on their academic and enrollment history:

- Applicants left Kent State in good standing or on academic probation and did not attend another institution since then: Complete the re-enrollment process, as outlined on the Financial, Billing and Enrollment Center website.
- Applicants attended another institution since leaving Kent State: Apply for admission as a transfer or post-undergraduate student.
- Applicants were academically dismissed from Kent State: Follow the procedures outlined in the Dismissal, Appeal and Reinstatement policy to be reinstated at Kent State.

Military Veteran Applicants

Ohio veterans who left high school before graduation to serve in the military may be considered for admission to Kent State University if they are 21 years old or older and have passed the GED exam (or diploma equivalency).

Some military training courses may also qualify for college credit. To be considered, veterans should submit certificates of completion to the Office of Admissions. For more details, see the Military Training policy on how college credit may be awarded for military experience.

Veterans are encouraged to contact the Center for Adult and Veteran Services for help with pre-admission counseling and support throughout the admissions process.

Delayed-Entry and Diploma Equivalency Applicants

Delayed-entry and diploma equivalency applicants who are first-year college students are classified as one of the following:

- Applicants are 21 years or older at the time of their first enrollment at Kent State.
- Applicants earned their high school diploma three or more years ago by the start of their first enrollment at Kent State.
- Applicants earned their GED or other diploma completion credential before the start of their first enrollment at Kent State.

Applicants meeting these criteria are considered for admission regardless of their high school GPA and may contact the Center for Adult and Veteran Services for pre-admission counseling, advocacy and assistance with policies and procedures.

Application Process

Application Submission

All applicants can apply for admission to any of Kent State's campuses or locations through the Kent State institutional application. First-year and transfer applicants may use either the Kent State application or the Common Application to apply specifically to the Kent Campus. Only one application is accepted per term. Updates to application programs and campuses can be requested by contacting the Office of Admissions.

Application Deadlines

Applications for undergraduate admission are reviewed on a rolling basis. Early application helps ensure early consideration for scheduling new student orientation, course registration, residence hall preference and financial aid. Therefore, the best time to apply is at least six months prior to the anticipated term of enrollment, although some programs may have different deadlines.

Some academic programs may have additional application requirements. Individual requirements for these programs are listed under their Admissions tab in the University Catalog. Students interested in these special admission programs should apply one year prior to the date of anticipated enrollment.

Prospective transfer students are encouraged to apply before or by the end of their second year of college. Students applying just to Kent State at or after the end of their second year should consult with the appropriate college concerning the suitability of their preparation for their intended major.

Application Fee

A non-refundable application fee or fee waiver is required for all degree-seeking applicants before an application to the Kent Campus will be reviewed. Applying directly to a regional campus is free.

Official Transcript Submission

All applicants are required to submit official, final transcripts for any high school or college coursework, containing the school seal and the signature of a registrar or school official (unless sent by the school through an official, electronic third-party service). Transcripts must be sent directly from the issuing institution to the Kent State University Office of Admissions. Kent State will not accept transcripts provided by the applicant or individuals not affiliated with the educational institution, with the exception of international transcripts (see below).

Final transcripts should be received by Kent State no later than the second week of the student's first term of enrollment. Students who do not submit all required final transcripts by this deadline will not be allowed to register for future semesters until the documents are received.

Failure to comply with transcript requirements for admissions represents falsification by the applicant and may be subject to the cancellation of their admission decision or dismissal from the university.

International Transcripts

Applicants who have attended high school, university or any other educational institution outside of the United States may provide their personal copies of official transcripts for admission consideration if the institution is unable to provide them directly to Kent State University. Academic credentials may include, but are not limited to, transcripts, detailed mark sheets, diplomas, statements of marks and certificates of graduation.

After being admitted to Kent State University, students with international transcripts must present their original, institution-issued academic credentials to the Office of Global Education for verification. Any significant discrepancies between student-provided transcripts and the final, official transcripts submitted to Kent State University will be grounds for application cancellation or dismissal from the university.

Test Scores

Kent State University offers a test-optional admission pathway where applicants are not required to submit a standardized test score (e.g., ACT, SAT) to be considered for admission. The absence of test scores will not hinder an applicant's potential to be admitted.

Applicants are welcome to submit test scores if they choose. If submitted, the scores will be considered as one of many factors in a holistic review of the application and supporting materials. Test scores should be reported to Kent State University directly from the testing agency using the appropriate code below.

- Ashtabula Campus (3773)
- East Liverpool Campus (3225)
- Geauga Campus (3224)
- Kent Campus (3284 ACT/1367 SAT)
- Salem Campus (3354)
- Stark Campus (3226)
- Trumbull Campus (3343)
- Tuscarawas Campus (3361)

Application Review

An application will not be reviewed for admission until it is complete. Kent State reviews applications holistically. Rather than disproportionately focusing on one factor, the Office of Admissions carefully reviews each applicant based on multiple factors, including overall grade point average (GPA), strength and rigor of curriculum, grade trends, optional writing samples, optional letters of recommendations and special talents or passions.

Admission Decision

An offer of admission to Kent State University is contingent upon the successful completion of in-progress high school or college coursework and a review of the application and supporting information demonstrating continued admissibility to the university.

The admission decision provided to students by the Office of Admissions can be revoked or changed at any time at the discretion of personnel. Applicants who are found or suspected to have misrepresented themselves, provided falsified documents or have not provided complete information regarding their academic or student conduct history may be subject to cancellation of their admission decision or dismissal from the university.

Change of Admission Term

Admission to Kent State University is valid only for the specific term to which the applicant is admitted. Applicants who wish to begin their enrollment in a different term than they were admitted must contact the Office of Admissions to initiate their request. Applicants may request a new admission term that begins up to one year from their original admission term. Moving the admission term beyond one year requires a new application and application fee.

Referred to a Regional Campus

Admission to the Kent Campus is selective, based upon overall grade point average (GPA), strength of curriculum, supplemental materials and grade trends. Applicants who do not meet the criteria for admission to the Kent Campus may be administratively referred to a regional campus; applicants living in Northeast Ohio are referred to their preferred or closest regional campus. When completing their application, students should select a secondary campus for which they would like to be considered for admission.

Applicants not meeting the admission criteria for the Kent Campus who still wish to be admitted to Kent State University must enroll for at least one semester at a regional campus. Enrollment at the regional campuses permits students to take advantage of smaller class sizes, more individualized advising services and a wider range of developmental coursework and programs.

Referred first-year and transfer students who enroll at a regional campus must complete the following to obtain the best possible foundation for academic success and become eligible to enroll at the Kent Campus:

- Successfully finish all developmental coursework as prescribed by placement testing and an academic advisor.
- Earn 12 credit hours of college-level coursework (not including any coursework considered developmental).
- Achieve a minimum 2.000 overall GPA.

Students are strongly encouraged to work closely with their academic advisor in planning for the transition to the Kent Campus.

Conduct and Criminal History Disclosure

Kent State is committed to ensuring a safe and secure learning environment for students, faculty, staff and guests of the university. Applicants are required to answer questions related to pending felony charges, felony convictions and dismissal or suspension from previous educational institutions for non-academic reasons. Disclosing one's criminal or student conduct history does not automatically preclude admission to Kent State but will require applicants to complete a personal explanation statement and provide supporting documentation for review by the pre-admissions committee to determine eligibility for admission. Conditions for admission may be applied to those applicants who are admitted.

Appealing an Admission Decision

Students not admitted to the Kent Campus may appeal the admission decision by contacting their personal admission counselor. To appeal an admission decision, students should be prepared to submit new information supporting their ability (e.g., updated transcript, improved GPA, test scores, letters of recommendation, personal essay outlining extenuating circumstances).

Applicants not admitted to the university due to criminal or student conduct history should review their decision letter for information on how to appeal a decision.

New Student Orientation

Newly admitted students to Kent State University are expected to attend the orientation appropriate to their admitted student type and campus for academic advising and registration. During the event, students and their guests learn information that is key to their success at Kent State University. The primary goal of new student orientation is to acquaint students and guests with Kent State University programs and services, provide an advising session to each student and register students for classes.

Reason for Policy

This policy outlines the undergraduate admission process at Kent State University and ensures transparency, consistency and fairness in evaluating applicants. It supports the university's mission to provide access to higher education for students from diverse backgrounds while maintaining academic standards and fostering a safe and supportive learning environment.

Definitions

Academically Dismissed Student: A student who is no longer allowed to enroll at the university due to failing to make adequate progress toward completion of a program of study or whose academic performance indicated little chance of obtaining the minimum grades required for graduation.

Certificate: A formal academic credential that signifies the completion of a focused program of study that addresses contemporary, topical and/or workplace need at the undergraduate or graduate level. Undergraduate certificate programs normally contain between 16 and 25 credit hours of coursework.

Degree: A formal academic credential awarded upon the successful completion of a prescribed program of study at the undergraduate or graduate level. Degree programs require the fulfillment of specific credit hour, curriculum and academic performance standards and are designated as associate, bachelor's, master's, post-master's or doctoral degrees.

Educational Institution: An establishment dedicated to providing formal instruction and learning experiences and includes, but is not limited to colleges, universities and vocational trade/tech schools.

GED (General Educational Development): A credential that is recognized as an alternative to a traditional high school diploma earned by individuals who successfully complete the GED exam. The exam assesses proficiency in language arts, mathematics, science and social studies.

Transcript: The accurate and complete record of a student's academic coursework attempted at an educational institution, presented in either electronic format or paper format.

Revision History

Amended August 2025: Revised policy widened the classification of the delayed entry and diploma equivalency applicant type (previously "adult applicant") to include not only people who are 21+ at the time of enrollment, but also applicants who have graduated from high school three or more years; or who have a GED (or diploma equivalency). For those applicants, high school GPA is not considered for admission. In addition, required documentation for homeschool applicants is updated; the different application pathways for post-undergraduate students are clarified; and a stipulation is added in the Conduct and Criminal History Disclosure section that conditions for admission may be applied for full transparency of what may be expected of admits.

Admission to International Pathway Program

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

International students whose English proficiency is below the university minimum but are otherwise admissible may be admitted to Kent State's International Pathway Program. To be eligible, applicants must meet one of following English proficiency requirements based on degree level:

Undergraduate Degree Level

- TOEFL 54
- IELTS 5.0
- Duolingo English 75
- Completion of ESL Center Level 6

Graduate Degree Level

- TOEFL 61
- IELTS 5.5
- Duolingo English 90
- Completion of ESL Center Level 8

In addition to English proficiency, international pathway applicants must meet all other admission requirements outlined in this section of the University Catalog depending on their level, student type and program. Refer to the different Admission policies for more information on criteria for admission and application procedures.

Advanced Placement (AP)

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

The College Board Advanced Placement (AP) program awards college credit based on college-level high school courses and tests administered through the high schools. The State of Ohio, working through the University System of Ohio, has initiated policies to facilitate the ease of transition from high school to college as well as between and among Ohio's public colleges and universities.

Beginning in fall 2009:

- Students obtaining an AP exam score of 3 or above will be awarded the aligned course(s) and credits for the AP exam area(s) successfully completed.
- General education courses and credits received will be applied towards graduation and will satisfy a general education requirement (Kent Core) if the course to which the AP area is equivalent fulfills a requirement.
- If an equivalent course is not available for the AP exam area completed, elective or area credit will be awarded in the appropriate academic discipline and will be applied towards graduation where such elective credit options exist within the academic major.
- Additional courses or credits may be available when a score of 4 or 5 is obtained. Award of credit for higher score values varies depending on the academic discipline.
- In academic disciplines containing highly dependent sequences (e.g., sciences, technology, engineering and mathematics), students are strongly advised to confer with their advisor to ensure they have the appropriate foundation to be successful in advanced coursework within the sequence.

Kent State will not accept AP credit from a high school or out-of-state transcript. Students must submit either an official score report from the College Board or, upon special request, a transcript from an Ohio college or university with the AP credit displayed. Visit the Credit Transfer Office's AP website for more information on scores and credits earned.

Alternative Credit Programs

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

After enrollment at Kent State in an undergraduate degree or certificate program, students may be awarded credit toward their academic program through methods other than completing Kent State coursework. This credit may shorten the time required to complete a Kent State degree.

For information on credit awarded for transfer coursework earned before or after matriculation at Kent State, refer to the Transfer of Undergraduate Credit policy in the University Catalog.

Credit will not be awarded for any exam or content that duplicates the content of a college course for which a student has already received credit or if a student has completed more advanced study, i.e. beyond the level covered by an exam. Evaluation of credit earned by alternative methods is based on articulated course and requirement equivalencies in effect at the time the credit is requested. General guidelines for alternative credit types accepted by the university are described in the sections below.

Advanced Placement (AP)

The College Board Advanced Placement (AP) program awards college credit based on college-level high school courses and tests administered through the high schools. Students must submit either an official score report from the College Board or, upon special request, a transcript from an Ohio college or university with the AP credit displayed. Visit the Credit Transfer Office's AP website for more information on scores and credits earned.

A and AS Levels

Kent State accepts for credit the successful completion of A (Advanced) Level and AS (Advanced Subsidiary) Level qualification conferred as part of the General Certificate of Education administered by AQA, Edexcel or the University of Cambridge International Examinations.

The A and AS Levels Credit Chart gives information about these exams and credits earned for passed exam reports. The chart reflects Cambridge exam numbers and syllabi, but exams from other sources will be cross-referenced by the Office of Global Education in consultation with faculty upon evaluation of scores.

An official score report must be submitted to Kent State before A- and AS-level credit can be applied to a student's academic record. Specific questions regarding how these credits apply to program requirements should be directed to the student's major program's college office.

College Level Examination Program (CLEP)

Students may earn academic credit through the College Board's College Level Examination Program (CLEP) administered at Kent State by the Office of Academic Engagement and Degree Completion. CLEP allows a student to earn college credit for prior knowledge and move on to more advanced coursework sooner. Credit hours, but no letter grade, is granted for scores that meet the minimum for each exam as determined on the CLEP guide for the Kent State University Catalog in effect at the time of the exam.

For additional CLEP information, including available tests, Kent State course equivalents and test dates, visit the Office of University Advising and Testing's website. Refer to the Alternative Credit-Testing Eligibility policy at the end of this section for more regulations on earning credit through testing.

College Tech Prep (CTP)

Kent State University will award college credit to students who successfully complete an approved College Tech Prep (CTP) program. Credit received through the CTP program is applied toward an appropriate degree at Kent State as identified in the signed articulation agreement. A student-articulated credit application for CTP credit is available from the CTP teacher or high school guidance counselor or on the Kent State Tech Prep website.

To earn Kent State University credit, students must:

- Complete the state-approved CTP program with a minimum B grade
- Graduate from high school
- Enroll at Kent State and request credits within three years after high school graduation
- Meet any additional criteria identified on the articulated credit application

Credit By Examination (CBE)

Students with demonstrable ability and knowledge in a particular subject area may earn credit in selected courses though Credit-By-Examination (CBE), coordinated by the Office of the University Registrar. Students who wish to pursue CBE must complete the CBE application to gain appropriate college and departmental permission. The appropriate academic department administers the exam, which may include the completion of additional assignments. The minimum passing standard for CBE is the equivalent of a C grade. However, no letter grade, only credit hours, are posted to the academic transcript for CBE.

For the CBE application, per-credit-hour fee and a list of available courses, visit the Office of the University Registrar's CBE website. Refer to the Alternative Credit-Testing Eligibility policy at the end of this section for more regulations on earning credit through testing.

DANTES Subject Standardized Tests (DSST)

Formerly known as the Defense Activity for Non-Traditional Educational Support (DANTES) exams, the DANTES Subject Standardized Tests (DSST) is a nationally recognized program that gives students the opportunity to receive college credit for learning acquired outside the traditional college classroom. Kent State accepts the American Council on Education (ACE) recommendations for the minimum score required and the amount of credit awarded. Official score reports or a joint services transcript (JST) must be submitted to Kent State before the credit can be applied to a student's academic record.

For information on credit options for military students, visit the Credit Transfer Office website.

Industry-Recognized Certifications, Examinations and Professional Training

Kent State accepts many industry-recognized certifications, examinations and professional training as prior learning credit applicable toward degree programs upon programmatic approval. Kent State awards academic credit following recommendations from the American Council on Education (ACE) and the Ohio Department of Higher Education. Official documentation from the issuing company or professional organization must be submitted to Kent State before credit can be applied to a student's academic record.

Industry-recognized certifications, examinations and professional training that is not evaluated by ACE may be considered for academic credit. Students who wish to request credit for training not yet evaluated must complete the industry/training credit application, including submission of all documentation to determine whether academic credit is to be awarded. All credit for industry/professional training appears on the student transcript without a grade.

Students should contact the Credit Transfer Office for more information on the types of certifications, examinations and professional training accepted and the approval process. Official documentation from the issuing agency must be submitted to Kent State before the credit can be applied to a student's academic record.

International Baccalaureate (IB)

Students who complete the International Baccalaureate (IB) Diploma Programme, a rigorous two-year course of pre-university studies in their high school, may be awarded credit toward a degree or certificate at Kent State. An official IB transcript must be submitted to Kent State before the credit can to be applied to a student's academic record. (A notation on a high school transcript will not be accepted.)

Kent State accepts scores of 5, 6 or 7 for higher-level (HL) and standard-level (SL) IB exams toward specific course equivalencies and general education requirements (e.g., Kent Core, diversity). Visit the Credit Transfer Office's IB website for more information on these scores and credits earned.

Military Training

Kent State University awards academic credit for military coursework according to recommendations listed on the Joint Services Transcript (JST). All eligible credits must be recognized by the American Council on Education (ACE). Kent State awards Military Transfer Assurance Guide (MTAG) coursework for articulated credit as established by the Ohio Department of Higher Education. Service members can visit Kent State's Credit Transfer Office website for information regarding requesting and submitting military transcripts.

Service Examinations: Credit is awarded for some experiences in basic training that are equivalent to specific beginning Physical Activity, Wellness and Sport (PWS) courses at Kent State University. Credit is awarded on the basis of recommendations from the School of Teaching, Learning and Curriculum Studies in the College of Education, Health and Human Services.

In order for credit to be granted in any of the above areas, a transcript or certificate of completion or a veterans DD 214 form is required. In addition, Kent State reserves the right to set the percentile score that is necessary for satisfactory performance in a course and for the granting of credit. Credit will not be given for duplicate work taken through any of these agencies.

Military Transfer Credit Appeals Process

Students must submit, in writing, a letter of appeal regarding their military transfer credit to the Credit Transfer Office c/o Kent State University. Upon recommendation by the Transfer Review Committee, students will be notified of the outcome, in writing. Information regarding the standards for satisfactory performance or to submit an appeal may be found on the Credit Transfer Office website.

Retroactive Credit

Undergraduate students currently enrolled in a degree or certificate program who are placed into an advanced course through assessment or departmental review may earn retroactive credit for designated lower level course(s) in that subject. The advanced courses approved for earning retroactive credits are listed below.

To apply for retroactive credit, students must submit an application for retroactive credits.

The following stipulations apply:

- Students must complete the advanced course at Kent State with a minimum C or S (Satisfactory) grade to be eligible for retroactive credit. Courses taken for the pass/fail grade or audit mark will not be accepted for retroactive credit.
- Students who withdraw from or fail to meet the minimum C or S grade in the advanced course may retake the course and apply for retroactive credit once the minimum C or S grade is achieved and posted.
- Course credits earned through the retroactive policy are not assigned a letter (A-F) grade. The mark CR will be posted to a student's transcript for the enrolled term the student applied for the retroactive credit.
- Retroactive credit will count toward students' class standing, total credit hours earned for graduation and hours required for graduation honors.
- Retroactive credit will not count in students' grade point average (GPA), quality points and residence requirement.
- Students are not eligible for retroactive credit if they previously earned college credit for a course that is comparable to a lower level course in the same subject of the advanced course. Previous college credit includes credit earned through exam (e.g., AP, CLEP); courses transferred from other college-level institutions, tech prep programs or dual enrollment in a high school; or any other alternative credit listed in the University Catalog.
- Not all courses that offer retroactive credits are available each semester.
- Retroactive credit is not available for graduate courses.
- Students may apply for retroactive credit following the posting of the grade at any time before graduation, but no later than the second Sunday of the semester in which they are graduating.

A fee per credit hour is charged for processing and posting of the credit on the student's transcript. The Kent State Retroactive Credit Chart provides information about eligible courses and credits earned.

Alternative Credit-Testing Eligibility

The student's college determines eligibility for testing. The following regulations govern credit through testing:

1. Credit is awarded on a course-by-course basis. Students may be tested for Credit-By-Examination (CBE) only once for any given course. Students may not attempt a course CBE for which they have previously attempted through the College Level Examination Program (CLEP).
2. New students may take the CLEP before beginning work at Kent State University. CBE is available to currently enrolled degree- and certificate-seeking Kent State students only.
3. Students are allowed to take CBE only if they are in good standing (i.e., not on probation).
4. Students may not take CLEP or CBE for any course:
   a. In which they have audited
   b. In which they are currently enrolled
   c. In which they have previously enrolled and earned a grade, including withdrawal (A-F, AU, IN, IP, NF, NR, S, SF, U, W, Y or Z)

In subject fields in which knowledge is sequential or accumulative (e.g., mathematics, foreign language), courses are structured in prescribed sequences. Students who have received credit for, or established proficiency at, one level in such a sequence (either by testing or by enrolling in and completing the course) cannot subsequently earn CLEP or CBE credit for any prior course in the sequence or in any lower level sequence. Students who want to earn CBE for more than one course in such a sequence must complete CBE one course at a time, beginning with the lowest level course for which they want to receive academic CBE credit.

Students approaching graduation must complete all CBE and CLEP credit by at least the semester proceeding the semester in which they plan to graduate.

Students who sign up for CBE must take the exam within 60 days of the payment date of application. If they do not, they forfeit any fees paid and must reapply to take the exam.

Award of a Master's Degree to a Doctoral Student

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

A student who has been admitted to and is currently pursuing a doctoral degree may apply for a master's degree in the same department in which the doctorate is to be taken. Upon certification that the student has met the requirements for the master's degree in that department, the degree may be awarded. The total number of graduate hours required for the doctorate shall not be altered thereby.

Candidacy for Doctoral Degree

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

To become a candidate for the doctorate, a student must pass a candidacy (comprehensive) examination in the field of the major subject. This examination will be taken when departmental requirements have been met, but it should not be taken later than nine months before the student expects to receive the degree. The content and scope of the examination are determined by the department concerned. The examination may be either written or oral or both. The student is not permitted to continue with the dissertation unless this requirement is satisfied. Failure on the candidacy examination and a subsequent prescription and reexamination are subject to departmental policy. When opportunities for such reexamination are exhausted without success, the student will be dismissed from graduate study.

For candidacy of the Doctor of Podiatric Medicine degree, refer to the college policies in the College of Podiatric Medicine section of the University Catalog.

Catalog Rights and Exclusions

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Effective Date: Fall 2020
Last Reviewed: Fall 2019
Last Revised: Spring 2020
Next Review: Fall 2030

Policy Statement

The university has established the following Catalog rights and exclusions relating to requirements for students in an academic program (major, minor, certificate). While these Catalog rights establish specific academic program requirements for students, the exclusions noted ensure that the knowledge and skills acquired by students will be current with the state of knowledge in their fields of study.

Rights

1. The students' academic requirements for graduation are based on the Catalog year that is assigned initially to the student's first term of enrollment in a degree or certificate program at Kent State University.
2. Students are permitted to complete an academic program (major, minor, certificate) under a more recent Catalog year. When changing Catalog year, students must comply with all the requirements relevant to their program in the newer Catalog year. After a Catalog year is updated, students are not permitted to revert to an older catalog year.
3. Students may declare a different Catalog year for a minor, certificate or second major/degree. However, students must comply with all the requirements relevant to the additional program in the different Catalog year.
4. Catalog rights may be granted through mutual agreements with other institutions. Such rights are subject to the same exclusions noted below.

Exclusions

1. Students are governed by the academic policies in the Catalog in effect for the current academic year, regardless of students' first term of enrollment.
2. Students who transfer to another university and return to Kent State are readmitted under the Catalog in effect for the term of readmission.
3. Dismissed students are reinstated under the Catalog in effect for the term of reinstatement.
4. Undergraduate students who interrupt their enrollment at the university for one full academic year or longer, consecutively, including summer, are updated to the Catalog in effect for the term of their most recent re-enrollment. Transfer work and alternative credit do not qualify as enrollment at Kent State University.
5. Kent State will not permit admission or reentry into programs that are no longer offered.
6. Undergraduate students who are enrolled continuously in a degree or certificate program in a catalog older than six years may be required to update to a more recent Catalog.
7. The university reserves the right to change academic requirements to keep programs in compliance with accreditation, certification, licensure or industry standards. In these situations, the college administering the program may update students to a more recent Catalog year.
8. The university reserves the right to change academic requirements due to financial urgency, unavailability of faculty or unavailability of other instructional resources. Where programmatic changes are required that do not alter the core academic requirements of the university, the students' college dean will identify available alternatives for currently enrolled students to complete their declared program(s).
9. Course specifications such as title, credit hours, prerequisites, status (e.g., Kent Core), etc., are based on the term for which the student registered for the course. If the course is revised after the student completed it, the student does not gain or lose anything with that revision. In the event that a change in prerequisite, for example, would substantially disadvantage a continuously enrolled student by unreasonably adding one or more courses to that student's academic requirements, the college administrating the student's program may authorize course substitutions, waiver(s) or some other appropriate alternative.

10. The university reserves the right to change course specifications; cancel a scheduled course; and change the time, location or delivery of class meetings for a scheduled course. If a course is canceled, every attempt will be made to contact the registered students. Students registered in canceled courses will be given the opportunity to change to another course with seats available.

Revision History

Amended August 2020: Revised policy clarifies how catalog year is assigned and the meaning of a catalog year; adds limitation that students cannot revert after updating catalog year; replaces term “in force” with “in effect”; adds disclaimer that colleges may approve appropriate substitutions or waivers if changes to courses substantially disadvantage enrolled students; and adds university’s rights to cancel courses and change the time, location or delivery of a scheduled course.

Amended August 2015: Revised policy addresses students whose first term of enrollment is a summer term, who are declared in a certificate program or who declare multiple programs; adds a clause to clarify that all students are governed generally by the university academic, administrative and operational policies in the Catalog currently in force; adds a stipulation to reflect current practice that students who left the university and later returned may not be declared back into their original program if that program is no longer offered; and modifies the requirement of the six-year rule to, instead, state that students who are enrolled continuously in a degree or certificate program in a catalog older than six years may be required to update to a more recent Catalog.

Amended August 2014: Revised policy clarifies that course specifications such as course title, content, prerequisite and status (e.g., Kent Core) are in force for the term in which the student is enrolled in the course.

Amended August 2012: Revised policy allows student to have different catalog years for declared majors, minors and certificates.

Amended August 2010: Revised policy requires all undergraduate students at all campuses to move to the catalog-in-force after six years in their program.

Amended August 1998: Revised policy requires students who do not complete degree requirements within 10 years to update to the current catalog.

Change in Graduate Program of Study

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Because admission to a graduate degree program involves admission to both the program and the university, a change in program of study (degree, major, concentration or catalog year) requires approval. Admission to a new program is not automatic.

A graduate assistantship normally does not transfer with students who are approved for admission into a different graduate program. Doctoral candidacy status does not transfer to a new graduate program. International students must consult with the Office of Global Education to determine how a change of program affects their visa status.

Procedures

Students interested in changing their program of study should first contact the graduate coordinator of the proposed program to gain a clear understanding of the program’s requirements. Admission requirements, deadlines and required application materials vary by graduate program, and it is the student’s responsibility to adhere to the requirements and deadlines.

Students must contact the graduate coordinator of the proposed program to determine whether they submit either a Change in Program of Study form or a new application. The determination of whether a form or application should be submitted is based on the proposed program’s judgment about the amount, and availability, of application materials needed by the program in order to make an informed admission decision. More significant program changes (e.g., change to a major within a different department/school) likely will require a new application, while less significant changes (e.g., change to another concentration within the same major in the same department/school) likely will require completion of the Change in Program of Study form.

In some cases, the proposed program will accept application materials that had been submitted to the student’s original graduate program. In other cases, new materials may be required. If the proposed program will accept materials that were submitted along with the student’s application to the current program, the student must contact the Office of Admissions to request that the materials be added to the new application.

The proposed program will review the application/form and all materials according to established procedures. Applicants who do not meet the minimum university and/or program requirements may be considered for conditional admission. If the student is admitted into the program, the program will determine how much of the student's previously completed work may be applied toward the new graduate degree, in accordance with the university's transfer of credit policy.

Class Attendance and Class Absence

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY
Date Revised: June 28, 2023
Date Effective: August 28, 2023

Policy Statement

Regular for testing attendance in class is of all students at all levels at the university. While classes are conducted on the premise that regular attendance is expected, the university recognizes certain activities, events and circumstances as legitimate reasons for absence from class. This policy provides for accommodations in accordance with federal and state laws prohibiting discrimination, including, but not limited to, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, 29 U.S.C.§794, and its implementing regulation, 34 C.F.R. Part 104; Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, 42 U.S.C. §12131 et seq., and its implementing regulations, 28 C.F.R. Part 35; as well as university policy 5-16.

This policy describes the procedures for requesting and responding to legitimate absences with the exception of absences for religious and spiritual beliefs. Refer to the policy for absences for religious and spiritual beliefs.

The individual instructor has both the responsibility and the prerogative for managing student attendance. The instructor's policy regarding attendance for each course should be written in the course syllabus and communicated to students during the first week of the term. The policy may take alternate forms within the bounds of appropriate instructional techniques.

Legitimate reasons for an "excused" absence include, but are not limited to, illness and injury, disability-related concerns, military service, death in the immediate family, academic field trips, participation in an approved concert or athletic event and direct participation in university disciplinary hearings.

Even though any absence can potentially interfere with the planned development of a course, and the student bears the responsibility for fulfilling all course requirements in a timely and responsible manner, instructors will, without prejudice, provide students returning to class after a legitimate absence with appropriate assistance and counsel about completing missed assignments and class material. Neither academic departments nor individual faculty members are required to waive essential or fundamental academic requirements of a course to accommodate student absences. However, each circumstance will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis.

Informal resolution should first be attempted between individual instructors and students in the event of any attendance-related concerns. If informal resolution is unsuccessful, the following offices, with respect to that office's purview, can provide assistance and guidance on attendance concerns and instruction on filing a grievance: student ombuds; student accessibility services; or compliance, equal opportunity and affirmative action.

In addition to this policy, students are responsible for following the procedures and policies of the respective offices from which they are seeking assistance, e.g., student accessibility services, the student ombuds, etc. In all instances of absences, students shall be responsible for all material covered in class during their absence. Students are responsible for completing any makeup work resulting from their absence. In no case is an excuse from class to be interpreted as a release from class responsibility.

The general procedures and responsibilities for requesting and determining legitimate class absence can be found in policy 3-01.2 of the University Policy Register.

Reason for Policy

Kent State University aims to foster an atmosphere of honesty and trust between instructors and their students. It is in both the university's and the student's interest to outline academic protections for students when they miss class for legitimate reasons. This policy places parameters around what is a legitimate absence, and reinforces the responsibilities of the instructor and the student.

Procedures

The general procedures and responsibilities for requesting and determining legitimate class absence can be found in policy 3-01.2 of the University Policy Register.

Frequently Asked Questions

1. Can I receive a letter from the DeWeese Health Center to be excused from class or exam?
   The DeWeese Health Center does not provide written absence excuses for students who miss a class, presentation, quiz, exam or other academic responsibility. Refer to the DeWeese Health Center website for more information.
2. Can I request class absences when I have flare-ups of a chronic illness?
   Please contact the Office of Student Accessibility Services to discuss eligibility of using the attendance modification policy.
3. I missed the first day of class and received an email that I now have an NF (Never Attended - Fail) grade for the course. What can I do?
   Contact the course's instructor as soon as possible to discuss the circumstances and to start attending the course.
4. What should I consider if I am going to miss a significant amount of class time and/or academically related activities due to illness or other reasons?
   You should contact your instructor to discuss your academic standing in the course so you can determine your next steps. For example, this could include dropping the course, withdrawing from the course, requesting an Incomplete mark (if eligible) or leave of absence (graduate students only). You can also consult with your academic advisor or the student ombuds if you need assistance discussing academic options.

Definitions

Classification of Undergraduate Students

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

An undergraduate student is classified as follows:

- FRESHMAN — 0 to 29 credit hours of earned credit
- SOPHOMORE — 30 to 59 credit hours of earned credit
- JUNIOR — 60 to 89 credit hours of earned credit
- SENIOR — 90 credit hours to graduation

College Credit Plus

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

College Credit Plus is offered through the University College for middle/high school students (grades 7-12) who want to take Kent State courses at any Kent State campus, online, hybrid in-class/online or at their middle/high school. The course is taught by either a Kent State faculty member or a Kent State-qualified secondary instructor.

A College Credit Plus course offered in middle/high schools through the university must duplicate the course offered by Kent State to matriculated students. Courses must be approved for College Credit Plus status, and credit awarded must be deemed acceptable for transfer by faculty of the appropriate Kent State academic department/school.

Students enrolled in College Credit Plus courses must adhere to the deadline dates specified by Kent State for registration, drop, withdrawal and refund. Kent State may give priority to matriculated students for course registration over College Credit Plus students. However, once a College Credit Plus student has been registered into a course, Kent State will not displace that student for another student.

Kent State will provide students full access to Kent State libraries and electronic databases, as appropriate, and general academic support services, including academic advising, regardless of whether the course is taken in person, online or at a middle/high school.

Kent State is responsible for maintaining a College Credit Plus student's college transcript. Courses will be identified on the Kent State transcript as a college-level course. The middle/high school is responsible for maintaining the student's middle/high school transcript. The evaluation of courses when transferring to a college or university other than Kent State is the purview of that college or university.

College Credit Plus students are limited to a maximum of 30 credit hours per academic year and a maximum of 120 credit hours overall prior to high school graduation. Students who wish to continue at Kent State University after high school graduation should apply for admission as new freshman during the fall of their senior year.

For more information, please visit Kent State's College Credit Plus website.

College Level Examination Program (CLEP)

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Students may earn academic credit through the College Board's College Level Examination Program (CLEP) administered at Kent State by the Office of Academic Engagement and Degree Completion. CLEP allows a student to earn college credit for prior knowledge and move on to more advanced coursework sooner. Credit hours, but no letter grade, is granted for scores that meet the minimum for each exam as determined on the CLEP guide for the Kent State University Catalog in effect at the time of the exam.

For additional CLEP information, including available tests, Kent State course equivalents and test dates, visit the Office of University Advising and Testing's website. Refer to the Alternative Credit-Testing Eligibility policy at the end of this section for more regulations on earning credit through testing.

College Tech Prep (CTP)

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Kent State University will award college credit to students who successfully complete an approved College Tech Prep (CTP) program. Credit received through the CTP program is applied toward an appropriate degree at Kent State as identified in the signed articulation agreement. A student-articulated credit application for CTP credit is available from the CTP teacher or high school guidance counselor or on the Kent State Tech Prep website.

To earn Kent State University credit, students must:

- Complete the state-approved CTP program with a minimum B grade
- Graduate from high school
- Enroll at Kent State and request credits within three years after high school graduation
- Meet any additional criteria identified on the articulated credit application

Combined Bachelor's/Master's Degree Program

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Effective Date: Fall 2023
Last Reviewed: Fall 2022
Last Revised: Spring 2023
Next Review: Fall 2026

Policy Statement

A combined bachelor's/master's degree program allows exceptional, well-prepared Kent State University undergraduate students early admission into a graduate program. Students in a combined degree program take graduate-level coursework as undergraduate students, thus enabling courses to be applied toward both degree programs.

Students in a combined degree program must meet the minimum requirements for each degree earned. Undergraduate requirements must be fully satisfied before a bachelor's degree will be awarded. Until that time, students continue to have undergraduate student status and are charged undergraduate tuition and fees. Following the awarding of the undergraduate degree, their status is changed to that of graduate student.

Eligibility for Admission

To be eligible for admission to a combined degree program, undergraduate students must meet the following stipulations:

- Earn a minimum 60 credit hours (junior standing)
- Achieve a minimum 3.000 overall Kent State GPA (some combined degree programs may require a higher GPA)
- Complete a standard online graduate application, including paying the application fee
- Meet all admissions requirements for the master's degree program (consult the University Catalog for specific requirements)
- Be admitted to the master's degree program
- Submit the Combined Bachelor's/Master's Degree Form prior to the first semester of enrollment in the combined program

Application of Graduate Credit

Undergraduate students in a combined degree program may complete a maximum 9 credit hours of graduate-level coursework, depending on the approved combined degree program (see list of approved programs), and apply the courses and credit hours toward their undergraduate degree. Once students complete the undergraduate degree and enter graduate student status, their graduate-level coursework may be applied toward the graduate degree (i.e., courses are double counted). Students who undertake a combined bachelor's/master's degree program must complete a minimum 141 unique credit hours, with a minimum 30 of those credit hours applied toward the master's degree.

To be eligible for double counting, the coursework must meet all the following criteria:

1. Be of graduate level – under no circumstances will undergraduate-level coursework be applied toward the master's degree
2. Apply to degree requirements for the bachelor's and master's degrees
3. Are not awarded as credit by examination
4. Meet minimum standards as described in the Academic Standing - Graduate policy in the University Catalog

Combined degree programs are initiated by students in consultation with their academic advisor. The combined degree program should be developed according to the individual career interests and goals of the student and should be an integrated learning experience rather than merely the completion of a certain number of undergraduate and graduate credits. The proposed combined degree program requires the approval of both the undergraduate and the graduate programs involved, as well as the respective college dean(s).

Reason for Policy

Policy enforces uniform standards for undergraduate students seeking early admission to a graduate degree at Kent State University and aligns with the policy from the Ohio Department of Higher Education.

Revision History

Amended August 2023: Revised policy decreases the maximum of graduate courses that may be double-counted toward both degrees, from 9-12 credit hours (depending on the credit hours of the master's degree) to 9 credit hours for all combined programs.

Amended August 2020: Revised policy permits a minimum total of 141 unique credit hours earned (111 for bachelor's and 21 for master's and 9 double counted) with approval of the university and Ohio Department of Higher Education. The revised policy also replaces specific GPA per credit hours with a minimum 3.000 overall GPA for eligibility for a combined degree program; removes requirement that a letter grade must be earned in courses that will be doubled counted toward both degrees; and removes categories of formal and informal combined programs.

Amended August 2014: Revised policy requires a minimum total of 150 unique credit hours earned (120 for bachelor's and 30 for master's) before double counting of credit hours is allowed. The revised policy also distinguishes between formal (university approved) and informal programs and clarifies that students in the combined program are classified as undergraduate until the bachelor's degree is earned; after that award, they are reclassified as graduate.

Amended August 1988: Revised policy allow maximum 12 credit hours of graduate courses that may be double-counted toward both degrees. Those credit hours can only be counted as electives, and not toward any requirements, in the bachelor's degree.

Effective September 1976: Establishes a policy to allow baccalaureate-seeking students early admission to a master's degree and be dually enrolled in both degrees upon recommendation of the academic department, the undergraduate college dean and upon approval of the dean of the Graduate College.

Core and Critical Reading Strategies Placement

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Kent State University regional campuses offer two courses to help students develop reading strategies to successfully complete college-level coursework — READ 00003 and READ 00006. A student placed into READ 00003 must take READ 00006 the following term. Both courses require a minimum C grade. Students who have taken the Accuplacer Classic or Next Generation at another institution within two years of their initial start date may opt to transfer that score to Kent State University.

Assessment	Score	Placement
ACT Reading	0-13	READ 00003
ACT Reading	14-19	READ 00006
ACT Reading	20+	No Course
SAT Evidence-Based Reading and Writing	200-380	READ 00003
SAT Evidence-Based Reading and Writing	390-470	READ 00006

Course Numbering System

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Kent State University's numbering system for courses is as follows:

Range	Level
00000-09999	Developmental level
10000-19999	Freshman level
20000-29999	Sophomore level
30000-39999	Junior level
40000-49999	Senior level
50000-59999	Master's level
60000-69999	Master's level
70000-79999	Doctoral level
80000-89999	Doctoral level

Developmental courses (00000-09999) are considered pre-college level. Refer to the Developmental Coursework policy in the University Catalog for more information.

Undergraduate courses (10000-49999) are generally open to students of a class rank equivalent to the levels indicated. Students participating in the Honors program, College Credit Plus and Advanced Placement (AP), as well as those who otherwise present evidence of qualifications beyond their class rank, may enroll in the appropriate undergraduate courses with the approval of their advisors and the instructors or departments offering the courses.

Most courses are offered in a regular sequence to meet students' programmatic needs; however, the availability of any specific course in a given semester is subject to sufficient student demand and available resources. Some courses require that a special fee be paid in addition to instructional and general fees. A listing of courses with these special fees can be found on the Financial, Billing and Enrollment Center website.

Courses numbered 50000 and above are for graduate students only and are referred to as graduate courses. Many of the 50000-level courses are also offered at the 40000 level for undergraduates. Students who have already completed 40000-level courses may not repeat the courses at the 50000-level for credit toward a graduate degree. No more than one-half of a graduate student's coursework may be taken in 50000-level courses.

Course Overload

Undergraduate Students

Eligible undergraduate students wanting to register for more than the maximum listed under registration limits may do so through an automated overload process.

Criteria for Eligibility

- Students who have a minimum 12 Kent State earned credit hours and the following GPA are eligible for an automatic overload:

GPA	Overload Credits
2.500-2.749	students may register for 19 credit hours in fall and spring
2.750-2.999	students may register for 19-20 credit hours in fall and spring
3.000-4.000	students may register for 19-21 credit hours in fall and spring

- First-semester transfer students and freshmen without a Kent State GPA are excluded from qualifying for an automatic overload. They must seek approval from their advising office.
- Students not meeting the above criteria or requesting more than 21 credit hours in the fall or spring semester (more than 12 credit hours in all summer terms) will be blocked from registering for an overload unless approval is granted from their advising office.

- Students on academic probation may not register for more than 15 credit hours and may receive a prescription from the dean of their college or campus that they further reduce the credit hours carried until removed from probation.

Exceptions to this rule must be approved by the appropriate college dean.

Graduate Students

Graduate students wanting to register for more than the maximum listed under registration limits should request permission from their advisor, who will consider such factors as academic standing, progress to degree and the rigor of their proposed course schedule in deciding whether to approve the overload. Graduate students with an approved overload will have their course limit adjusted to register for the approved overload class(es).

Course Privilege for Doctoral Students

Policy Statement

Students must register and pay tuition and any applicable fees when repeating a class. All course attempts and grades appear on the student transcript, including grades not calculated in the GPA. A student's Kent State GPA will not be affected by repeating courses at another institution. The university is not obligated to offer courses so that students can repeat them. If students plan to repeat a course, they are to work with their advisor to identify resources for academic support. Repeating courses could affect students' financial aid, scholarships or other assistance. Students should consult the appropriate office prior to registration. Students may repeat courses taken at Kent State University subject to the following provisions:

Undergraduate Courses

Students may repeat undergraduate courses (00000-40000 levels) no more than two times (a maximum of three attempts per course). The university will use only the highest grade and the credit hours associated with that highest grade in all attempts of the same course in the calculation of the overall undergraduate GPA, program GPA, credit hour totals and requirements for students' program.

Additional conditions for the repeating of undergraduate courses:

- After the third attempt (second repeat), the student is restricted from registering for the course again.
- Withdrawal from a course is counted as an attempt.
- Courses designated as "repeatable for credit" (see section below) are exempt from the three-attempt limit.
- Recalculation of the student's GPA occurs automatically at the end of the semester in which the student completes the repeated course.
- All grades for all attempts at a course are used in the GPA calculation for determining Latin honors (e.g., summa cum laude) and class standing (e.g., dean's list). These GPA calculations are independent of the overall GPA as it appears on the student transcript.
- All grades for all attempts may be counted for admission to or progression in specific programs, for admission to graduate programs or for admission to other institutions.

This policy is in effect for all undergraduate courses repeated in or after the fall 2019 semester.

Graduate Courses

Students may repeat graduate courses (50000-80000 levels), and the university will use all grades (passed and failed) in the calculation of the overall graduate GPA. Earned credit for a course applies only once toward meeting program requirements and credit hour totals.

Repeatable-for-Credit Courses

Some undergraduate and graduate courses are identified as "repeatable for credit" in the course description. Typically, a repeatable-for-credit course offers a different instructional experience and learning outcomes each time students take the course (e.g., internship, special topics, applied music). For those courses, students earn credit for each successful attempt, and the university uses all grades (passed and failed) for all attempts in the calculation of the GPA.

Students repeating a repeatable-for-credit course should consult the University Catalog and their advisor because some academic programs have a limit on the total number of credit hours that may be applied for these types of courses.

Reason for Policy

Students may need to repeat a course to fulfill a requirement to earn a degree or certificate. This policy outlines limitations when repeating a course and the effect of a repeated course on the student's GPA.

Frequently Asked Questions

1. The undergraduate policy indicates that I can only repeat the same course two times (maximum three attempts per course). What counts as an attempt?
   A course attempt is any Kent State course for which a grade (A-F, S/U) or mark is given and displayed on your transcript and GPS degree audit. Marks include withdrawal (W), credit/no credit (Y/Z), audit (AU), never attended–F (NF) and stopped attending–F (SF). Courses that you dropped before the 14th day of the semester (or earlier for short-term courses) — i.e., you did not receive a W mark — are not counted as an attempt.

2. Where can I find what is counted or not counted in my GPA for repeated courses?
   All attempts of the same (or equivalent) Kent State course will have either the letter "I" (include) or "E" (exclude) next to the grade on your transcript and your GPS degree audit (both found in FlashLine).
   a. "I" counts in your GPA.
   b. "E" does not count in your GPA; and earned credit hours are 0.
3. Do I have to fill out any paperwork to repeat a course?
   No. If the course is eligible to be repeated, simply register for the course again. At the end of the term in which you are repeating the course, the course repeat will automatically occur once all grades are submitted in FlashFAST.

Revision History

Amended August 2019: Revised policy allows all repeated undergraduate courses to be eligible for GPA recalculation for graduation.

Amended August 2015: Revised policy limits the number, to three, of overall attempts to an undergraduate course before a student can no longer register for that course. The student must then meet with meet with an advisor to decide next steps.

Amended August 2010: Revised policy clarifies that any student who has already received a bachelor's degree from any college or university is ineligible to use a course repeat to remove a grade from the GPA.

Amended August 2008: Revised policy allows lower-division courses taken for an earned associate degree to be repeated for a GPA recalculation; but prohibits course repeats for GPA recalculation after conferral of the bachelor's degree.

Amended January 2008: Revised policy counts only the highest grade earned in a repeated lower-division course in the GPA, subject to specific provisions.

Amended August 1987: Revised policy allows the grade in the second attempt of a passed undergraduate course (with approval) to count toward graduation.

Amended August 1980: Revised policy allows the grade in the second attempt of a passed undergraduate course (with approval) to count in the GPA, although the grade does not count toward graduation.

Amended September 1971: Revised policy limits the credit hours and grade in the second attempt of a passed undergraduate course (with approval) from counting toward graduation and in the GPA. Students may repeat courses that are identified as repeatable for credit.

Amended September 1970: Revised policy requires dean approval for students to repeat an undergraduate course in which the student already received a passing grade, and the credit hours and grade in the second attempt do not count toward graduation. All grades count in the GPA.

Effective September 1952: Establishes a formal course repeat policy that specifies that students are not eligible automatically to repeat an undergraduate course. However, under certain conditions and with dean and department head approval, only the grade in the second attempt may be used for the student's scholastic standing.

Course Withdrawal

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Course withdrawal indicates that a student intends to stop attending any or all classes for the current term. Course withdrawal is permitted through the end (11:59 p.m.) of the 70th calendar day the fall or spring semester (prorated deadline for summer or flexibly scheduled courses). The spring semester course withdrawal deadline may be adjusted for spring break. After that time, students are considered to be committed to all remaining courses and must complete them.

Students will use FlashLine to withdraw from one or more courses by the deadline. If students are unable to complete the term because of extreme circumstances that first occur after the deadline, they should consult their college or campus dean's office. Any course withdrawal(s) processed on or after the 15th calendar day of the fall or spring semester (or prorated deadline for summer or flexibly scheduled courses) will appear on the students' academic record with the Withdrawal (W) administrative mark. For more information on the W mark, refer to Grading Policies and Procedures in the University Catalog. Any applicable tuition credit is determined by the date the transaction is processed on FlashLine (see university policy regarding tuition credit).

International students on J1 and F1 visas are required to contact the Office of Global Education if a course withdrawal causes them to be less than full time.

Graduate students who withdraw from all courses with an intention to return at a later date may be eligible for a leave of absence (refer to Leave of Absence for Graduate Students policy in the University Catalog).

Students in the College of Podiatric Medicine who fail to complete registration requirements by the deadline will not be enrolled in classes for the following academic year and may be withdrawn from the college. These students may also be subject to a professionalism deficiency evaluation. Podiatric Medicine Students who request withdrawal after seven weeks of course instruction will receive on their academic record the administrative mark WP or WF if passing or failing, respectively, for each withdrawn course. Refer to the college policies in the College of Podiatric Medicine section of the University Catalog for more information on the procedures for withdrawal.

Course withdrawal does not negate a student's financial obligation, and students will be held responsible for all balances due to the university.

Credit By Examination (CBE)

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Students with demonstrable ability and knowledge in a particular subject area may earn credit in selected courses though Credit-By-Examination (CBE), coordinated by the Office of the University Registrar. Students who wish to pursue CBE must complete the CBE application to gain appropriate college and departmental permission. The appropriate academic department administers the exam, which may include the completion of additional assignments. The minimum passing standard for CBE is the equivalent of a C grade. However, no letter grade, only credit hours, are posted to the academic transcript for CBE.

For the CBE application, per-credit-hour fee and a list of available courses, visit the Office of the University Registrar's CBE website. Refer to the Alternative Credit-Testing Eligibility policy at the end of this section for more regulations on earning credit through testing.

Credit-Hour Requirement for Graduation

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Undergraduate Students

All students in bachelor's degree programs must satisfactorily earn (with passing grades) a minimum of 120 credit hours of coursework to graduate. Associate degrees are awarded for the successful completion of a minimum of 60 credit hours of coursework. Some bachelor's and associate degree programs require more hours than the 120 and 60, respectively.

As part of this requirement, students must complete a minimum 36 credit hours of the Kent Core for the bachelor's, Associate of Arts and Associate of Science degrees. Students must complete a minimum 15 credit hours of the Kent Core for applied and technical associate degrees.

Students who have had coursework or credits waived may be allowed to graduate from their program when they earn fewer than the minimum credit hours stated for that program in the University Catalog provided that they fulfill all requirements for the program and meet the university minimum credits hours for graduation.

Graduate Students

All master's degree students must satisfactorily complete a minimum 30 credit hours applicable toward a master's degree in order to graduate. Some master's degree programs require more credit hours.

While the well-prepared doctoral candidate may expect to meet formal course requirements (exclusive of dissertation) for the doctoral program by completing a minimum of two years of full-time work beyond the baccalaureate, departments may require more extensive preparation where needed. In order to qualify for a doctoral degree, students must present a minimum of 90 credit hours beyond the bachelor's degree, or 60 credit hours beyond the master's degree. These hours may include registration for coursework, individual investigation or research courses and dissertation. Only work of high quality is approved for doctoral credit.

DANTES Subject Standardized Tests (DSST)

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Formerly known as the Defense Activity for Non-Traditional Educational Support (DANTES) exams, the DANTES Subject Standardized Tests (DSST) is a nationally recognized program that gives students the opportunity to receive college credit for learning acquired outside the traditional college classroom. Kent State accepts the American Council on Education (ACE) recommendations for the minimum score required and the amount of credit awarded. Official score reports or a joint services transcript (JST) must be submitted to Kent State before the credit can be applied to a student's academic record.

For information on credit options for military students, visit the Credit Transfer Office website.

Developmental Coursework

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

"Developmental" means a course that is below college level and cannot be applied toward a certificate or degree program. At Kent State, course numbers that begin with a "0" (e.g., MATH 00022) are designated as developmental and may be prescribed or recommended through placement testing. Although these courses will count toward the course load for financial aid and other purposes, credit hours earned in these courses will be subtracted from the students' total before graduation. None of these courses may be taken pass/fail.

Students placed into any developmental course must continuously enroll in the course(s) each semester until they successfully complete the course or sequence of courses. Students who delay the start of their developmental mathematics coursework more than one semester must be reassessed for placement (a fee may be charged). Students who are placed into a developmental mathematics course and whose program has a specific mathematics requirement must continuously enroll in the course(s) each semester, beginning with their first semester at Kent State, until they successfully complete their first non-developmental mathematics requirement.

Policy Statement

Review of a graduate student's performance, progress and adherence to professional standards in a graduate program may result in a recommendation for academic dismissal.[1] Expectations for academic performance, progress and professional standards are defined in the Academic Standing policy, as well on the specific graduate program pages.

The decision for academic dismissal rests with the unit administrator of the program. Students who have been dismissed will be provided the decision in writing along with information on their right to appeal the decision (see appeal of dismissal section below).

Students who are dismissed from their degree program — or from all programs for students admitted to a dual degree or multiple programs — are dismissed from Kent State University. The college notifies the Office of the University Registrar to remove the student immediately from the program(s) and from any future-registered courses. The university registrar will note on the student's record, including the student's official transcript, that the student was academically dismissed as of the term of the dismissal decision.

Students admitted to a dual-degree or multiple programs who are dismissed from only one of the programs are not dismissed from the university and may continue in the other program. Undergraduate students admitted to a combined bachelor's/master's degree program who have been dismissed from the undergraduate program are dismissed from the graduate program.

Dismissed students who wish to enroll in a different graduate program or in coursework at Kent State must complete an application for admission and follow the graduate admission procedures found in the University Catalog.

In the College of Podiatric Medicine, determinations for dismissal are made in accordance with the grading policy. The director of academic operations, assessment, and institutional research is responsible for providing the student with written communication regarding the dismissal decision and notifying the university registrar to remove the student from the program and all registered courses. For more information on that college's policy for dismissal, refer to the College of Podiatric Medicine section of the University Catalog.

[1] A student on an official leave of absence cannot be dismissed.

Reason for Policy

This policy specifies the process by which graduate students may be dismissed from their academic program and the appropriate steps for appealing a dismissal decision.

Procedures for Appeal of Dismissal

Students who are dismissed have the right to appeal the decision. Students who are dismissed from more than one program must appeal each dismissal separately.

Appeal Process

Students may appeal to the college dean, or designee, for the dismissal decision made at the department, school or program level in that college. If conditions or causes exist requiring a modification of the time limits listed below, it is the responsibility of the college dean, or designee, to assess such circumstances and determine the nature or extent of any such modification. If the college dean, or designee, decides to modify the time limits, the college dean, or designee, immediately will inform all parties involved.

1. If the student decides to appeal the dismissal decision, the student must submit the appeal in writing to the appropriate college dean, or designee, within 10 weekdays of when the dismissal email is sent. In the written appeal statement, the student must state clearly the reasons why the decision is being appealed, the nature of the appeal, the facts and circumstances leading to the appeal, reasons in support of the appeal and the remedy or remedies requested. Supporting documents may be appended. The appeal statement submitted by the student becomes the basis for all further consideration of the matter.
2. Upon receipt of the student's appeal statement, the dean, or designee, convenes the college's dismissal and appeals committee to review and make a recommendation on the appeal.
3. The college dean, or designee, must send a copy of the appeal statement to the unit administrator who issued the dismissal decision. The unit administrator may respond to the student's appeal and include any information or documentation related to the response. The unit administrator will provide that written response to the college's dismissal and appeals committee, with a copy sent to the student.
4. The college's dismissal and appeals committee shall examine and evaluate fully the dismissal decision, including any supporting documentation submitted by the student or by the unit administrator who issued the dismissal. At its discretion, the committee may interview the student and/or the unit administrator and/or consult with any others who the committee believes may assist in the review of the appeal.
5. The college's dismissal and appeals committee is expected to conduct its review as expeditiously as possible. If a full committee is unable to convene in a timely manner, the college dean, or designee, will determine — with input from the student and the unit administrator who issued the dismissal decision — if the appeal review process will proceed with limited committee members or will be scheduled to convene at a later, predetermined time.
6. Once the review of the appeal is completed, the committee's chair must forward a written recommendation to the college dean, or designee. The recommendation becomes part of the student's record.
7. The college dean, or designee, shall make the final decision and provide that decision in writing to the student, with a copy sent to the university registrar, the college's dismissal and appeals committee and the unit administrator who issued the dismissal.
8. If the appeal is approved, the university registrar will re-enroll the student into the program, and the student may re-register for courses. The notation of the student's dismissal is updated or removed from the student's record (depending on the decision).

College of Podiatric Medicine: For dismissal appeal procedures in the College of Podiatric Medicine, refer to that college's section in the University Catalog. Dismissed students who are reinstated are placed on academic probation with a notation on their transcript, until outstanding failures have been satisfactorily resolved. Students who are officially dismissed from the college for any other reason are not eligible for readmission consideration at any time. Any student who has been officially dismissed two times from the college is ineligible for readmission consideration at any time.

Frequently Asked Questions

1. I was dismissed from a graduate program. Can I enroll in a different graduate program or in coursework at Kent State?

Dismissed students must complete an application for admission and follow the graduate admission procedures found in the University Catalog to enroll in a different graduate program.

2. What if I'm dismissed from just one of my graduate programs, but I'm in more than one?
   If you're dismissed from one graduate program but still in good standing in another, you can continue in the program where you're still active. You'll just need to submit a program change form to update your enrollment status. For example, if you're dismissed from the M.S.N. degree but are allowed to continue in the M.B.A. degree, you can keep going in the M.B.A. — only the M.S.N. degree is affected.
3. Will the Registrar's Office drop all my classes if I get dismissed? What if I'm in more than one program?
   Yes, the Registrar's Office will drop all your courses after a dismissal unless told otherwise. If you're enrolled in more than one program, the Registrar's Office will confirm to which program the dismissal applies and will adjust your class registration accordingly.

Policy Statement

Academic Dismissal

Undergraduate students whose academic performance indicates a limited chance of obtaining the minimum grades required for good academic standing will be subject to dismissal from the university.

The provost may dismiss a student if any of the following conditions apply to that student:

1. Any student who earns between a 0.000 and 0.500 grade point average (GPA) in the student's first semester at Kent State.
2. Any continuing student who is:
   a. Placed on academic probation (0.000 to 1.999 overall GPA) for the last term of attendance at the undergraduate level, and
   b. Earns between 0.000 and 1.999 semester GPA in the term under review, and
   c. Earns one of the following:
      i. Between 0.000 and 1.099 overall GPA for students with 0.000 to 29.999 GPA credit hours* or
      ii. Between 0.000 and 1.499 overall GPA for students with 30.000 to 59.999 GPA credit hours* or
      iii. Between 0.000 and 1.749 overall GPA for students with 60.000 to 89.999 GPA credit hours* or
      iv. Between 0.000 and 1.999 overall GPA for students with 90.000 or more GPA credit hours*.
3. Any full-time student in the student's first semester at Kent State or on academic probation who receives 9 or more credit hours of any combination of the following grades or marks in the semester under review: F (Fail), NF (Never Attended–Fail), SF (Stopped Attending–Fail), U (Unsatisfactory). This policy applies without regard to whether the designated grades were included or excluded from the student's overall GPA.
4. Any less-than-full-time student in the student's first semester at Kent State or on academic probation who receives 6 or more credit hours of any combination of the following grades or marks in the semester under review: F (Fail), NF (Never Attended–Fail), SF (Stopped Attending–Fail), U (Unsatisfactory). This policy applies without regard to whether the designated grades were included or excluded from the student's overall GPA.

A student who is dismissed should expect to be away from the university for a minimum of 12 consecutive months. A dismissed student may not register for any coursework at any campus of Kent State University. The notation of academic dismissal will be printed on the student's official transcript. For further information concerning the conditions of academic probation and dismissal, students should contact their college or campus advising office. See guidelines for dismissal appeals below.

> * "GPA credit hours" are credit hours earned with a Kent State grade that counts toward the student's GPA (e.g., 3 credit hours earned with a B grade at Kent State).

Dismissal Appeal

A student who is academically dismissed has the right to appeal the decision. Appeals must be based on circumstances within the past academic year that were beyond the control of the student and affected the student's academic performance. Appeals must be submitted by the date and according to the process specified in the dismissal letter. See the Procedures section below for information on submitting an appeal.

Reinstatement

Reinstatement after dismissal from Kent State University is neither automatic nor guaranteed. A student may be reinstated only if the student provides convincing evidence of probable academic success if permitted to return to the university. A dismissed student who has previously accumulated a substantial number of credit hours and/or an excessively low GPA should expect that reinstatement is not likely to be approved.

Application for reinstatement after the required period of time away from the university should be to the dean of the college or campus that houses the major program the student wishes to enter. Students wanting to be reinstated into a program with selective admission requirements, specified certification standards or additional graduation requirements may be approved to be reinstated into the university but not into that particular program. The application should include convincing evidence of the student's motivation to continue and of the student's specific efforts during the period of dismissal to eliminate previous weaknesses. After evaluating the application for reinstatement and all supporting materials, the dean will inform the student of the reinstatement decision.

A student who is reinstated is automatically placed on academic probation until good academic standing (minimum 2.000 overall GPA) is attained. Academic requirements will be determined by the Catalog-in-force at the time the student re-enrolls at the university. For further information concerning reinstatement, students should consult their college or campus advising office.

Reason for Policy

Students need to have clearly articulated criteria for being subject to academic dismissed from Kent State University, procedures for appealing a dismissal and information on reinstatement after dismissal.

Procedures

Students placed on academic probation (below a 2.000 overall GPA) will be notified that they are in danger of being academically dismissed. When students are academically dismissed, they receive an email the day after final grades are entered and their GPA is calculated.

To appeal an academic dismissal, students must complete the steps below:

1. Apply by the deadline stated in the dismissal letter.
2. Include the following in the appeal:
   a. An explanation of the extenuating circumstances — e.g., personal illness/injury, critical family illness or other situations of sufficient severity — and how these circumstances affected academic performance. These circumstances must be documented by providing physician statements or other appropriate documents.
   b. A detailed plan of action for achieving academic success for any future enrollment at Kent State University.

Appeals that do not meet these guidelines will not be reviewed. Decisions made by the appeals committee are final.

Forms/Instructions

Students are notified of their academic dismissal by the Office of the Provost via their kent.edu email address. They should refer to the link in their dismissal letter for the form and instructions to appeal.

Frequently Asked Questions

Dismissal

1. Why was I dismissed?
   Undergraduate students whose academic performance indicates a limited chance of obtaining the minimum grades required for good academic standing will be subject to dismissal from the university. The university may dismiss a student based on a list of conditions above.
2. What should I do about my room in the residence hall?
   As soon as possible, arrange to check out of your residence hall room by calling University Housing at 330-672-7000 or via email (housing@kent.edu).
3. Do I need to drop my classes for the next semester?
   If you have registered for a future term at any Kent State campus or location, your schedule has been cancelled. You do not need to cancel your registration.
4. What should I do if I have a balance on my FlashCash account?
   To inquire about a refund, visit the FlashCard Office on the first floor of the Kent Student Center on the Kent Campus, call the office at 330-672-2273 or send an email (flashcard@kent.edu). Please know that a dining plan balance is nonrefundable.
5. How can I receive a refund if I have paid tuition or fees for a future term?
   If you have paid for a future term, Kent State will issue a refund. If you have questions regarding fees or refunds, contact the One Stop for Student Services at 330-672-6000 or online via the "Contact Us" button.
6. What do I need to do if I am on an international student visa?
   If you currently maintain F-1 or J-1 immigration status, you should immediately contact an advisor in the Office of Global Education at 330-672-7980 or via email (isss@kent.edu). Failure to do so may result in the termination of your immigration status and cancellation of your visa.

Appeals

1. Can I appeal my dismissal?
   If you have been dismissed, you have the right to appeal the decision. Some questions to ask yourself before appeal include: Were there recent circumstances beyond your control? Were you doing well in your classes prior to these circumstances? Why weren't you able to withdraw from classes or work with your instructors?
2. Who do I contact for the appeal or if I have questions or need help?
   Contact your college/campus advising office listed in your dismissal email. Links to dismissal contacts for the Kent Campus and Regional Campuses.
3. Is it a guarantee that I can return next semester if I submit an appeal?

   No. The appeal allows you the opportunity to be considered for immediate return to the university. The appeals committee will review your submission and make a decision based on the merits of your appeal. You will be notified of the decision regardless of the outcome.
4. Can I be return to my same major/college if my appeal is successful?
   Yes. After a successful appeal, you will be reinstated into the same program you were in at the time of your dismissal. We encourage you to talk with an academic advisor to discuss if this plan of study is the best option for you and if another program may be a better fit for your interests and career goasls.

5. What if my appeal is denied?
   The decisions of the committee are final. However, you can apply for reinstatement after being away for a full 12 months. We encourage you to work with your academic advisor to discuss how best to use this year off. This may include attending classes at a community college or other higher education institution or simply taking time to refocus. You were admitted to the university because we believe you could be successful. We think with some time to regroup you still can be.

Reinstatement

1. If I don't appeal, can I come back to Kent Sate?
   Yes!All students can apply to return to the university, referred to as reinstatement, after being away for a full 12 months. We encourage you to work with your academic advisor to discuss how best to use this year off. This may include attending classes at a community college or other higher education institution or simply taking time to refocus. You were admitted to the university because we believe you could be successful. We think with some time to regroup you still can be.
2. What should I do if I plan to take classes at another school before applying for reinstatement?
   Schedule an appointment with your Kent State academic advisor. You need to make sure that the courses you intend to take are transferrable and that you do not jeopardize your eligibility for any of Kent State's course repeat or forgiveness policies.

- Academic Standing: Academic status at institutions of higher education. Students with a cumulative 2.00 GPA or above are in good academic standing.
- Dismissal (Academic): Students who fail to make adequate progress toward completion of a program of study or whose academic performance indicates little chance of obtaining the minimum grades required for graduation are no longer allowed to enroll at the university.
- Probation (Academic): A warning to undergraduate students who fail to maintain a semester and/or overall grade point average of 2.00 or better. Failure to improve the academic record within a specific time may result in academic dismissal.
- Reinstatement: Process by which a student may gain reentry to the university after a dismissal.

Dissertation for the Doctoral Degree

Policy Statement

A dissertation is required of candidates for the Ph.D. and Ed.D. degrees and must demonstrate the candidate's ability to plan, conduct and present scholarly research and activity within their field or research area under the direction of members of the graduate faculty.

Dissertation Registration and Applicability Toward Degree

Each doctoral student, upon admission to candidacy, must register continuously for Dissertation I (8x199) each semester (fall, spring) for 30 credit hours. A student who has completed the required 30 credit hours of Dissertation I but has not finished the dissertation is expected, thereafter, to register continuously for Dissertation II (8x299) each semester (fall, spring) until all degree requirements are met. Students who are planning to defend their dissertation in summer or early fall, or who are requiring access to university resources during the summer months — including, but not limited to, feedback or mentoring from their dissertation advisors, use of university buildings and other research resources — must register for dissertation in the summer term.#For students in good standing, those credit hours will be approved by the academic unit administrator. The student receives an In-Progress (IP) administrative mark until the dissertation is completed, when the IP mark is changed to either the Satisfactory (S) or Unsatisfactory (U) grade.

No more than 30 credit hours of Dissertation I may be counted toward completion of degree requirements. Credit hours earned in Dissertation II do not, under any circumstances, count toward the degree.

Dissertation Prospectus

The dissertation topic must be approved by the academic unit and filed with the college dean no later than one semester preceding that in which the candidate expects to receive the degree. Each graduate unit has adopted a procedure for the preparation of a dissertation prospectus. The prospectus must be in writing, but an oral presentation may also be required.

This document normally will include the following:

- An outline of the parameters of the projected dissertation topic with a statement of the problem to be undertaken;
- The procedure or methodology to be used in the research;
- A preliminary review of the literature substantiating the need for the study; and
- The principle sources of information for the dissertation.

Dissertation Committee

When the student has developed a dissertation topic acceptable to the advisor, a dissertation committee is convened, responsible for overseeing the progress of the candidate's dissertation. The program coordinator appoints the members of the committee in consultation with the student and the student's advisor. This group will consist, at minimum, of three members:

1. The advisor who serves as dissertation director and who chairs the committee. The director must have full graduate faculty status in their college and be approved to direct dissertations and must be in the student's program area.
2. One committee member from the candidate's unit (school, department or college). This member must have full or associate graduate faculty status.
3. One committee member from outside the program. This member must have graduate faculty status and may be from outside the university.
4. Optional additional members (can be from outside the university). This member(s) must have graduate faculty status.

Special permission must be obtained from the college dean for anyone on the dissertation committee who does not meet the qualifications stated above.

The student can change committee membership at any time in consultation with the program coordinator or academic unit administrator. In the event of a change, the program coordinator or academic unit administrator will notify the committee members of the changes and request that the student initiate committee changes using the appropriate doctoral form.

Examining Committee

When the advisor believes the candidate's dissertation is ready for preliminary approval, the advisor will convene an examining committee. The examining committee will consist of members of the dissertation committee and an appointed graduate faculty representative. The procedures for appointing the graduate faculty representative are detailed in the procedures section below.

Once the graduate faculty representative is appointed, the advisor will submit the dissertation to the committee members for a 10-day reading period. Following the reading period, the advisor will convene the examination committee to evaluate the dissertation. The advisor will note and communicate to the candidate any revisions recommended by the committee. When, in the advisor and the candidate's opinion, the appropriate revisions have been made, the advisor will inform the graduate/program coordinator, the academic unit's lead administrator and the college dean.

Final Examination (Oral Defense)

Upon completion of the revisions, if any, the student will be required to defend the findings before a committee of graduate faculty members, including the dissertation committee and others chosen by the academic unit and college dean.

The dissertation must be in final form (not just a late draft) before the final oral defense. If, in the opinion of more than one member of the examining committee, the dissertation is not in acceptable final form, the oral defense will not be held. An acceptable final form refers to the substance and usefulness of the dissertation and the writing's quality. The decision to halt the defense is to be determined by vote prior to the final oral examination and without the candidate or others being present. If a negative vote occurs, the candidate may be called in to provide clarification.

A rescheduling of the oral defense, if necessary, will occur when, in the advisor and student's opinion, the dissertation has been modified to incorporate the suggested changes. The dissertation must be acceptable, with no more than one dissenting vote, before the rescheduled final oral can be held. If the dissertation is not in suitable form at this second scheduled oral, the advisor will notify the college dean. Further action is then the responsibility of the college dean.

The procedures for the defense are detailed in the procedures section below.

Dissertation Submission

After passing the oral examination, doctoral candidates must submit their dissertation in electronic form to theOhioLINK Electronic Thesis or Dissertation (ETD) Center, where the dissertation is made publicly available. The dissertation must include an abstract of maximum 350 words. The dissertation must be prepared according to established guidelines, which are available in the college office.

Individual units may still require submission of a paper copy for their archives, and the deadline for the dissertation to be filed in the college office is the last day of classes for the term of graduation (some colleges may require an earlier deadline). It is the doctoral student's responsibility to fulfill this requirement.

All dissertations must be submitted to ProQuest for archiving, indexing and dissemination. This submission is made when students upload their dissertation to the OhioLINK ETD Center. All communications and relations between faculty or students and ProQuest shall be carried out only through the Kent State University Libraries or OhioLINK. Publication of the complete dissertation or significant parts of it through other avenues is expected, but this is not to be used in lieu of the requirement stated herein.

Reason for Policy

Policy enforces uniform standards for the doctoral dissertation submission and oral defense and defines the dissertation committees and applicability toward the doctoral degree.

Procedures

Procedures for Appointing the Graduate Faculty Representative

The college dean, or designee, will appoint the graduate faculty representative to the examining committee after consultation, when appropriate, with the advisor or lead administrator of the academic unit. The graduate faculty representative must have the following credentials:

- Directed a dissertation to completion
- Familiar with the general content area of the candidate's dissertation
- Outside the candidate's program or outside the candidate's area of focus

The graduate faculty representative may be appointed from outside the university but still must have directed a dissertation to completion.

The principal responsibility of the graduate faculty representative is to preside and moderate the final examination (oral defense) and to note whether the nature of the questioning of the faculty and the responses of the candidate meet highly respectable scholarly standards. Any concerns must be presented immediately to the college dean or designee. As moderator, the graduate faculty representative should ensure that all participants in the defense act in a civilized, polite and proper manner. The graduate faculty representative should be familiar with the procedures of the oral defense and has the authority to suspend the examination should a situation arise that would not be conducive to a fair examination.

The graduate faculty representative is expected to question the candidate and to vote on the passing of the final examination.

If a separate moderator for the final oral defense is desired, that individual will be selected by the dissertation committee from the members of the graduate faculty who have been approved to direct dissertations. The separate moderator will not be a faculty member in the candidate's program.

Procedures for the Final Examination (Oral Defense)

When the dissertation committee has met and has agreed to proceed to the final examination, the advisor will designate the time and place of the final oral defense and notify the student and all members of the examining committee.

The oral defense is open to any member of the university wishing to attend and, therefore, a facility adequate to meet this requirement should be provided. The defense should be scheduled to allow a minimum of 10 days for all members of the examining committee to review the dissertation; this is in addition to the 10-day period preceding the dissertation committee meeting.

In the advisor's absence, the academic unit's lead administrator may postpone the oral defense. In the case of long-term absence or enduring illness of the advisor, the lead administrator, in consultation with the college dean, should make appropriate arrangements for a substitute.

The advisor should notify the academic unit of the time and place of the oral defense so that it may be announced in a suitable way. The student should provide the dissertation abstract to the academic unit so that it will be available to interested individuals prior to the defense with the methodology and findings.

Students may participate in the oral defense in a different location than the committee members (i.e., by web conferencing) if they are declared in a fully online degree program or have obtained permission in advance from the committee chair. See the policy onremote participation in a thesis or dissertation defense#in the University Catalog.

The candidate will open the defense with a brief presentation of dissertation findings, after which the members of the examining committee will question the candidate in an order to be determined by the moderator. When, in the moderator's opinion, members of the examining committee have had an adequate opportunity to question the candidate, the moderator may open the examination to appropriate questions from others present. Questions dealing with the substance, meaning and usefulness of the research in the dissertation are of greatest propriety. Questions or comments dealing with punctuation or grammatical minutiae, spelling, etc., are out of order and should be written out and privately submitted to the advisor.

If, in the opinion of the moderator or upon motion duly passed by a majority of the committee, it should be deemed necessary to discontinue the defense, the moderator may recess the defense until a time mutually agreeable to the moderator, the advisor, the candidate and the college dean.

When the questioning has run its course, the moderator will adjourn the defense, and the room will be cleared of everyone except the members of the examining committee. Parliamentary procedure will be observed to determine the success or failure of the candidate, with the moderator acting as chair without a vote. The committee should evaluate the candidate on (a) the dissertation's overall quality and significance and (b) the oral defense of the findings.

All members of the examining committee will sign the Report of Final Examination form, recording their votes of "yes" or "no." Committee members may not abstain in this vote. A candidate passes the final oral defense if there is no more than one dissenting vote. The moderator and lead administrator of the academic unit must then sign the report, forwarded to the college for the dean's signature. The college returns a copy of the completed form to the academic unit.

Only members of the examining committee who voted "yes" are required to sign the dissertation signature page.

Frequently Asked Questions

There is no FAQ associated with this policy.

Definitions

Academic Unit: An academic unit is a department, school or a designated graduate program within a college, department or school.

Defense: Defense refers to students presenting, explaining and defending their ideas submitted in their dissertation. The defense is designed so that faculty members can ask questions to ensure that students understand their chosen field and focus area.

Dissertation: A dissertation is a highly individualized investigative study that results in the development and writing of a scholarly, comprehensive paper and fulfills the culminating requirement for a Ph.D. or Ed.D. degree. The dissertation must demonstrate that the student has acquired the ability to conduct research in a discriminating and original manner. The dissertation should make a significant enough contribution to the field in which it is written that at least one scholarly article suitable for publication in a professional journal may be derived from it or that the findings of the dissertation would be otherwise publishable.

Revision History

Amended August 2025: Revised policy includes the Ed.D. degree in programs requiring a dissertation; decreases dissertation committee membership from minimum four to three members; and requires student's advisor to have full graduate faculty status in their college and be in the student's program area.

Amended August 2020: Revised policy clarifies that a dissertation is required for the Ph.D. degree, rather than all doctoral degrees; replaces language regarding dissertation committees with more up-to-date information; removes graduate faculty status levels; eliminates summer registration requirement; add credit hours earned in Dissertation II do not count toward the degree; and adds deadline for filing the dissertation.

Dual Degrees and Double Majors

Policy Statement

Undergraduate Programs

Kent State University students may be able to simultaneously pursue two associate or bachelor's degree programs through either a double major or a dual degree. A double major combines two majors within the same degree (e.g., B.A. degree). A dual degree combines two majors within different degrees (e.g., B.A. and B.S. degrees).

Certain major combinations are not permitted by the colleges. Students interested in a double major or dual degree must consult with their advisor (and an advisor for the second major if in a different college) to determine whether the desired combination of majors is permitted. Declaring a double major or dual degree in the same department or school is allowed only when the department or school offers different majors. For example, a student may declare the Spanish major and the French major even though both majors are offered by the Department of Modern and Classical Language Studies. Some departments or schools may allow a student who earned a Bachelor of Arts degree to return to complete a Bachelor of Science degree in the same major.

Because of their generalist nature, the following degree programs may not be earned as a double major or dual degree with another major and cannot be earned as an additional degree after another degree at the same or higher level has been earned previously:

- Applied Media - B.A.
- Individualized Program - A.T.S.
- Integrative Studies - B.I.S.
- Professional Studies - B.S.
- Technical and Applied Studies - B.T.A.S.

In addition, due to the similarity in program requirements, the Associate of Arts and the Associate of Science degrees may not be earned concurrently with each other; nor may either be awarded as an additional degree when one has been earned previously.

Students cannot be on academic probation and declare another major or degree at either the associate or bachelor's level.

Students pursuing a double major or dual degree concurrently or subsequently must be officially admitted to the programs and complete all requirements for both in addition to the university's undergraduate and residence requirements.

Graduate Programs

Graduate dual degree programs allow students to simultaneously pursue two graduate degrees at the same level (two master's degrees or two doctoral degrees) or two graduate degrees at different levels (one master's degree and one doctoral degree).[1] Rather than sequentially completing first one degree and then the other, the amount of time required to complete both sets of degree requirements may be reduced by completing the programs in a coordinated way. Graduate dual degrees are distinct from combined degree programs, which allow students to simultaneously pursue two degrees at the undergraduate and graduate levels (see policy on Combined Bachelor's/Master's Degree Program in the University Catalog for details).

Coursework common to both programs must constitute a well-planned and meaningful part of each program. A minimum of 60 percent of the total credit hours required for each degree program must be unique to that degree program, after which some courses may be double counted. The percentage of unique hours that must be completed in each degree program may vary from the 60 percent minimum only when the graduate dual degree program has been formally approved by the university.

Graduate credit transferred from another institution is limited to a maximum of 12 credit hours across both degree programs. Doctoral-level courses may be applied toward a master's degree. Under no circumstances may master's-level courses be applied toward a doctoral degree.

The maximum time limits for completing degree requirements and graduation apply to each degree individually (see the policy on Academic Standing–Graduate Student in the University Catalog for details).

Kent State University allows for both informal and formal dual degree programs, as described below.

Informal Dual Graduate Degree Programs

Students may simultaneously pursue two graduate degrees in different programs through an informal dual degree program (those that have not received official university approval). Informal dual degree programs offer students the flexibility to double-count some coursework, given that the two programs in question approve the arrangements. Once admitted to both degree programs, the student and advisor(s) must plan an integrated course of study. The plan must be approved by both programs and filed with the respective college(s). Culminating experiences (e.g. capstone courses, theses, dissertations, applied projects) and comprehensive examinations cannot be shared.

Formal Dual Graduate Degree Programs

A formal dual degree program is one that has been officially approved by the university. It has one curriculum established by two programs resulting in the completion of two graduate degrees at the same level. A list of dual degree programs that have been formally approved may be found in the University Catalog.

[1] This policy does not apply to dual concentrations. Students should contact their program coordinator if they are interested in completing dual concentrations.

Reason for Policy

Policy enforces uniform standards for students seeking to pursue multiple degree programs, either concurrently or subsequently.

Procedures

Undergraduate Dual Degrees and Double Majors

Undergraduate students request the second major/degree through the Manage My Program application in FlashLine and review program requirements in their GPS degree audit.

Graduate Dual Degrees

An applicant who is not currently a graduate student at Kent State University must submit an application and pay an application fee for each program.

Students who are currently enrolled in one graduate program at Kent State University must submit an application and pay an application fee for the second program, indicating on the application that the intent is to complete both degrees rather than to transfer from the first to the second program.

If applying to a formal degree program, the applicant/student should indicate the specific dual-degree concentration in the program.

If admitted to an informal degree program, the student and advisor(s) must plan an integrated course of study. The plan must be approved by both programs and filed with the respective college(s).

Frequently Asked Questions

Undergraduate Programs

1. What are the benefits of declaring a double major or dual degree?
   A double major/dual degree allows you to expand your knowledge and gain skills and expertise in two fields. Earning two degrees demonstrates that you are motivated, hard-working and determined. This distinction can make you more competitive during the hiring process when starting your career.
2. What is the difference between a double major or dual degree? They sound like the same thing.
   A double major combines two majors within the same degree (e.g., English and Sociology majors in the B.A. degree). A dual degree combines two majors within different degrees (e.g., Architectural Studies major in the B.A. degree and Construction Management major in the B.S. degree). In some cases, some degrees have requirements in addition to major requirements that you will be required to complete for that degree.
3. Can I double major or earn a dual degree in anything?
   No, there are certain combinations that are not allowed. Some are not permitted by the college, and you will need to talk to your advisor (or an advisor for the second major if in a different college) to find out which are allowed. You cannot earn a second major/degree in any one of the following due to the generalist nature of the program: A.T.S. degree in Individualized Program, B.A. degree in Applied Media, B.S. degree in Professional Studies, B.I.S. degree in Integrative Studies or B.T.A.S. degree in Technical and Applied Studies.

Additional FAQ: Undergraduate Dual Degrees and Double Majors

Graduate Programs

1. Do I need to complete all the requirements for both degrees if I apply for a dual degree?
   For formal dual degree programs, the colleges have approved a curriculum separate from the individual degree that allows for courses to count toward both degrees, with total credit hours below what would be required if the degree programs were taken separately. You can find this curriculum on the "Dual Degree" tab for that program in the University Catalog (e.g., curriculum for all dual degrees with the M.B.A.)
2. I do not see the dual degree I want listed in the catalog. What can I do?
   You should contact the program coordinators of the two programs to discuss the feasibility of pursuing both degrees simultaneously. If you are approved to be admitted to both degrees, you and your advisor(s) will plan an integrated course of study. The plan must be approved by both programs and filed with the respective college(s). Please know that the program's culminating experience (e.g., capstone, thesis, projects) and comprehensive examinations cannot be double counted toward both degrees.
3. Will I receive two diplomas?
   Yes, you will receive a diploma for each degree program earned.
4. What happens if I am dismissed from one of my graduate dual degrees?
   Please see the Dismissal and Appeal–Graduate policy for information on students in dual degree programs.
5. Do I have extended time limits for dual graduate degrees?
   No, you will still be bound by the university's time limits for graduate programs unless you are granted an extension by the program area.

Definitions

Degree: an award for completion of a course of study at a specific level designated by the customary titles of associate, bachelor's, master's, specialist or doctorate. Examples: Associate of Arts degree, Bachelor of Arts degree, Master of Arts degree, Doctor of Philosophy degree.

Double Counting: allowance of a course (and its credit hours) to count toward the requirements of two programs.

Double Major: combines two majors with the same degree; e.g., B.A. degree in Psychology and the B.A. degree in Sociology.

Dual Degree: combines two majors with different degrees, e.g., B.A. degree in Fashion Merchandising and B.B.A. degree in Business Management.

Formal Dual Graduate Degree: dual graduate degree program that has been officially approved by the university; the curriculum for the dual degree is published in the University Catalog.

Informal Dual Graduate Degree: an agreement between two program areas to allow a student admitted to both degree programs to double-count specific coursework toward both.

Major: a set of requirements for completion of a degree as authorized by the Kent State Board of Trustees and the Ohio Department of Higher Education. Examples: Geography major, Nursing major, Public Health major.

Revision History

Amended August 2024: Revised to include two additional completer programs and to link to the list of graduate dual degree programs so they can be updated as needed without having to update this policy.

Amended August 2023: Revised to reflect name change of the bachelor's degree in educational studies and the addition of new graduate dual degree programs.

Amended August 2020: Revised to redefine "double major," eliminate the 140-credit hour requirement for dual degrees; eliminate additional 15 credit hours for concurrent or subsequent associate degrees; provide more information on certain major/degree combinations that are not permitted; restrict students on academic probation from declaring multiple majors; and include master's/doctoral degrees in the graduate dual degrees policy.

Amended August 2015: Revised to reflect university minimum semester credit hours for a degree was decreased, from 121 to 120 for one major or double majors. Minimum semester credit hours for dual degrees remains at 140. Disclaimer on dual concentrations within one major is added.

Amended August 1995: Revised to reflect university minimum semester credit hours for a degree was decreased, from 129 to 121 for one major or double majors and from 148 to 140 for dual degrees.

Amended August 1995: Distinction between double majors and dual degrees are made, with no minimum credit hours for double majors beyond what is required for one degree (129 semester credit hours). Minimum semester credit hours for dual degrees remains at 148.

Amended August 1988: Application fee for graduation is eliminated.

Amended August 1979: Revised to reflect the university's conversion from quarters to semesters; total semester credit hours for two degrees is increased, from 147 (220 quarter credit hours) to 148.

Amended September 1974: Disclaimer added that some degree combinations are not permitted. Students are now allowed to declare and earn two degrees simultaneously. Required additional coursework (30-35 quarter credit hours) is eliminated. A deadline and fee are added for applying for graduation.

Amended September 1965: Allowance on qualifying for a degree in absentia is removed.

Amended June 1952: New allowance on qualifying for a degree in absentia after three years of work at Kent State University.

Amended June 1948: Total quarter credit hours for two degrees is decreased, from 234 to 220. Additional coursework is revised from one year to 30-35 quarter credit hours. Now recommends declaration in second degree as early as possible, changing it from junior to sophomore year. Second degree must be earned after first degree (no awarding of two simultaneously).

Amended June 1942: Revised to reflect the university's conversion from semesters to quarters (now requiring 234 quarter credit hours); procedures added for students to seek college dean approval for a dual degree before the start of junior year.

Effective June 1939: Establishes a policy requiring students to complete 156 semester credit hours and one year (or six summer terms) of residence beyond four years to earn two degrees in any two colleges or two degrees in the same college.

Eligibility for a Doctoral Degree

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

The student will ordinarily observe the following procedure in order to be eligible for the doctoral degree:

- Indicate the intention to meet specifications of the departments concerned by applying for admission. The college or independent school and the department together will determine acceptability.
- Fulfill the credit requirements of the department in which the major work is done.
- Fulfill the residence requirements (if any).
- Satisfy the language or research tool requirements of the department.
- Pass the candidacy (comprehensive) examination in the field of the major subject.
- Carry out a suitable scholarly research or creative program.
- Write a dissertation that shows high attainment and creativity.
- Successfully defend the findings of the dissertation in public before a committee of the graduate faculty.
- Have registered for a minimum of 90 credit hours beyond the bachelor's degree, or 60 credit hours beyond the master's degree (registration for thesis, dissertation and research may be included in this total).

For eligibility for the Doctor of Podiatric Medicine degree, please refer to the college policies in the College of Podiatric Medicine section of this Catalog.

English Placement

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

English Placement

All undergraduate degree programs require successful completion of the Kent Core Composition requirement. Placement into the appropriate starting course in the sequence is determined by ACT English or SAT evidence-based reading and writing or high school GPA. In the event students do not have ACT, SAT scores or qualifying high school GPA and are attending a Kent State University regional campus, they will take Accuplacer Next Generation reading and Writeplacer. This assessment is available on site or remotely. Students who have taken Accuplacer sentence skills, Writeplacer or reading comprehensive at another institution within two years of their initial start date may opt to transfer those scores to Kent State University.

Students enrolled at a Kent State University regional campus who do not meet the university readiness standards will be required to enroll in and earn a minimum C grade in ENG 01001 and a minimum C- grade

ENG 11002 before they can enroll in ENG 21011 . Students who wish to challenge their writing placement may do so using the Writing Placement Reassessment.

To provide more opportunities to all students, ACT/SAT scores and/or high school GPA older than two years are acceptable for English placement. Regional Campus students should also be informed about the Stretch sequence and given the option to enroll in Stretch, regardless of their older ACT/SAT or GPA. Students who do not have ACT/SAT scores or high school GPA will take Accuplacer Reading and Writeplacer.

Enrollment - Graduate

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Graduate students shall enroll for at least one term each year (three consecutive terms, including summer as one term) to maintain status as a degree-seeking student. Meeting this minimum enrollment requirement does not guarantee the student will meet the minimum requirements of other programs, offices or agencies.

Students not meeting the minimum enrollment requirement for maintaining status as a degree-seeking graduate student will be considered as having voluntarily withdrawn from the university. After three consecutive terms of non-enrollment, students will be inactivated as a degree-seeking student.

Students who withdrew and wish to have their graduate standing re-instated must follow the same admission procedures as those required of new applicants, including submission of a non-refundable application fee and application materials. Acceptance back into a graduate program is not guaranteed even if the student departed in good standing. Students who apply and are admitted will be re-instated under the catalog-in-force at the time of admission. The program determines how much of the previously completed work may be applied toward the graduate degree program.

Students on an approved leave of absence may return to their program of study by completing the Application for Graduate Re-Enrollment form found on the Graduate College forms website.

Enrollment Definitions

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

For financial aid eligibility and enrollment certification for loan deferments, insurance coverage and other purposes, the enrollment status of students is defined as the following:

Undergraduate Students

Enrollment Type	Credit Hours
Full-time	12+
Three-quarter-time	9-11
Half-time	6-8
Less-than-half-time	1-5

Graduate Students

Enrollment Type	Credit Hours
Full-time	8+
Three-quarter-time	6-7
Half-time	4-5
Less-than-half-time	1-3

For summer, the statues listed above may be fulfilled by enrollment in one or more sessions within the summer semester, including summer intersession. Courses receiving an AU, NF or SF mark are not counted in enrollment credit hours. This definition differs from the one used for assessing tuition and fees (for more information, see Office of the Bursar website).

Exploratory and General Majors

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Kent State offers the non-degree Exploratory major on all campuses and generalist majors within most colleges to enable undergraduate students to explore academic areas and/or meet minimum program requirements. Baccalaureate-seeking students in these non-degree majors must declare a degree major by the time they have earned 45 credit hours at Kent State University. Students needing assistance with selecting a major must consult with an academic advisor.

Foreign Language Placement

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Students intending to study Chinese, French, German, Italian, Russian or Spanish should take the placement assessment 48 hours before their academic advising appointment.

Students planning to study a language other than the ones listed above should contact the Department of Modern and Classical Language Studies via email (mcls@kent.edu) or website for further placement instructions. All students should begin foreign language study in the appropriate course, which may be determined in one of the following ways:

1. Webcape Placement Exam available on the Placement Channel in FlashLine for Chinese, French, German, Italian, Russian and Spanish.
2. Placement interview with a faculty member in the Department Modern and Classical Language Studies for languages for which there is no Webcape Placement Exam.
3. Placement based on alternative credits accrued per one of the approved methods specified in the University Catalog.

Foreign Language Requirements: Generally, foreign language requirements are met by passing the highest level course in the language requirement or a course beyond the highest level in the requirement. Students should review the University Catalog and consult with their academic advisor(s) to determine specific language requirements for their college and program. Some students may begin their university foreign language experience beyond the Elementary I level without receiving credit for the previous course(s) and, thus, may complete the requirement with fewer credit hours and fewer courses than specified in their language requirement. In this case, the credit hours not used for the language requirement may be still required for graduation, but may be applied toward coursework in the student's major or minor or as electives.

Foreign Language Proficiency Waiver: Students able to demonstrate foreign language proficiency comparable to the highest course in their foreign language requirement may be able to have their language requirement waived. Students should review the University Catalog and consult with their academic advisor(s) and the Department of Modern and Classical Language Studies to verify eligibility. Proficiency waivers will be granted for the following:

1. International students who were educated through high or secondary school in a language other than English. Foreign language waivers will be granted to international students who have
   a. TOEFL, IELTS, MELAB, PTE Academic score recorded in their Kent State University academic record;
   b. completed English-as-second-language courses at Kent State; or
   c. provided documentation that they attended a secondary or high school in a country in which courses were taught in a language other than English (e.g., high school transcripts or diploma in the original language along with a certified English translation).
2. American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages (ACTFL) Exams. The tests are administered by Language Testing International. Students are responsible for the costs of the exam(s) and for providing the Department of Modern and Classical Language Studies with a copy of the certificate(s). Instructions for taking the ACTFL Exams may be found on the department's website.
   a. A proficiency waiver will be granted through Elementary II of a foreign language to students who provide either
      i. an official ACTFL Oral Proficiency Interview (OPI) certificate that documents proficiency at the Intermediate Low or higher level; or
      ii. comparable qualifying score on an ACTFL-based proficiency exam such as those accepted for the Ohio Seal of Biliteracy confirming oral proficiency of at least an intermediate low level.
   b. A proficiency waiver will be granted through Intermediate II of a foreign language to students who provide either
      i. an official ACTFL Oral Proficiency Interview (OPI) and Writing Proficiency Test (WPT) certificates with scores at the Intermediate Low or higher level; or
      ii. comparable qualifying ACTFL-based proficiency exams such as those accepted for the Ohio Seal of Biliteracy confirming oral proficiency and writing proficiency of at least an intermediate low level.
3. Common European Framework of Reference for Language (CEFR) Ratings. A proficiency waiver will be granted through Elementary II of a foreign language to students who provide an official (European) CEFR certificate confirming oral proficiency of at least the B1.1 level. A proficiency waiver will be granted through Intermediate II of a foreign language to students who provide an official CEFR certificate confirming oral and writing proficiency of at least the B1.2 level. Students are responsible for providing the Department of Modern and Classical Language Studies with a copy of the certificate(s).
4. Defense Language Proficiency Test (DLPT). A proficiency waiver will be granted through Elementary II of a foreign language to students who were tested during military service and provide an official DLPT certificate confirming oral proficiency of at least ILR 1. A proficiency waiver will be granted through Intermediate II of a foreign language to students who provide an official DLPT certificate confirming oral proficiency of at least ILR 1+.
5. Ohio Seal of Biliteracy. A proficiency waiver may be granted through Elementary II or Intermediate II of a foreign language to students with an Ohio Seal of Biliteracy, depending on the results of their qualifying test scores. Students who have qualified for the Ohio Seal of Biliteracy by means of an International Baccalaureate (IB) or Advance Placement (AP) exam or who submit their ACE transcripts may be eligible to receive credit for the Ohio Seal of Biliteracy. Students will be required to submit their certificate and exam results to Kent State University officials to determine which level of proficiency will be granted. For more information, visit the

Grade Point Average (GPA)

Undergraduate Students

Overall GPA for Graduation

To graduate from Kent State University with an associate degree, bachelor's degree, undergraduate minor or undergraduate certificate, all students must earn a minimum 2.000 overall grade point average (GPA). Some programs require a higher overall GPA for graduation, and these are noted on the program's page in the University Catalog and in the GPS degree audit.

A student's overall GPA is calculated using all coursework taken at Kent State, with the exception of grades exempted through Kent State's course repeat or GPA adjustment policies.

Major, Minor and Certificate GPA for Graduation

To graduate with a declared undergraduate major, minor or certificate, all students must earn a minimum 2.000 GPA in the program. Some programs require a higher GPA for graduation, and these are noted on the program's page in the University Catalog and in the GPS degree audit.

A student's major, minor or certificate GPA is calculated using only the courses that complete the requirements in that major, minor or certificate. When multiple courses may be used to complete a specific requirement (e.g., "choose from" or either/or choice), the course with the highest passing grade will complete the requirement and be used in the calculation of the major, minor or certificate GPA.

The major, minor and certificate GPA can be found in the student's GPS degree audit; they are not displayed on the student transcript or diploma and are not stored in the university's student information system.

Latin Honors GPA

For information on how the GPA is calculated for Latin Honors (bachelor's degrees) and for Distinction (associate degrees), refer to the Honors at Graduation policy in the University Catalog.

Graduate Students

To be considered "in good standing," a 3.000 average or better in all graduate and required undergraduate work undertaken at Kent State University should be maintained by graduate students[1]. In order to qualify for graduation, the student must have a 3.000 average in all graduate courses attempted. The grade point average of a student who enlists in the military service after work is begun toward a graduate degree may, at the student's request upon return from military service, exclude the grades earned in the last semester in which that student is in residence prior to induction.

[1] Students seeking the Doctor of Podiatric Medicine degree are expected to maintain a minimum 2.000 grade point average.

Calculating Grade Point Average

Quality points are awarded on the following scale:

- 1 credit hour of A equals 4.000 points
- 1 credit hour of A- equals 3.700 points
- 1 credit hour of B+ equals 3.300 points
- 1 credit hour of B equals 3.000 points
- 1 credit hour of B- equals 2.700 points
- 1 credit hour of C+ equals 2.300 points
- 1 credit hour of C equals 2.000 points
- 1 credit hour of C- equals 1.700 points
- 1 credit hour of D+ equals 1.300 points
- 1 credit hour of D equals 1.000 point
- 1 credit hour of F equals 0.000 points
- 1 credit hour of NF equals 0.000 points
- 1 credit hour of SF equals 0.000 points
- 1 credit hour of U equals 0.000 points

A grade point average is determined by dividing the total number of points earned by the number of quality hours taken. Totals are extended to three decimal points and are not rounded up.

As an example, assume a student has completed 30 credit hours with a grade distribution of 3 credit hours of A, 3 credit hours of B, 3 credit hours of B-, 15 credit hours of C, 4 credit hours of D and 2 credit hours of F.

Dividing 63.100 by 30, a GPA of 2.103 is obtained, which is slightly above a C average. Overall GPA is computed by dividing the total quality points by the total quality hours. Grades of S (Satisfactory), Y (Pass) and Z (Fail) are not included in the GPA.

Grade Point Average (GPA) Adjustment

Effective Date: August 2023
Last Reviewed: October 2018
Last Revised: February 2023
Next Review: February 2026

Policy Statement

The Grade Point Average (GPA) Adjustment policy provides students the opportunity to make progress toward degree completion by allowing them to remove a maximum of six courses with grades C- or lower from the calculation of their overall GPA and earned hours.

Eligibility

To be eligible for a GPA adjustment, students must meet all the following conditions at the time of the request:

- Officially admitted, reenrolled or reinstated to Kent State *
- Seeking a Kent State undergraduate degree or certificate
- Enrolled in undergraduate credit courses at Kent State

* Students who are dismissed may apply for GPA adjustment if they appeal and are reinstated.

Students with a previous undergraduate degree or certificate and currently enrolled in a subsequent undergraduate program are eligible with the following stipulations:

- Students who earned a Kent State associate or bachelor's degree or certificate may request a GPA adjustment for failed grades (F, NF, SF, U) and only C-, D+ and D grades for the courses that were not used toward earning the previous degree or certificate.
- Students who earned a non-Kent State associate or bachelor's degree or certificate may request a GPA adjustment for failed grades (F, NF, SF, U) earned before or after the awarded degree or certificate and only C-, D+ and D grades earned after the awarded degree or certificate.

Reason for Policy

This GPA Adjustment policy is an alternative to the Course Repeat policy and allows students to request specific course grades to be removed from their GPA and overall credit hours subjected to specific conditions for eligibility and approval.

Procedures

To apply for a GPA adjustment, students must complete the following steps:

1. Meet with an academic advisor to begin an application
2. Provide a written statement describing their plan to assure successful academic performance in the future
3. Select a maximum of six courses with grades C-, D+, D, F, NF, SF, M and/or U to be removed from the GPA and earned hours

Once the steps outlined above have been completed, the Office of the University Registrar will remove the student-selected grades from the calculation of the student's GPA and earned hours. The grades will be retained on the student's transcript with the notation of an "E" (excluded) in the repeat column. The official grade for the courses will be changed to X* (e.g., XC-, XD) to denote a GPA adjustment.

The following stipulations to course forgiveness will be enforced:

- The GPA Adjustment policy applies only to coursework taken at Kent State University and only to the students' Kent State transcript. Students cannot request the policy for grades earned from transfer courses.
- Students cannot request the policy for courses taken for a pass/fail grade.
- The course must officially be recorded on the student's transcript for grade adjustment to be considered.
- Students selecting a GPA adjustment for a course required to graduate with their declared program must retake this course unless the dean of the college in which they are enrolled approves a suitable substitution.
- The original GPA (includes any courses under the GPA Adjustment policy) will be used in determining eligibility for Latin honors, distinction or other recognition, as well as satisfactory academic progress eligibility for federal financial aid, based upon the entirety of students' undergraduate academic career and record of academic performance.
- A student may submit multiple requests for GPA adjustment until the maximum six courses is met or the student graduates with that degree or certificate, whichever comes first. Students cannot request this policy for a course in a degree or certificate program after that degree or certificate has been awarded.
- Students who participated in academic forgiveness in the past may request GPA adjustment if they had fewer than six courses removed from their GPA and earned hours under the previous policy. Maximum six courses may be removed under previous and proposed policy, combined.
- Once the course grade and credit hours have been removed from the student's GPA and earned hours, they will not, under any circumstances, be reinstated.
- A graduate school may review a student's complete undergraduate record (including any courses under the GPA Adjustment policy) when making admission decisions.

Forms/Instructions

Students must contact an academic advisor to begin an application.

Frequently Asked Questions

1. How does the new GPA Adjustment policy differ from the Academic Forgiveness policy?
   The Academic Forgiveness policy has been revised and renamed GPA Adjustment. The process for applying and the eligibility requirements have been modified to simplify the process and remove unintended barriers for students to receive a second chance at pursuing their academic goals and progress for degree completion.
2. What is the difference between the GPA Adjustment policy and the Course Repeat policy?
   GPA Adjustment allows for students to select a maximum of six courses with grades C- and lower to be removed from the calculation of their GPA and overall credit hours. Course Repeat also allows for courses taken to be excluded the student's GPA; however, in contrast to the GPA Adjustment Policy, students must take the same course again (i.e., repeat), and have only the highest grade earned in the attempts be applied to the GPA. You should consult with your academic advisor regarding both policies to help them determine which one applies best to your circumstances.
3. How will using GPA Adjustment affect my financial aid?
   Courses forgiven under GPA Adjustment still will be used in determining your financial aid eligibility. Grades and credit hours (earned and attempted) from forgiven courses will be reflected in your Satisfactory Academic Progress calculation found in FlashLine.

Additional FAQ: GPA Adjustment

Definitions

Admitted: Offered admission to enroll in a program at Kent State University.

Earned Hours: Credit hours for courses that the student completed with a grade or administrative mark that is considered passing.

Enrolled: Student has completed course registration for a specific term.

GPA (Grade Point Average): An indication of a student's academic achievement at Kent State University, determined by the number of credit hours attempted at Kent State University and the grades received. The Kent State GPA is calculated to three places past the decimal point and not rounded.

GPS Degree Audit: A summary of all official program requirements merged with the student's academic record to provide a real-time assessment of progress toward graduation.

Reenrolled: Act of being restored to active-student status in order to register for courses and pursue completion of an academic program after an absence of one full academic year or longer.

Reinstated: Act of being restored to active-student status after academic dismissal in order to register for courses and pursue completion of an academic program.

Student Transcript: The accurate and complete record of a student's academic coursework attempted at an institution, presented in either electronic format or paper format.

Revision History

Amended August 2023: Revised policy clarifies that students must be seeking a Kent State undergraduate degree/certificate and enrolled in undergraduate Kent State courses (i.e., not open to guest students or former students who do not return to Kent State). In addition, the required quiz is eliminated; instead, students initial each statement that was part of the quiz on their application request.

Amended August 2022: Revised policy eliminates the one-year away requirement from Kent State, allows students with a previous degree to be eligible with certain stipulations, replaces GPA and credit-hours requirement for eligibility with requirement that students meet with their academic advisor and provide a written statement describing their plan to assure successful academic performance in the future. Instead of removing all grades C- and lower from the GPA, students select a maximum of six courses with grades C- and lower to be removed. Policy is renamed Grade Point Average (GPA) Adjustment.

Amended August 2012: Revised policy applies to the clause for Kent State associate degree holders to allow forgiveness to be applied toward any course not used for a previous associate or certificate degree, rather an any course after earning the previous credential.

Amended August 2011: Revised policy decreases the time away from three (two for veterans) to one year for all students; and removes stipulation that students cannot take coursework elsewhere for at last three years. Students who earned a Kent State associate degree are now eligible for coursework taken after that degree.

Amended August 2005: Revised policy add C- to the list of grades that are forgiven after eligibility.

Amended August 1981: Revised policy decreases the time away only for students who were enlisted in the armed forces, from three to two years. Former students who did complete coursework elsewhere may be eligible if three years passed since that study. Revision also adds an eligibility requirement of 15-30 credit hours of graded coursework with a 2.000 GPA. Once eligible, all grades D or lower are forgiven.

Effective September 1976: Establishes a formal Academic Forgiveness policy for all undergraduate students. To be eligible, former students must be away from the university for three or more calendar years and have not attended another university during that time.

Effective September 1968: Establishes an administrative policy regarding academic forgiveness for former students who had left the university to serve in the armed forces. To be eligible, students must be away from the university for three or more calendar years.

Grade-/Mark-To-Grade Change Policy

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

With the exception of the IN, IP and NR marks, once grades or marks are submitted, they are final and will not be changed except in cases of administrative error. Grades will not be changed by allowing the students to do additional work (e.g., retaking exams; redoing papers; submitting extra credit papers, reports) or by using criteria other than those applied to all students in the class.

In the event of a possible administrative error, the students must contact the instructor as soon as possible following the awarding of the grade. If the instructor is not available, the department/school chair/director should be contacted.

Grade appeals for reasons other than administrative error must follow established policy and procedures for student academic complaints, see policies 4-02.3 for Kent Campus and 8-01.4 for regional campuses in the University Policy Register.

Approved grade change requests for reasons other than removal of the IN, IP and NR marks must be submitted no later than the end of three consecutive terms after the grade was submitted or before the student's degree is posted officially to the permanent academic record, whichever comes first.[1] No challenge will be considered or adjustment made after that period. Deadline for removing the IN mark is noted in the Administrative Marks section above.

Academic Grades

The following grades are determined and assigned by faculty based upon appraisal and evaluation of student performance in completing requirements of a course:

Letter Grade	Description
A	(4.000) Denotes "superior scholarship."
A-	(3.700)
B+	(3.300)
B	(3.000) Denotes "good performance" for students in undergraduate courses and "average performance" for students in graduate courses.
B-	(2.700)
C+	(2.300)
C	(2.000) Denotes "fair or average performance" for students in undergraduate courses and "below average performance" for students in graduate courses.
C-	(1.700)
D+	(1.300)

D	(1.000) Denotes "poor (but passing) performance" for students in undergraduate courses and "far below average performance" for students in graduate courses.
F	(0.000) Denotes failure of the student's overall performance. This grade is earned and is not used for students who never attended or stopped attending the course (see NF and SF marks in Administrative Marks section below).
S	The grade S (Satisfactory) denotes passing performance and is used for courses where S/U grading, rather than letter grading, is permitted. The credit hours are awarded, but the grade is not counted in grade point averages. Work earning an S grade may be applied toward meeting degree requirements.
U	The grade U (Unsatisfactory) denotes failing performance and is used for courses where S/U grading, rather than letter grading, is permitted. This grade is earned and is not used for students who never attended or stopped attending the course (see NF and SF marks in Administrative Marks section below). Credit hours are recorded as attempted, and the grade is counted as an F (zero quality points) in grade point averages.
Y	The grade Y denotes a passing grade in undergraduate courses in which students have elected the credit/no credit grading option. The credit hours are awarded, but the grade is not counted in grade point averages.[1]
Z	The grade Z denotes failing performance in undergraduate courses in which students have elected the credit/no credit grading option. The credit hours are recorded as attempted, and the grade is not counted in grade point averages.[1]

[1] Refer to the Credit/No Credit Grade policy for conditions governing the acceptability of credit/no credit (Y/Z) grades at Kent State.

Administrative Marks

The following administrative marks are assigned when a letter grade is not appropriate.

Mark	Description
AU	The mark AU (Audit) denotes enrollment in a course without benefit of a grade or credit, typically for purposes of self-enrichment and academic exploration. Students may audit any course subject to space availability and prior departmental approval. To audit a course, students must go through registration procedures and be assessed registration fees. An audited course cannot be applied toward a student's degree or certificate. An instructor may impose whatever attendance requirements deemed necessary upon the students registered for audit. The students must be informed of these requirements at the beginning of the semester. Failure to meet such attendance requirements subjects the students to being withdrawn from the course by the instructor. The AU mark is not counted in grade point averages.[1]
CP	The mark CP (Complete) denotes completion of requirements for registered course COOP 20092 Cooperative Education. The CP mark is not counted in grade point averages.
CR	The mark CR (Credit) denotes credit hours, but not letter grade, earned through successful completion of an alternate credit program (e.g., exam credit, trade competency or other non-institutional credit). The CR mark is not counted in grade point averages.
IN	The mark IN (Incomplete) may be given to students who—due to extenuating circumstances—are unable to complete the required work between the course withdrawal deadline and the end of classes. The timeline shall be adjusted appropriately for summer sessions and flexibly scheduled courses. The IN mark is not counted in grade point averages.[2]
IP	The mark IP (In Progress) may be given to students to indicate that work is in progress toward a thesis, dissertation, research, individual investigation or a similar effort that requires additional time beyond a semester. A grade will be given when the work is completed. The IP mark can be utilized only in designated courses and remains a terminal mark if the student does not complete the requirements for the course. For courses required for a degree or certificate, a grade must be given before the credential may be granted. The IP mark is not counted in grade point averages.
M	The mark M (Missing) was used until 1980. It is similar to the NF and SF marks (see below) and counts as an F grade (zero quality points) in grade point averages.

NC	The mark NC (Not Complete) denotes requirements have not been completed for registered course COOP 20092 Cooperative Education. The NC mark is not counted in grade point averages.
NF	The mark NF (Never Attended–Fail) denotes that the student neither attended any class session nor formally withdrew from the course. The NF mark counts as an F grade (zero quality points) in grade point averages. In the case of undergraduate courses taken pass/fail, the NF mark will be changed to a Z (fail) grade.[1]
NR	The mark NR (Not Reported) indicates the instructor did not submit a grade. For courses required for a degree or certificate, a grade must be given before a credential can be granted. The NR mark is not counted in grade point averages.
SF	The mark SF (Stopped Attending–Fail) denotes that the student stopped attending the course and did not formally withdraw. The SF mark counts as an F grade (zero quality points) in grade point averages and must be accompanied by a date of last attendance in the course. Faculty who cannot determine the exact date of last attendance may use the date of the last academic activity in which students participated. In the case of undergraduate courses taken pass/fail, the SF mark will be changed to a Z (fail) grade.[1]
T	The mark T denotes student participation in a national or international academic exchange program and is not counted in grade point averages.
TR	The mark TR (Transfer) denotes accepted transfer coursework and is not counted in grade point averages.
W	The mark W (Withdrawal) denotes that the student has withdrawn from the university or from any individual course without evaluation. For courses in the College of Podiatric Medicine, this mark is given to students who withdraw prior to midterm exams. The W mark is not counted in grade point averages.
WF	The mark WF (Withdrawal–Fail) is used by the College of Podiatric Medicine to denote that the student has withdrawn from the university or from any individual course/rotation with failing status after seven weeks of course instruction. The WF mark is not counted in grade point averages.[3]
WP	The mark WP (Withdrawal–Pass) is used by the College of Podiatric Medicine to denote that the student has withdrawn from the university or from any individual course/rotation with passing status after seven weeks of course instruction. The WP mark is not counted in grade point averages.[3]

[1] A student receiving the AU, NF or SF mark is enrolled officially in the course; however, credit hours for the course are not applied toward the student's course load for financial aid and other select purposes.
[2] Please refer to the Incomplete Mark policy below for conditions governing student eligibility and approval for an Incomplete mark at Kent State.
[3] Please refer to the College of Podiatric Medicine section in the University Catalog for procedures for withdrawal.

Calculating Grade Point Average

Quality points are awarded on the following scale:

- Each hour of A equals 4.000 points
- Each hour of A- equals 3.700 points
- Each hour of B+ equals 3.300 points
- Each hour of B equals 3.000 points
- Each hour of B- equals 2.700 points
- Each hour of C+ equals 2.300 points
- Each hour of C equals 2.000 points
- Each hour of C- equals 1.700 points
- Each hour of D+ equals 1.300 points
- Each hour of D equals 1.000 point
- Each hour of F equals 0.000 points
- Each hour of NF equals 0.000 points
- Each hour of SF equals 0.000 points
- Each hour of U equals 0.000 points

A grade point average is determined by dividing the total number of points earned by the number of quality hours taken. Totals are extended to three decimal points and are not rounded up.

As an example, assume a student has completed 30 credit hours with a grade distribution of 3 credit hours of A, 3 credit hours of B, 3 credit hours of B-, 15 credit hours of C, 4 credit hours of D and 2 credit hours of F.

Dividing 63.100 by 30, a grade point average of 2.103 is obtained, which is slightly above a C average. Cumulative averages are computed by dividing the total quality points by the total quality hours. Grades of S, Y and Z are not included in grade point average.

Grade Reports

Final grades are reported at the close of each academic term and become a part of the students' permanent records. Grades are available in FlashLine.

Incomplete Mark Policy

The mark IN (Incomplete) may be given to students who—due to extenuating circumstances—are unable to complete the required work between the course withdrawal deadline and the end of classes. The timeline shall be adjusted appropriately for summer sessions and flexibly scheduled courses. The IN mark is not counted in grade point averages.

To be eligible to request an incomplete mark for a course that was not completed due to extenuating circumstances, undergraduate students must be earning a minimum D grade, and graduate students must be earning a minimum C grade, in the course at the time of the request.

Appropriate documentation is required to support the extenuating circumstance.

The student or university-approved designee must request the IN mark from the instructor of the course, and it is the responsibility of the student to arrange to make up the incomplete work. After the instructor approves the request, the instructor must initiate the request by submitting an Incomplete Mark Contract workflow to the department chair/school director prior to the grading deadline. This electronic workflow includes justification for awarding the Incomplete, describes the work to be completed for the course and specifies the grade to be assigned if the work is not completed (default grade). The Incomplete Mark Contract is sent electronically to the student.

When the work is completed, an appropriate grade will be assigned—based on the instructor's evaluation of the work submitted—and a new grade point average computed.

If the student does not complete and receive a grade, or is not granted an extension, the student's IN mark for the course automatically will lapse to the default grade designated on the Incomplete Mark Contract:

1. at the end of one semester for undergraduate courses or
2. at the end of three consecutive terms for graduate courses.

If the student is granted an extension and does not complete and receive a grade by the deadline, the student's IN mark for the course automatically will lapse to the default grade designated on the Incomplete Mark Contract at the end of the term in which the extension deadline occurs.

Grade-/Mark-To-Grade Change Policy

With the exception of the IN, IP and NR marks, once grades or marks are submitted, they are final and will not be changed except in cases of administrative error. Grades will not be changed by allowing the students to do additional work (e.g., retaking exams; redoing papers; submitting extra credit papers, reports) or by using criteria other than those applied to all students in the class.

In the event of a possible administrative error, the students must contact the instructor as soon as possible following the awarding of the grade. If the instructor is not available, the department/school chair/director should be contacted.

Grade appeals for reasons other than administrative error must follow established policy and procedures for student academic complaints, see policies 4-02.3 for Kent Campus and 8-01.4 for regional campuses in the University Policy Register.

Approved grade change requests for reasons other than removal of the IN, IP and NR marks must be submitted no later than the end of three consecutive terms after the grade was submitted or before the student's degree is posted officially to the permanent academic record, whichever comes first.[1] No challenge will be considered or adjustment made after that period. Deadline for removing the IN mark is noted in the Administrative Marks section above.

Policy Statement

Kent State University awards undergraduate and graduate degrees and certificates each December, May and August. The graduation requirements for these programs are outlined in the various sections of the University Catalog.

Reason For Policy

In order to be awarded their declared degree/credential, all students must formally apply for graduation. This policy outlines the general procedure the university community must follow regarding the graduation application process and posting of degrees.

Procedures

Application for Graduation

Graduation is not automatic. Undergraduate and graduate students applying for graduation must complete the online graduation application in FlashLine (Student / Resources / Graduation) by the published deadlines listed below. The online graduate application is used for all degrees, minors and certificate programs on all Kent State campuses and locations. More information on application deadlines may be found on the Financial, Billing and Enrollment Center website.

- December Graduation:
  - Application for a bachelor's degree or undergraduate certificate must be submitted by the 15th day of the preceding March.
  - Application for an associate degree, graduate degree (master's, post-master's or doctoral) or graduate certificate must be submitted by the Friday of the first week of the fall term in which graduation will occur.
- May Graduation:
  - Application for a bachelor's degree or undergraduate certificate must be submitted by the 15th day of the preceding September.
  - Application for an associate degree, graduate degree (master's, post-master's or doctoral) or graduate certificate must be submitted by the Friday of the first week of the spring term in which graduation will occur.[1]
- August Graduation:
  - Application for a bachelor's degree or undergraduate certificate must be submitted by the 15th day of the preceding December.
  - Application for an associate degree, graduate degree (master's, post-master's or doctoral) or graduate certificate must be submitted by the Friday of the first week of the summer term in which graduation will occur.

[1] Candidates for the Doctor of Podiatric Medicine degree must meet all graduation requirements before June 30 immediately following the May graduation. Completion of program requirements after June 30 but before the conclusion of the calendar year will result in a December graduation. After December, candidates will not be eligible for graduation until the following May. Attendance at the graduation ceremony is required.

Students who missed their application deadline but still wish to apply for graduation may complete a Late Graduation Application and submit the application to their college advising office or campus student services office for approval.

Degrees are posted to students' permanent academic record, including the student transcript, following their effective date of graduation.

Frequently Asked Questions

1. Why do I have to apply for graduation?
   Since students progress through their program at their own pace, applying for graduation is the only way to let the university know when you intend to graduate. It then affords the university time to review your progress, submit any necessary adjustments, prepare your diploma and forward your information to the Commencement Office for inclusion in the ceremonies.
2. How do I know when I'm ready to graduate?
   One of the best tools to track your progress in your program is the GPS degree audit, which combines your declared program's requirements with your course registration and final grades. You can find your audit by logging into FlashLine and clicking on the "Student" tab; the GPS Audit and Plan is on the dashboard.
3. How soon can I apply before the deadline?
   The online application for graduation typically is available anywhere from six to nine months PRIOR to the deadline. For specific dates, you can consult the Financial Aid, Billing and Enrollment Center website.

Revision History

Amended August 2025: Revised policy to more accurately follow current practice and specify the distinction between graduation and commencement. Specific changes include removal of late application fee and change in language of awarding of certificates at commencement.

Amended 2009: Revised policy adds a fee for students submitting a late application for graduation.

Amended 1993: Revised policy changes application deadlines for undergraduate programs: from 10th week of the spring semester to March 15 for December graduation; from second week of the fall semester to September 15 for May graduation; and from last week of the fall semester to December 15 for August graduation.

Policy Statement

The Graduation Planning System (GPS) is the degree audit tool used by Kent State University to provide a real-time assessment of students' progress in their declared academic program and is the official record that determines eligibility for graduation. The audit is a direct reflection of the requirements outlined in the University Catalog and is merged with the student's academic record.

Reason For Policy

In addition to being a tool for students to use to track their progress in their declared program of study, the Graduation Planning System is also the authority for program completion and graduation.

Procedures

There are no procedures associated with this policy.

Forms/Instructions

GPS Audit and Plan can be accessed in the Advising and GPS channel (Student Tools and Courses tab) in FlashLine.

Frequently Asked Questions

1. Are the requirements listed in my GPS the same as in the catalog?
   Yes. The requirements listed on your GPS audit reflect those listed in the University Catalog for your declared catalog year for each program. Your GPS audit, as an extension of the university catalog, is the official contract between you and the university in terms of the requirements you need to complete to earn your program.
2. How do I find my GPS audit?
   You can find your audit by logging into FlashLine and going to the "Student" tab; the GPS Audit and Plan is on the dashboard. It is also listed under "Resources" and then "Advising and GPS." You also can use the search bar in FlashLine and enter "GPS."
3. If I think a course should be applying to my program on my audit, but is not, what should I do?
   You should meet with your academic advisor and/or program coordinator to discuss any discrepancies you may have. If there is a correction that needs to be made, they will submit the request to update the audit on your behalf.
4. How current is the information on my audit?
   Information in your audit is updated nightly from Kent State's student information system (Banner). To be certain that your audit information is refreshed, you should always click on the "Process" button when you view your audit.

Graduation with Latin Honors

Candidates for bachelor's degrees who demonstrate high levels of scholarship throughout their undergraduate years will graduate with Latin honors. To graduate with this recognition at Kent State University, students must achieve one of the following criteria:

- Earn a minimum 60 credit hours at Kent State and earn a minimum 3.500 Kent State GPA; or
- Earn at least 30 but fewer than 60 credit hours at Kent State and earn a minimum 3.500 Kent State GPA and earn a minimum 3.500 transfer GPA

There are three levels of Latin honors at graduation with a bachelor's degree:

- Cum laude — Student has earned a Kent State GPA of 3.500 to 3.699.
- Magna cum laude — Student has earned a Kent State GPA of 3.700 to 3.899.
- Summa cum laude — Student has earned a Kent State GPA of 3.900 to 4.000.

The Kent State GPA for determining Latin honors is calculated from all grades earned in undergraduate courses at Kent State University, including original grades forgiven and/or recalculated under other policies. The transfer GPA is calculated from all grades earned in undergraduate transfer courses that were awarded college credit by Kent State and completed prior to the student's most recent admission to Kent State. The GPA for both is extended to three decimal places and not rounded up.

Because grades in courses taken in the student's final term are not official until after commencement, Latin honors candidates will be recognized at the commencement ceremony based on all their Kent State academic work completed prior to those courses. However, the final term grades will be used in determining honors posted to the transcript and the diploma. Honor citations are inscribed on diplomas as follows: cum laude, magna cum laude and summa cum laude.

Graduation with Distinction

Candidates for associate degrees who demonstrate high levels of scholarship throughout their coursework will graduate "with distinction." To graduate with this recognition, students must achieve the following criteria:

- Earn a minimum 30 credit hours at Kent State University, and
- Earn a minimum 3.500 Kent State University GPA

A Kent State GPA is calculated from all grades earned in undergraduate courses at Kent State University, including original grades forgiven and/or recalculated under other policies. The GPA used to determine the "with distinction" designation is extended to three decimal places and not rounded up.

Because grades in courses taken in the student's graduation term are not official until after commencement, distinction candidates will be recognized at the commencement ceremony based on all their Kent State academic work completed prior to those courses. However, the final term grades will be used in determining the "graduated with distinction" recognition posted to the transcript and the diploma.

Reason for Policy

Students who achieve high academic performance as evidenced in their grade point average receive recognition on their transcript and diploma and during the commencement ceremony.

Frequently Asked Questions

1. Can any student earn Latin honor?
   To qualify for Latin honors, students must (1) be awarded a bachelor's degree, (2) earn a minimum of 60 semester credit hours of Kent State courses and (3) meet the minimum criteria for one of the three honors level as listed in the policy. Students who are being awarded a bachelor's degree with fewer than 60 semester credit hours of Kent State courses still may qualify for Latin honors if they have a minimum 3.500 transfer GPA and meet the minimum criteria for one of the three honors level at listed in the policy.
2. Will a student's transfer GPA (if one) always be calculated for eligibility for Latin honors?
   No, the transfer GPA will factor into eligibility only for students being awarded a bachelor's degree with fewer than 60 credit hours of Kent State courses.
3. How is a student's transfer GPA calculated for eligibility for Latin honors?
   The transfer GPA is calculated from all grades for undergraduate transfer courses awarded college credit at Kent State and completed prior to the student's most recent admission to Kent State.

Additional FAQ: Graduation Honors

Definitions

Cum laude: A recognition with honor; from the Latin cum ("with") and laude (ablative of lause, "praise").

GPA (Grade Point Average): An indication of a student's academic achievement at Kent State University, determined by the number of credit hours attempted at Kent State University and the grades received. The Kent State GPA is calculated to three places past the decimal point and not rounded.

Magna cum laude: A recognition with great honor; from the Latin cum ("with"), magna (plural of magnum, "great") and laude (ablative of lause, "praise")

Summa cum laude: A recognition with the highest honor; from the Latin summa (feminine of summus, "highest," "greatest"), cum ("with") and laude (ablative of lause, "praise")

Revision History

Amended December 2019: Institutional Honors for bachelor's degree students is revised to allow eligibility for students who do not meet the requirement of 60 Kent State semester credit hours but have a minimum 3.500 transfer GPA at the point of admission to Kent State. Policy is renamed Latin honors. Graduation with Distinction for associate degree students is revised to decrease minimum Kent State credit hours for eligibility, from 32 to 30 semester credit hours.

Amended May 2016: Institutional Honors for bachelor's degree students is revised to increase minimum overall GPA criteria to earn cum laude (from 3.300 to 3.500), magna cum laude (from 3.600 to 3.700) and summa cum laude (from 3.800 to 3.900).

Amended August 2012: Institutional Honors for bachelor's degree students is revised to extend the GPA to three decimal points and not round up to determine honors. Graduation with Distinction for associate degree students is revised to extend the GPA to three decimal points and not round up to determine distinction.

Amended May 2008: Institutional Honors for bachelor's degree students is revised to round up the GPA to determine honors. Graduation with Distinction for associate degree students is revised to round up the GPA to determine distinction.

Amended May 1996: Graduation with Distinction for associate degree students is revised to remove inclusion of other institution grades, with the GPA calculated with only Kent State courses. Revised policy also establishes a requirement that students earn minimum 32 semester credit hours at Kent State for distinction eligibility.

Amended December 1995: Honors for bachelor's degree students is revised to increase the required Kent State credit hours for honors eligibility, from the minimum credit hours required for a bachelor's degree to 64 semester credit hours. Revised policy also removes inclusion of other institution grades, with the GPA calculated with only Kent State courses. Policy is renamed Institutional Honors.

Amended December 1995: Honors is revised to clarify that the GPA to determine honors is extended two decimal points and not rounded up.

Amended August 1976: Honors is revised to decrease the required Kent State credit hours for honors eligibility, from 96 quarter credit hours (64 semester credit hours) to the minimum credit hours required for a bachelor's degree (48 quarter or 32 semester credit hours). Graduation "With Distinction" is established for students earning an associate degree with a minimum overall 3.5 GPA earned at Ken State and other institutions.

Amended March 1968: Honors for High Scholarship is revised to clarify that students must have minimum 96 quarter credit hours (64 semester credit hours) of Kent State coursework to be eligible. Policy is renamed Honors.

Amended June 1956: Honors for High Scholarship is revised to base honors eligibility on only students' overall GPA with stipulation that at least one half of the students' courses must be taken at Kent State.

Effective June 1937: Establishes a formal Honors for High Scholarship recognition, awarded by vote of university faculty for graduating students who earned a minimum overall GPA of 3.3 (cum laude), 3.6 (magna cum laude) and 3.8 (summa cum laude) at Kent State and other institutions.

Incomplete Mark Policy

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

The mark IN (Incomplete) may be given to students who—due to extenuating circumstances—are unable to complete the required work between the course withdrawal deadline and the end of classes. The timeline shall be adjusted appropriately for summer sessions and flexibly scheduled courses. The IN mark is not counted in grade point averages.

To be eligible to request an incomplete mark for a course that was not completed due to extenuating circumstances, undergraduate students must be earning a minimum D grade, and graduate students must be earning a minimum C grade, in the course at the time of the request. Appropriate documentation is required to support the extenuating circumstance.

The student or university-approved designee must request the IN mark from the instructor of the course, and it is the responsibility of the student to arrange to make up the incomplete work. After the instructor approves the request, the instructor must initiate the request by submitting an Incomplete Mark Contract workflow to the department chair/school director prior to the grading deadline. This electronic workflow includes justification for awarding the Incomplete, describes the work to be completed for the course and specifies the grade to be assigned if the work is not completed (default grade). The Incomplete Mark Contract is sent electronically to the student.

When the work is completed, an appropriate grade will be assigned—based on the instructor's evaluation of the work submitted—and a new grade point average computed.

If the student does not complete and receive a grade, or is not granted an extension, the student's IN mark for the course automatically will lapse to the default grade designated on the Incomplete Mark Contract:

1. at the end of one semester for undergraduate courses or
2. at the end of three consecutive terms for graduate courses.

If the student is granted an extension and does not complete and receive a grade by the deadline, the student's IN mark for the course automatically will lapse to the default grade designated on the Incomplete Mark Contract at the end of the term in which the extension deadline occurs.

Industry-Recognized Certifications, Examinations and Professional Training

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Kent State accepts many industry-recognized certifications, examinations and professional training as prior learning credit applicable toward degree programs upon programmatic approval. Kent State awards academic credit following recommendations from the American Council on Education (ACE) and the Ohio Department of Higher Education. Official documentation from the issuing company or professional organization must be submitted to Kent State before credit can be applied to a student's academic record.

Industry-recognized certifications, examinations and professional training that is not evaluated by ACE may be considered for academic credit. Students who wish to request credit for training not yet evaluated must complete the industry/training credit application, including submission of all documentation to determine whether academic credit is to be awarded. All credit for industry/professional training appears on the student transcript without a grade.

Students should contact the Credit Transfer Office for more information on the types of certifications, examinations and professional training accepted and the approval process. Official documentation from the issuing agency must be submitted to Kent State before the credit can be applied to a student's academic record.

International Baccalaureate (IB)

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Students who complete the International Baccalaureate (IB) Diploma Programme, a rigorous two-year course of pre-university studies in their high school, may be awarded credit toward a degree or certificate at Kent State. An official IB transcript must be submitted to Kent State before the credit can to be applied to a student's academic record. (A notation on a high school transcript will not be accepted.)

Kent State accepts scores of 5, 6 or 7 for higher-level (HL) and standard-level (SL) IB exams toward specific course equivalencies and general education requirements (e.g., Kent Core, diversity). Visit the Credit Transfer Office's IB website for more information on these scores and credits earned.

Language Requirement for Graduate Students

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

All students must demonstrate proficiency in both oral and written English, which is the language of graduate study at Kent State. Judgment of such competence rests with the appropriate major department. Deficiency in English is cause for dismissal from any graduate program.

There is no universal foreign language or research tool requirement. Individual departments or discipline areas may have specific requirements. Students should consult their individual departments. The appropriate languages are determined by the student's major department. Language requirements (if any) must be completed before doctoral students are admitted to candidacy. Special arrangements for examinations in other languages must be made by the student's major department in consultation with the chair of the Department of Modern and Classical Language Studies. Where required, the language examination used to establish a student's language proficiency is determined by the student's department. The examination may be a departmentally designed and administered test. Dates for departmentally administered tests are set by the department.

GER 61901 and GER 61902 have been instituted to develop reading proficiency in German. Reading proficiency is demonstrated when the student completes both GER 61901 and GER 61902 with a minimum B grade. Credit hours earned in these courses are not applicable toward the completion of the hour requirement in a student's graduate program and do not count toward the minimum 8-credit-hour semester load required.

Leave of Absence for Graduate Students

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

A leave of absence is granted for degree-seeking graduate students in active status who must be away from their studies for one or more semesters for personal, family, financial or other compelling reasons. Prior to applying for a leave of absence, students should consider its potential implications for such matters as funding (including assistantships and veterans benefits), loan repayment, immigration status, health insurance, university housing and time-to-degree completion.

International students should contact the Office of Global Education before the initiation of a leave of absence and before returning to campus to ensure compliance with immigration regulations and visa restrictions.

To be eligible for a leave of absence, a student must be seeking a graduate degree, have completed at least one full term of enrollment prior to the date a leave is to begin, be in good academic standing and be making reasonable progress toward the degree. Leaves will not be granted to students who fit one of the following criteria:

- Completed less than one full term of enrollment
- Not in good academic standing
- Received an extension of the degree time limit

Leaves of absence are granted for a maximum of three consecutive terms (e.g., fall, spring, summer).[1] Students may request an extension for maximum one additional term. Although a leave may be taken for as many as 12 months, students are encouraged to return to graduate study as soon as is reasonably possible to minimize the impact of the leave on degree progress. The time taken on an approved leave of absence is not included in the time limitations for degree completion and advancement to candidacy, with the exception of the Doctor of Podiatric Medicine degree.

[1] Refer to the College of Podiatric Medicine section in the University Catalog for leave of absence time limits and procedures for requesting a leave of absence for the Doctor of Podiatric Medicine degree.

The Request for Leave of Absence form should be submitted prior to the start of the term for which the leave is requested, when the necessity for leave is foreseeable. If the need for a leave is not foreseeable, the request should be submitted as soon as possible, but no later than the last day of classes in the term during which the leave has been taken. A retroactive leave of absence will not be granted.

When a department/school grants a leave of absence, it implies the program will be willing to re-admit the student. A plan for re-admission, including any conditions that must be met, should be put in writing and clearly understood by all parties prior to the start of the leave.

Students who are registered for courses must drop or withdraw from all courses prior to taking leave. Course withdrawal does not negate a student's financial obligation, and students will be held responsible for all balances due to the university. Any applicable refunds will be processed per university policy 7-06 regarding student fee refunds, see the Policy Register. Students are advised to check with the Financial, Billing and Enrollment Center prior to taking an approved leave of absence in order to determine the status of their student accounts. Accounts that are overdue will be subject to regular procedures in accordance with university guidelines, notwithstanding any approved leave of absence.

Course withdrawal is not permitted after the tenth week of the fall and spring semesters (or the prorated deadline for flexibly scheduled sections and summer terms). Students applying for a leave of absence after the course withdrawal deadline should address grading and course completion issues with their individual instructors. To consider any variation from this rule for reasons of extenuating circumstances, the student must submit a Petition for Exception to Registration to the University Registrar.

Students on a leave of absence are not registered and, therefore, do not have the rights and privileges of registered students, including course pre-registration and access to the libraries, recreational center and health services. They cannot fulfill any official department or university requirements during the leave period, such as taking qualifying exams or submitting a dissertation/thesis. Students on an approved leave must complete the Application for Graduate Re-Enrollment form in order to register for classes and have the rights and privileges of registered students.

If a student does not return to the graduate program within the approved period for which the leave of absence was granted, he or she will be considered as having permanently withdrawn from the university. To be reconsidered for graduate study, students who have permanently withdrawn must formally apply to their program of interest, including the submission of an application, the non-refundable application fee and any necessary application materials.

Mathematics Placement

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

In addition to the remediation-free standards established by the Ohio Department of Education, Kent State's Department of Mathematical Sciences accepts the following for students in a program that does not require higher levels of mathematics (i.e., non-algebra track):

- Students with a 3.00 overall high school GPA or higher may take MATH 10040 or MATH 10050, regardless of their score on assessments mentioned in the standards listed above.
- Student with a 3.50 overall high school GPA or higher may take MATH 10041 or MATH 10051 regardless of their score on assessments mentioned in the standards listed above.

All undergraduate degree programs require the successful completion of the Kent Core Mathematics and Critical Reasoning requirement. Some programs may require specific mathematics course(s). Placement into mathematics courses is determined by a student's score on the ALEKS placement assessment and/or the ACT or SAT score or scores on the other listed assessments. Not all students need to take the ALEKS mathematics placement assessment, and students should check their "My Lists" checklist in FlashLine for that determination. However, all students scoring below 22 on ACT mathematics or below 530 on SAT mathematics or below the threshold in the other listed assessments need to take the ALEKS placement assessment.

Students may improve their initial placement score by working in an individualized learning module on ALEKS, then retaking the ALEKS mathematics placement assessment. They have free access to their learning modules and reassessment for one year from their initial assessment. Students who score 80 percent mastery in the learning modules have an excellent chance of improving their placement through a proctored reassessment.

Students deemed remediation-free in mathematics , as described in the table above, or with an overall 3.5 high school GPA or higher, may register for one of the following courses, as required by their major:

- Algebra Track: MATH 10675, MATH 10771, MATH 10772
- Non-Algebra Track: MATH 10041, MATH 10051, MATH 11008

Remediation-free students who want to register for a course other than the ones listed above may take the ALEKS mathematics placement assessment.

Students who are not deemed remediation-free in mathematics, as described in the table above, must take the ALEKS mathematics placement assessment to determine the course they should take as required by their major.

Additional information regarding placement after taking the ALEKS assessment may be found on the Department of Mathematical Sciences website.

Midterm Evaluation

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY
Effective Date: Fall 2024
Last Reviewed: Spring 2015
Last Revised: Fall 2016

Policy Statement

A midterm evaluation grade is submitted between the fourth and seventh week for all students in lower-division undergraduate courses (levels 00000, 10000, 20000). Midterm evaluation grades are not given for summer or flexible-scheduled courses due to the short duration of these offerings. Midterm results are available to academic advisors and college/school/campus deans for the purpose of intervening when achievement is considered unsatisfactory according to program or university requirements. Students will be able to view their midterm evaluation grades in FlashLine for the fall or spring semester in progress. Midterm evaluation grades are not included as part of the students' academic transcript, nor are they included in a student's grade point average (GPA).

Reason For Policy

Research has shown that early and frequent assessments are important to student success because they can help students not only have a sense of how they are doing in their courses, but also help to improve their final grade. Midterm evaluations are a snapshot of how a student is performing in the course and allows time to seek help and make adjustments. While midterm grades are encouraged for all undergraduate students, lower-level classes are targeted due to the high concentration of new students who may be experiencing college courses for the first time. There are additional opportunities for students to see their progress in a course either by viewing the course grades in Canvas or talking with the faculty member teaching the course.

Procedures

Students can log into their FlashLine account to view their midterm grades. Faculty can submit midterm grades as early as the fourth week and through the seventh week.

Frequently Asked Questions

1. What do midterm grades mean?
   Midterm grades are an early signal from your instructor about how you are doing in the course at the time the grade is submitted. Because courses can vary in the rhythm of assignments and how those assignments are weighted, your midterm grades will likely mean different things for each of your courses. While a midterm grade is not part of your permanent Kent State record, you should use your midterm grades as important and helpful feedback.
2. Where can I see my midterm grades?
   You will need to log in to FlashLine to view your midterm grades. In Flash, under Student Resources, select Grades and Transcripts, then click on View Midterm Grades.
3. When can I view my midterm grades?
   Faculty can submit the grades any time between the fourth and seventh week of the semester. You can see them in FlashLine as soon as they are submitted. Check back often as additional grades may appear. All grades must be in by the end of the seventh week.

Additional FAQ: Midterm Evaluation

Definitions

Academic Advising: Advising helps students clarify their career goals, reach their maximum educational potential and achieve academic success. Academic advisors address student needs related to learning, personal development and career aspirations; recognize and respond to diverse individual needs and differences among students; and help students plan and implement academic programs of study in a manner that will ensure timely progress toward graduation.

Canvas: Cloud-based learning management system (LMS) that allows instructors to manage their courses, including posting materials, assignments, quizzes and grades. Through Canvas, students can submit assignments, participate in discussions, view course materials and their grades.

FlashLine: Web-based portal (entryway) for Kent State students, faculty, staff and alumni.

GPA (Grade Point Average). A number that is determined by the number of credit hours attempted at Kent State University and the grades received. The GPA is calculated to three places past the decimal point and not rounded.

Lower Division Courses: (10000, 20000): Courses that are for freshmen, sophomores and others with little or no background in the discipline. Generally, these courses provide the understanding, foundation and preparation for more advanced study (although a pathway for more advanced study is not always required, and they may be ends in themselves).

Transcript: An accurate and complete record of a student's academic coursework attempted at an institution, presented in either electronic format or paper format.

Revision History

Amended August 2024: Policy is revised to include more explanation to help students understand the meaning and purpose of midterm evaluation. Faculty may now submit mid-term evaluations for upper-division courses if they choose.

Amended August 2016: Policy is revised to extend the midterm evaluation to students in all lower-division (00000-20000) courses. In addition, window for submitting evaluations starts earlier, between the fourth and seventh week.

Effective September 1979: Mention of a midterm evaluation is first listed in the Undergraduate Catalog. All freshmen who have completed less than 32 credit hours receive a mid-term evaluation in the seventh week.

Military Training

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Kent State University awards academic credit for military coursework according to recommendations listed on the Joint Services Transcript (JST). All eligible credits must be recognized by the American Council on Education (ACE). Kent State awards Military Transfer Assurance Guide (MTAG) coursework for articulated credit as established by the Ohio Department of Higher Education. Service members can visit Kent State's Credit Transfer Office website for information regarding requesting and submitting military transcripts.

Service Examinations: Credit is awarded for some experiences in basic training that are equivalent to specific beginning Physical Activity, Wellness and Sport (PWS) courses at Kent State University. Credit is awarded on the basis of recommendations from the School of Teaching, Learning and Curriculum Studies in the College of Education, Health and Human Services.

In order for credit to be granted in any of the above areas, a transcript or certificate of completion or a veterans DD 214 form is required. In addition, Kent State reserves the right to set the percentile score that is necessary for satisfactory performance in a course and for the granting of credit. Credit will not be given for duplicate work taken through any of these agencies.

Military Transfer Credit Appeals Process

Students must submit, in writing, a letter of appeal regarding their military transfer credit to the Credit Transfer Office c/o Kent State University. Upon recommendation by the Transfer Review Committee, students will be notified of the outcome, in writing. Information regarding the standards for satisfactory performance or to submit an appeal may be found on the Credit Transfer Office website.

Minors

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

An academic minor is a curriculum component, smaller than the major, which enables a student to make an inquiry into a discipline or field of study or to investigate a particular theme. The purpose of a minor is to provide formalized guidance to students in selecting courses in a field or content area that is outside the major and to provide formal recognition of that work on the transcript. The courses in the minor may be centered in a specific department or be drawn from several departments, as in the case of an interdisciplinary topical or thematic focus.

Students may not pursue a minor and a major in the same discipline. A minimum of 6 credit hours in the minor must be outside of the course requirements for any major or other minor the student is pursuing.

Undergraduate Minors

An undergraduate minor is minimum 12 credit hours and normally contains between 18 and 25 credit hours, with a minimum of 6 of those hours being upper-division credit and a minimum 50 percent of the total hours in residence.

Students must formally declare a minor, similar to the process by which they declare the major. Students in a bachelor's or an applied associate degree (e.g., A.A.B., A.A.S.) or the Associate of Technical Study (A.T.S.), of which there is a major, may declare a minor. Students in a generalist associate degree (e.g., A.A., A.S., A.T.S.–Individualized Program) may not declare a minor.

Graduate Minors

A graduate minor is minimum 9 credit hours, with a minimum 50 percent of the total credit hours taken at Kent State.

Students must be admitted to a master's, post-master's or doctoral degree to declare a graduate minor. Students formally declare a minor through the change of program application, which must be approved by the college administrating the students' major and the college administrating the chosen minor.

Policy Statement

Institutional Transfer

The Ohio Department of Higher Education in 1990, following a directive of the 118th Ohio General Assembly, developed the Ohio Articulation and Transfer Policy to facilitate students' ability to transfer credits from one Ohio public college or university to another in order to avoid duplication of course requirements. A subsequent policy review and recommendations produced by the Articulation and Transfer Advisory Council in 2004, together with mandates from the 125th Ohio General Assembly in the form of Amended Substitute House Bill 95, have prompted improvements of the original policy. Additional legislation from the 125th Ohio General Assembly also initiated the development of a statewide system for articulation agreements among state institutions of higher education for transfer students pursuing teacher education programs.

Action by the 126th Ohio General Assembly led to the establishment of criteria, policies, and procedures for the transfer of technical courses completed through a career-technical education institution; and standards for the awarding of college credit based on Advanced Placement (AP) test scores.

Legislation from the 130th Ohio General Assembly required public institutions of higher education to: use baseline standards and procedures in the granting of college credit for military training, experience, and coursework; establish an appeals process for resolving disputes over the awarding of credit for military experience; provide specific assistance and support to veterans and service members; adopt a common definition of a service member and veteran; and establish a credit articulation system in which adult graduates of public career-technical institutions who complete a 900 clock-hour program of study and obtain an industry-recognized credential approved by the chancellor shall receive 30 college technical credit hours toward a technical degree upon enrollment.

While all public colleges and universities are required to follow the Ohio Articulation and Transfer Policy, independent colleges and universities in Ohio may or may not participate in the Transfer Policy. Therefore, students interested in transferring to independent institutions are encouraged to check with the college or university of their choice regarding transfer agreements. In support of improved articulation and transfer processes, the Ohio Department of Higher Education has established an articulation and transfer clearinghouse to receive, annotate, and convey transcripts among public colleges and universities. This system is designed to provide standardized information and help colleges and universities reduce undesirable variability in the transfer credit evaluation process.

Acceptance of Transfer and Articulated Credit

To recognize courses appropriately and provide equity in the treatment of incoming transfer students and students native to the receiving institution, transfer credit will be accepted for all successfully completed college-level courses completed in or after fall 2005 from Ohio public institutions of higher education. Students who successfully completed Associate of Arts (A.A.) or Associate of Science (A.S.) degrees prior to fall 2005 with a 2.0 or better overall grade-point average would also receive credit for all college-level courses they have passed. While this reflects the baseline policy requirement, individual institutions may set equitable institutional policies that are more accepting.

Pass/Fail courses, credit-by-examination credits, experiential learning courses and other non-traditional credit courses that meet these conditions will also be accepted and posted to the student record.

Application of Transfer and Articulated Credit

Application of credit is the decision process performed by the receiving institution to determine how the credits it has accepted and recorded on the student's official academic transcript will or will not apply toward program and degree requirements. While the receiving institution makes this decision, it will do so within the parameters of this Policy.

The following guidelines and requirements shall govern the application of transfer and articulated credit:

Ohio Transfer 36

The Ohio Transfer 36 (previously called the Ohio Transfer Module or OTM) is a subset or the entire set of a public higher education institution's general education curriculum in Associate of Arts (A.A.), Associate of Science (A.S.) and bachelor's degree programs. Students in applied associate degree programs may complete some individual Ohio Transfer 36 courses within their degree program or continue beyond the degree program to complete the entire Ohio Transfer 36. The Ohio Transfer 36 contains 36-40 semester or 54-60 quarter hours of course credit in English composition (minimum of 3 semester or 5 quarter hours); mathematics, statistics and logic (minimum of 3 semester or 3 quarter hours); arts and humanities (minimum of 6 semester or 9 quarter hours); social and behavioral sciences (minimum of 6 semester or 9 quarter hours); and natural sciences (minimum of 6 semester or 9 quarter hours). Oral communication and interdisciplinary areas may be included as additional options. Additional elective hours from among these areas make up the total hours for a completed Ohio Transfer 36. Courses for the Ohio Transfer 36 should be 100- and 200-level general education courses commonly completed in the first two years of a student's course of study. Each public university and technical and community college is required to establish and maintain an approved Ohio Transfer 36.

Ohio Transfer 36 course(s) or the full 36 completed at one college or university will automatically meet the requirements of individual Ohio Transfer 36 course(s) or the full Ohio Transfer 36 at another college or university once the student is admitted. Students may be required, however, to meet additional general education requirements at the institution to which they transfer. For example, a student who completes the Ohio Transfer 36 at Institution S (sending institution) and then transfers to Institution R (receiving institution) is said to have completed the Ohio Transfer 36 portion of Institution R's general education program. Institution R, however, may have general education courses that go beyond its Ohio Transfer 36. State policy initially required that all courses in the Ohio Transfer 36 be completed to receive its benefit in transfer. However, subsequent policy revisions have extended this benefit to the completion of individual Ohio Transfer 36 courses on a course-by-course basis.

Transfer Assurance Guide (TAG)

The Transfer Assurance Guide (TAG) comprise Ohio Transfer 36 courses and additional courses required for an academic major called TAG courses. A TAG is an advising tool to assist Ohio university and community and technical college students in planning for specific majors and making course selections that will ensure comparable, compatible, and equivalent learning experiences across Ohio's public higher education system. A number of area-specific TAG pathways in meta-majors including the arts, humanities, business, communication, education, health, mathematics, sciences, engineering, engineering technologies, social sciences and foreign languages have been developed by faculty teams.

TAGs empower students to make informed course selection decisions and plans for their future transfer. Advisors at the institution to which a student wishes to transfer should also be consulted during the transfer process. Students may elect to complete the full TAG or any subset of courses from the TAG. Because of specific major requirements, early identification of a student's intended major is encouraged.

Career-Technical Assurance Guide (CTAG)

Collaboration among the Ohio Department of Higher Education, the Ohio Department of Education and other key stakeholders led to the development of policies and procedures to create statewide career-technical discipline specific articulation agreements and further ensure that students completing coursework at an adult or secondary career-technical institution can articulate and transfer agreed-upon technical courses/programs to any Ohio public institution of higher education and among Ohio public institutions of higher education "without unnecessary duplication or institutional barriers."

Career-Technical Assurance Guides (CTAG) are statewide articulation agreements that guarantee the recognition of learning which occurs at public adult and secondary career-technical institutions and have the opportunity for the award of college credit toward technical courses/programs at any public higher education institution. CTAG serve as advising tools, identifying the statewide content guarantee and describing other conditions or obligations (e.g., program accreditation or industry credential) associated with the guarantee.

Military Transfer Assurance Guide (MTAG)

In response to the legislative requirement (Ohio Revised Code 3333.164) to create a military articulation and transfer assurance guide for college-level learning that took place through military training, experience, and coursework, college credit will be granted to students with military training, experience, and/or coursework that is recognized by the American Council on Education (ACE) or a regionally accredited military institution, such as Community College of the Air Force

In order to streamline the awarding, transferability and applicability of college credit, service members and veterans are guaranteed to earn certain types of credit(s) or course(s) as specified in the Military Transfer Assurance Guides (MTAG), which are based on the endorsed baseline standards and procedures by the chancellor. Equivalent course(s), credits for courses or block of credit is to be awarded and applied towards general education and/or major course requirements at the receiving institution in accordance with the MTAG guarantee. There is some training, experience, and coursework that the receiving institution may be able to award college credit only toward general or free electives.

In addition, public institutions of higher education shall ensure that appropriate equivalent credit is awarded for military training, experience, and coursework that meet the baseline standards and procedures according to the Ohio Revised Code 3333.164. This requirement goes beyond credit/course awarded based on the MTAG alignment process.

Apprenticeship Pathway Programs

The apprenticeship pathways initiative advocates for individuals completing apprenticeships by incorporating their learning into academic credit, thereby saving them time and money and encouraging them to advance their academic credentials to contribute to a strong, educated workforce.

Ohio apprenticeship programs partner with public two-year institutions to provide technology-specific statewide articulation agreements that recognize non-traditional prior learning. College credit is awarded toward a technical associate degree. Each agreement simplifies student advising by outlining how apprenticeship training in a certain pathway applies to an applied associate degree and lists remaining courses required to complete the degree. The application of the credit toward a technical associate degree in these agreements is guaranteed at the participating receiving institutions.

Advanced Placement (AP) Exams

The State of Ohio, working with public institutions of higher education, has initiated policies to facilitate the ease of transition from high school to college, as well as between and among Ohio's public colleges and universities.

Beginning in the fall semester 2009:

1. Students obtaining an Advanced Placement (AP) exam score of 3 or above will be awarded the aligned course(s) and credits for the AP exam area(s) successfully completed.
2. General education courses and credits received will be applied towards graduation and will satisfy a general education requirement if the course(s) to which the AP area is equivalent fulfill(s) a requirement.
3. If an equivalent course is not available for the AP exam area completed, elective or area credit will be awarded in the appropriate academic discipline and will be applied towards graduation where such elective credit options exist within the academic major.
4. Additional courses or credits may be available when a score of 4 or 5 is obtained. Award of credit for higher score values varies depending on the institution and academic discipline.

In academic disciplines containing highly dependent sequences (Sciences, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics – STEM) students are strongly advised to confer with the college/university advising staff to ensure they have the appropriate foundation to be successful in advanced coursework within the sequence.

College-Level Examination Program (CLEP)

The State of Ohio, working with public institutions of higher education and statewide faculty panels, has developed policies to recognize students' prior learning and to facilitate the articulation and guaranteed transfer of such learning between Ohio's public colleges and universities.

College credit is guaranteed for students who achieve an established College-Level Examination Program (CLEP) test score for exams that have been endorsed statewide as college level. Statewide faculty panels aligned CLEP exams to equivalent Ohio Transfer 36 and Transfer Assurance Guide (TAG) courses, as appropriate. If an equivalent course is not available for the CLEP exam area, by default, endorsed elective or area credit will still be awarded and applied towards graduation.

Specific endorsed alignments and scores for individual CLEP exams that are outlined in the College-Level Examination Program (CLEP) Endorsed Alignment Policies document are available on the Ohio Department of Higher Education website.

Associate of Technical Studies Pathway

The Associate of Technical Studies Pathway (previously called the One-Year Option) builds upon Ohio's articulation and transfer system to help more adults accelerate their preparation for work by earning a technical associate degree. Consistent with the philosophy of the Career-Technical Assurance Guides (CTAG), the Ohio Technical Centers (OTC) Degree Pathway guarantees that college credit will be awarded for college-level learning that occurs through approved Ohio Technical Centers.

Adults who complete a career-technical education program of study consisting of a minimum of 900 clock-hours and achieve an industry-recognized credential approved by the chancellor shall receive 30 semester credit hours of technical course credit toward a standardized Associate of Technical Study (A.T.S.) degree upon matriculation at a public institution of higher education that confers such a degree. The 30 semester credit hours will be awarded as a block of credit rather than credit for specific courses. Proportional credit is to be awarded toward the A.T.S. degree for adults who complete a program of study between 600 and 899 clock hours and achieved an industry-recognized credential approved by the chancellor.

The credit earned through the Associate of Technical Studies Pathway will be applied to Kent State's A.T.S.degree, Individualized Program.

Conditions for Transfer Admission

1. Graduates who are considered transfer students under the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS) definition with associate degrees from Ohio's public institutions of higher education and a completed, approved Ohio Transfer 36 shall be admitted to a public institution of higher education in Ohio, provided their cumulative grade-point average is at least 2.0 for all previous college-level courses and and other institutional admission criteria, such as space availability, adherence to deadlines, payment of fees and grade-point average that are fairly and equally applied to all undergraduate students, have also been satisfied. Further, these students shall have admission priority over graduates with an out-of-state associate degree and other transfer students with transferable and/or articulated college credit.
2. Associate degree holders who are considered transfer students under the IPEDS definition and have not completed the Ohio Transfer 36 from an Ohio public institution of higher education will be eligible for preferential consideration for admission as transfer students as long as the institution's admission criteria, such as the minimum academic standards, space availability, adherence to deadlines and payment of fees, are fairly and equally applied to all undergraduate students.
3. In order to encourage completion of the bachelor's degree, students who are not enrolled in or who have not earned an degree but have earned 60 semester/90 quarter hours or more of credit toward a bachelor's degree with a cumulative grade-point average of at least a 2.0 for all previous college-level courses will be eligible for preferential consideration for admission as transfer students as long as the institution's admission criteria, such as the minimum academic standards, space availability, adherence to deadlines and payment of fees, are fairly and equally applied to all undergraduate students.
4. Students who have not earned an associate degree or who have not earned 60 semester credit hours (90 quarter credit hours) with a minimum 2.000 GPA for all previous college-level courses will be eligible for admission as transfer students on a competitive basis.
5. Incoming transfer students admitted to a college or university shall compete for admission to selective programs, majors, and units on an equal basis with students native to the receiving institution.

The admission of transfer students by an institution, however, does not guarantee admission to any majors, minors or fields of concentration at the institution. Some programs have additional academic and non-academic requirements beyond those for general admission to the institution (e.g., background check, a grade-point average higher than a 2.0 or a grade-point average higher than the average required for admission to the institution). Once admitted, transfer students shall be subject to the same regulations governing applicability of catalog requirements as native students. Furthermore, transfer students shall be accorded the same class standing and other privileges as native students on the basis of the number of credits earned. All residency requirements must be completed at the receiving institution.

Responsibilities of Students

To maximize transfer credit application, prospective transfer students must take responsibility for planning their course of study to meet both the academic and non-academic requirements of the institution to which they desire to articulate or transfer credit as early as possible.

The student is responsible for the following:

- Identify early in their collegiate studies an institution and major to which they desire to transfer.
- Investigate and use the information, advising and other available resources to develop a plan their course of study.
- Actively seek program, degree and transfer information.
- Meet with an advisor from both the current and receiving institutions to assist them in preparing a course of study that meets the academic requirements for the program/degree to which they plan to transfer.
- Use the various electronic course/program transfer and applicability database systems, including Ohio Transfer to Degree Guarantee web resources.
- Select courses/programs at their current institution that satisfy requirements at the receiving institution to maximize the application of transfer credit.
- Determine if there are foreign language requirements or any special course requirements that can be met during the freshman or sophomore year.

This will enable students to plan and pursue a course of study that will better articulate with the receiving institution's major.

Appeals Process

Following the evaluation of a student transcript from another institution, the receiving college institution will provide the student with a Statement of Transfer and Articulated Credit Applicability (Degree Audit Report). Students disagreeing with the application of transfer and/or articulated credit by the receiving institution must file their appeal in writing within 90 days of receipt of the Statement of Transfer and Articulated Credit Applicability. The institution shall respond to the appeal within 30 days of the receipt of the appeal at each appeal level.

Student Complaints Following Transfer Appeals at the Receiving Institution

After a student exhausts the appeals process at the receiving institution and chooses to pursue further action, the Ohio Department of Higher Education (ODHE) responds to formal written complaints related to Ohio Articulation and Transfer Policy against public, independent non-profit and proprietary institutions of higher education in Ohio. While the ODHE has limited authority over colleges and universities and cannot offer legal advice or initiate civil court cases, staff will review written complaints submitted through its established process and work with student complainants and institutions.

Reason for Policy

This policy ensures that students transferring between Ohio public institutions of higher education receive equitable treatment and appropriate credit for previously completed coursework. The policy supports student mobility, reduces duplication of coursework and promotes timely degree completion through a standardized, statewide transfer and articulation system, in compliance with directives from the Ohio General Assembly and the Ohio Department of Higher Education.

Orientation for Graduate Students

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

All new teaching assistants are required to attend and participate in the university's Graduate Student Orientation program prior to the beginning of the semester. The program is also open to all new graduate students and current graduate students with new teaching responsibilities. Departments may also require attendance at departmental orientation meetings.

Qualifying Examination for Master's Degree

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

In some departments, graduate students are required to take a qualifying examination. Each student should inquire of the major department whether such an examination is required and when it should be taken. The student is responsible for making the arrangements for taking the examination. Students working for a degree requiring a thesis may have their thesis topic approved as soon as they pass the qualifying examination.

Registration

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Only students who have been formally admitted to Kent State University may register for coursework and pay the appropriate fees. An official registration is a record of a student's schedule of classes maintained online in the university's student information system, Banner. Students who are not officially registered for a course by published university deadlines should not attend classes and will not receive credit or a grade for the course. Students are responsible for their schedules and have the ultimate responsibility to confirm the accuracy frequently during the semester before posted deadline dates. Allowing a member of the university staff to make schedule changes does not relieve the student of his or her responsibilities.

Students register for courses online through FlashLine. Students must clear any registration holds before adjusting their class schedule. Refer to the Financial, Billing and Enrollment Center website for registration information, instructions, dates, deadlines and procedures. New freshmen and new transfer students register through the various campus advising and registration orientation programs.

All changes to a student's course schedule must be completed by published university deadlines. Students can find registration deadlines on their course schedule and in the Schedule of Classes in FlashLine.

Kent State University reserves the right to change the time of a course if it is deemed necessary, and it reserves the right to drop any course from the Schedule of Classes if there is insufficient student demand or if resources are unavailable to offer the course.

Late Registration Fee

Students who are not officially enrolled for any coursework (i.e., neither registered nor paid fees) as of the end (11:59 p.m.) of the seventh calendar day for the fall or spring semester will have a non-refundable late registration fee assessed for any initial registration processed. A non-payment fee will be assessed for registrations not paid by the end (11:59 p.m.) of the 14th calendar day of the semester. Visit Tuition and Fees website for information on students' fees.

Add, Drop and Other Schedule Adjustments

Schedule adjustments are changes to a class schedule for students who have already enrolled in at least one course (1 credit hour or more) for that semester. During registration, students may make adjustments or requests in FlashLine by the following deadlines:

- Deadline is the end (11:59 p.m.) of the seventh calendar day of the fall or spring semester (prorated deadline for summer or flexibly scheduled courses):
  - Adding a course or changing the section of a course[1]
- Deadline is the end (11:59 p.m.) of the 14th calendar day of the fall or spring semester (prorated deadline for summer or flexibly scheduled courses):
  - Adding a course or changing the section of a course with instructor approval[1]
  - Dropping a course/section
  - Changing credit hours for a variable-credit-hour course

- Changing from graded to pass/fail or audit status
- Changing from pass/fail or audit to graded status

Students must submit the Registration Exception Form when requesting schedule adjustments after the university deadlines listed above. There are no processing fees for schedule adjustments, but tuition and fees assessment may be affected.

[1] The ability to add a course (or change the section of a course) after the semester begins will depend on available seats in the course section and the student satisfying course prerequisites and other registration requirements.

Registration Cancellation

To receive a full refund of tuition, students who register and decide not to attend the university must cancel their registration as early as possible, and no later than the end (11:59 p.m.) of the seventh calendar day of the fall and spring semester (prorated deadline for summer or flexibly scheduled courses). This may be accomplished by the student dropping all courses in FlashLine during registration periods.

Any paid registration not canceled by the end (11:59 p.m.) of the seventh calendar day of the fall and spring semester (prorated deadline for summer or flexibly scheduled courses) will be subject to the refund policy published on the Financial, Billing and Enrollment Center website.

Any applicable refund is determined by the date the transaction is processed in the student information system.

Registration Limits

Undergraduate students are able to register each fall and spring for a maximum of 18 credit hours.

Graduate students are able to register each fall and spring for a maximum of 16 credit hours, with the exception of students in the Doctor of Podiatric Medicine degree who may be required to be registered for more.

For the summer term, undergraduate and graduate students have the following registration limits:

- Maximum 6 credit hours in a single five-week summer session
- Maximum 10 credit hours in an eight-week summer session
- Maximum 10 credit hours in overlapping summer sessions
- Maximum 12 credit hours for all summer sessions combined, including summer intersession

Course Withdrawal

Course withdrawal indicates that a student intends to stop attending any or all classes for the current term. Course withdrawal is permitted through the end (11:59 p.m.) of the 70th calendar day the fall or spring semester (prorated deadline for summer or flexibly scheduled courses). The spring semester course withdrawal deadline may be adjusted for spring break. After that time, students are considered to be committed to all remaining courses and must complete them.

Students will use FlashLine to withdraw from one or more courses by the deadline. If students are unable to complete the term because of extreme circumstances that first occur after the deadline, they should consult their college or campus dean's office. Any course withdrawal(s) processed on or after the 15th calendar day of the fall or spring semester (or prorated deadline for summer or flexibly scheduled courses) will appear on the students' academic record with the Withdrawal (W) administrative mark. For more information on the W mark, refer to Grading Policies and Procedures in the University Catalog. Any applicable tuition credit is determined by the date the transaction is processed on FlashLine (see university policy regarding tuition credit).

International students on J1 and F1 visas are required to contact the Office of Global Education if a course withdrawal causes them to be less than full time.

Graduate students who withdraw from all courses with an intention to return at a later date may be eligible for a leave of absence (refer to Leave of Absence for Graduate Students policy in the University Catalog).

Students in the College of Podiatric Medicine who fail to complete registration requirements by the deadline will not be enrolled in classes for the following academic year and may be withdrawn from the college. These students may also be subject to a professionalism deficiency evaluation. Podiatric Medicine Students who request withdrawal after seven weeks of course instruction will receive on their academic record the administrative mark WP or WF if passing or failing, respectively, for each withdrawn course. Refer to the college policies in the College of Podiatric Medicine section of the University Catalog for more information on the procedures for withdrawal.

Course withdrawal does not negate a student's financial obligation, and students will be held responsible for all balances due to the university.

Course Overload

Undergraduate Students

Eligible undergraduate students wanting to register for more than the maximum listed under registration limits may do so through an automated overload process.

Criteria for Eligibility

- Students who have a minimum 12 Kent State earned credit hours and the following GPA are eligible for an automatic overload:

GPA	Overload Credits
2.500-2.749	students may register for 19 credit hours in fall and spring
2.750-2.999	students may register for 19-20 credit hours in fall and spring
3.000-4.000	students may register for 19-21 credit hours in fall and spring

- First-semester transfer students and freshmen without a Kent State GPA are excluded from qualifying for an automatic overload. They must seek approval from their advising office.
- Students not meeting the above criteria or requesting more than 21 credit hours in the fall or spring semester (more than 12 credit hours in all summer terms) will be blocked from registering for an overload unless approval is granted from their advising office.
- Students on academic probation may not register for more than 15 credit hours and may receive a prescription from the dean of their college or campus that they further reduce the credit hours carried until removed from probation.

Exceptions to this rule must be approved by the appropriate college dean.

Graduate Students

Graduate students wanting to register for more than the maximum listed under registration limits should request permission from their advisor, who will consider such factors as academic standing, progress to degree and the rigor of their proposed course schedule in deciding whether to approve the overload. Graduate students with an approved overload will have their course limit adjusted to register for the approved overload class(es).

Enrollment Definitions

For financial aid eligibility and enrollment certification for loan deferments, insurance coverage and other purposes, the enrollment status of students is defined as the following:

Undergraduate Students

Enrollment Type	Credit Hours
Full-time	12+
Three-quarter-time	9-11
Half-time	6-8
Less-than-half-time	1-5

Graduate Students

Enrollment Type	Credit Hours
Full-time	8+
Three-quarter-time	6-7
Half-time	4-5
Less-than-half-time	1-3

For summer, the statues listed above may be fulfilled by enrollment in one or more sessions within the summer semester, including summer intersession. Courses receiving an AU, NF or SF mark are not counted in enrollment credit hours. This definition differs from the one used for assessing tuition and fees (for more information, see Office of the Bursar website).

Remote Participation in a Thesis or Dissertation Defense

Policy Statement

Under normal circumstances, all members of a dissertation committee must be physically present in the examination room during the entire dissertation defense and during the committee's private deliberations following the examination. In most cases, the chair of the dissertation committee and the graduate faculty representative are expected to be physically present in the examination room.

Students enrolled in a fully online degree program are not required to be physically present for their dissertation defense.

For on-ground and hybrid (online/on-ground) degree programs, remote participation by web conferencing is permitted only if the student and/or committee member has obtained permission in advance from the chair of the thesis/dissertation committee in consultation with committee members. They must provide a compelling reason and/or explanation as to why they cannot be physically present.

With any dissertation defense that is approved to be conducted with remote participation, the following rules must be enforced:

- The web-conferencing software to be used allows all participants to see and hear each other during the defense.
- The defense remains open and available to the university community.
- The program pays for any costs associated with the remote participation.
- The chair of the dissertation committee is responsible for ensuring that all requirements for remote participation are met, that the remote participation was uninterrupted and, if interrupted, that the defense was paused until all remote participations were fully restored.
- Participation by telephone only is not permitted under any circumstances.

Reason for Policy

To establish consistent practices when a student and/or a committee member are not able to be physically present for the student's defense of a thesis or dissertation.

Frequently Asked Questions

There is no FAQ associated with this policy.

Definitions

Defense: refers to students presenting, explaining and defending their ideas submitted in their thesis or dissertation. The defense is designed so that faculty members can ask questions to ensure that students understand their chosen field and focus area.

Dissertation: a highly individualized investigative study that results in the development and writing of a scholarly, comprehensive paper and fulfills the culminating requirement for a Ph.D. degree. The dissertation must demonstrate that the student has acquired the ability to conduct research in a discriminating and original manner. The dissertation should make a significant enough contribution to the field in which it is written that at least one scholarly article suitable for publication in a professional journal may be derived from it or that the findings of the dissertation would be otherwise publishable.

Thesis: a highly individualized investigative study that results in the development and writing of a scholarly, comprehensive paper and fulfills the culminating requirement for a master's degree. The thesis topic is formulated by the student in consultation with the advisor and should be one that will further the student's educational development by developing research or other skills that will help the student keep abreast of the field and enable the student to pursue independent work.

Web-conferencing software: allows participants to conduct or attend meetings via the internet. The software allows participants in different locations to connect to each other for voice and video chat, instant messaging and file and screen sharing. Examples of software include Skype, Zoom, Webex Meetings, GoToMeeting and Blackboard Collaborate.

Policy Statement

Residence is defined as academic credit earned at Kent State University. In this context, residence does not refer to whether a student lives in Ohio or on campus; it refers to the Kent State credit hours required to earn a degree or certificate from Kent State University.

Undergraduate Students

- Associate degree programs: Students must complete a minimum of 15 passed hours in residence.
- Bachelor's degree programs: Students must complete a minimum of 30 passed hours in residence, of which 9 passed hours must be at the upper division (30000, 40000) level in the major.
- Certificate and minor programs: Students must complete a minimum 50 percent of the program's total required passed hours in residence. Some certificate and minor programs may require more.

Passed hours comprise graded coursework, including those receiving an S (satisfactory) or Y (pass) grade. Information on specific degree or certificate requirements may be obtained in the college section of the University Catalog. Credit hours for Kent State courses completed through a study-abroad and study-away experience will count toward the student's residence requirement.

Credit earned by means of transfer courses does not count toward residence. Transient study will not count toward the hours of residence, but it will not invalidate residence requirements in progress. Students eligible to take transfer coursework at other institutions are discouraged from taking these courses during their last semester because of the time necessary to receive and process transcripts, which may delay clearing the student for graduation. Under unusual circumstances, students may request a minor modification of this requirement by contacting their college prior to registration elsewhere.

Graduate Students

Residence requirements for graduate degree programs are determined by their respective department, school and/or college. Please consult with the program's coordinator (and/or program catalog page) as to its residence requirement for the degree.

Students admitted to a graduate certificate or graduate minor must complete a minimum 50 percent of the program's total required in residence. Some certificate and minor programs may require more.

More information on the transfer of courses may be found in the Transfer of Graduate Credit policy in the University Catalog.

Reason for Policy

It is expected that students who graduate from Kent State will have completed a minimum amount of coursework taken at the university. The requirement allows the faculty to ensure students meet the program, college and university standards of achievement. This policy implements criteria and requirements for accreditation established by the Higher Learning Commission.

Frequently Asked Questions

1. How are the credit hours "in residence" determined? For example, for a bachelor's degree, are they the first 30 credit hours or the last 30 credit hours of the degree?
   "In residence" includes credit hours for all Kent State courses no matter when they were earned. For graduate students, all credits earned at Kent State beyond what's allowed in the transfer policy count toward "in residence".
2. How do I know what are the upper division courses in my major that count toward the 9 credit hours for residence for a bachelor's degree?

   Those 30000- and 40000-level courses will be listed for your program in the University Catalog under the headers "Major Requirements (courses count in major GPA)" and (if applicable)"Concentration Requirements (courses count in major GPA)." Your GPS degree audit will track fulfillment of the residence requirement.
3. I'm searching for the Ohio residency policy for tuition. Where can I find that?
   You can find the policy regarding Ohio student residency for state subsidy and tuition surcharge purposes in the Kent State Policy Register.

Definitions

Passed hours for undergraduate programs: Credit hours earned from courses that were graded A to D+, S (satisfactory) or Y (credit).

Passed hours for graduate programs: Credit hours earned from courses that were graded A to C or S (satisfactory).

Residence: Credit hours earned from Kent State courses. Residence does not include credit hours awarded for courses transferred from another college or university or exams (e.g., AP, CLEP) or industry-recognized credentials.

Transient study: Kent State degree- or certificate-seeking student who is taking coursework at another institution with the intention to transfer the courses back to their Kent State program.

Revision History

Amended August 2025: Revised policy adds a residence restriction for graduate certificates and minors. This restriction was previously only in the graduate transfer policy.

Amended August 2010: Revised policy updates minimum requirements in residence: from 30 credit hours to 30 GPA credit hours (9 credit hours upper-division in the major) for a bachelor's degree; and from first 45 or final 15 credit hours to 15 GPA credit hours for an associate degree. Revised policy removes mention of correspondence study and addresses transient study.

Retroactive Credit

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Undergraduate students currently enrolled in a degree or certificate program who are placed into an advanced course through assessment or departmental review may earn retroactive credit for designated lower level course(s) in that subject. The advanced courses approved for earning retroactive credits are listed below.

To apply for retroactive credit, students must submit an application for retroactive credits.

The following stipulations apply:

- Students must complete the advanced course at Kent State with a minimum C or S (Satisfactory) grade to be eligible for retroactive credit. Courses taken for the pass/fail grade or audit mark will not be accepted for retroactive credit.
- Students who withdraw from or fail to meet the minimum C or S grade in the advanced course may retake the course and apply for retroactive credit once the minimum C or S grade is achieved and posted.
- Course credits earned through the retroactive policy are not assigned a letter (A-F) grade. The mark CR will be posted to a student's transcript for the enrolled term the student applied for the retroactive credit.
- Retroactive credit will count toward students' class standing, total credit hours earned for graduation and hours required for graduation honors.
- Retroactive credit will not count in students' grade point average (GPA), quality points and residence requirement.
- Students are not eligible for retroactive credit if they previously earned college credit for a course that is comparable to a lower level course in the same subject of the advanced course. Previous college credit includes credit earned through exam (e.g., AP, CLEP); courses transferred from other college-level institutions, tech prep programs or dual enrollment in a high school; or any other alternative credit listed in the University Catalog.
- Not all courses that offer retroactive credits are available each semester.
- Retroactive credit is not available for graduate courses.
- Students may apply for retroactive credit following the posting of the grade at any time before graduation, but no later than the second Sunday of the semester in which they are graduating.

A fee per credit hour is charged for processing and posting of the credit on the student's transcript. The Kent State Retroactive Credit Chart provides information about eligible courses and credits earned.

Selective Service Requirement

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Pursuant to Ohio Law, House Bill 845, all Ohio resident male students between the ages of 18 and 26 not registered with Selective Service System must file a statement of Selective Service registration. If students have not already registered with the Selective Service System, they will be contacted regarding their non-compliant status. Failure to comply will result in the assessment of nonresident tuition fees to their account and the cancellation of all state-based financial aid. Further questions may be directed to the Financial, Billing and Enrollment Center.

Semester System

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

The academic year at Kent State University consists of two semesters — fall and spring — each approximately 15 weeks in length. The normal bachelor's degree program is designed to be completed in four academic years, or eight semesters. The normal associate degree is designed to be completed in two academic years, or four semesters. In addition, the university offers a 13-week summer term.

Each credit hour of coursework is called a "credit hour," as distinguished from the quarter system used at some other universities and colleges. An academic year under the quarter system consists of three 10-week quarters, and one credit hour of coursework is called a "quarter credit hour."

One quarter credit hour of coursework is equivalent to two-thirds of a credit hour (1 quarter credit hour = 0.67 credit hour); one credit hour is equivalent to one and one-half quarter credit hours (1 credit hour = 1.50 quarter hours). A transfer student with a number of quarter credit hours should multiply that number by two-thirds to determine the equivalent credit hours at Kent State University. For example, a student with 48 quarter credit hours would receive 32 credit hours of transfer credit, providing the previous work meets university academic standards.

Sequential Coursework

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

In certain subject fields, such as mathematical sciences, foreign languages, English composition and some of the basic natural sciences, knowledge is sequential or cumulative at the lower levels of study, and courses are structured in clear sequences. Students who already have received credit for, or established proficiency at, one level in such a sequence of courses may not receive academic credit counting toward graduation for a prior course in the sequence or for a course in a lower sequence.

Chemistry Course Sequencing Policy

Because of the similar level of course content in specific chemistry courses, credit hours toward graduation can be earned for only one course in each of the following groups:

Group	Courses
Group A	CHEM 10050, CHEM 10060, CHEM 10970
Group B	CHEM 10050, CHEM 10061, CHEM 10971
Group C	CHEM 20481, CHEM 30481
Group D	CHEM 20482, CHEM 30482

- Students who have successfully completed CHEM 10060 may bypass CHEM 10050.
- Students who have successfully completed CHEM 10050 may not bypass CHEM 10060.

Standardized Test Score Reports

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Kent State University only accepts official standardized test score reports sent directly by the testing center. Graduate Record Examination (GRE) scores are sent directly by the Educational Testing Service, and Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT) test scores are sent directly by the Graduate Management Admission Council. Consistent with the policies of both the Educational Testing Service and the Graduate Management Admission Council, GRE and GMAT scores are valid for five calendar years. Thus, GRE and GMAT scores taken more than five calendar years prior to the date of application to Kent State University will not be accepted.

Student Conduct

The Kent State University Code of Student Conduct applies to both graduate and undergraduate students. Students are subject to educational sanctioning, including, but not limited to, probation, suspension or dismissal for violations of the code.

University policies regarding behavioral conduct and cheating/plagiarism are available on the Office of Student Conduct website and the Plagiarism website. Furnishing false or incomplete information to the university with intent to deceive or forge, alter or misuse university documents or other official documents that serve as the basis for admission and graduation may result in the revocation of admission, academic dismissal or revocation of a degree or certificate.

It is the policy of Kent State University that:

1. Students are to perform their own academic work according to the standards set by faculty members, departments, schools and colleges of the university.
2. To take and present as one's own a material portion of the ideas or words of another, or to present as one's own an idea or work derived from an existing source, without full and proper credit to the source of the ideas, words or works is considered plagiarism/cheating and will result in university sanctioning.
3. University rules and regulations form parameters for individual behavior on and off campus, and follow the normative standards of behavior adhered to by the City of Kent and Kent State University communities. By virtue of a student's enrollment at Kent State University, he/she consents to follow the policies and procedures of the university, including those outlined in the Code of Student Conduct. It is the student's responsibility and in his/her interest to be familiar with all applicable conduct-related policies.

Student Responsibilities

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Each Kent State University student is responsible for:

1. Pursuing successful completion of all courses for which he or she enrolls.
2. Meeting with an advisor to develop an academic plan. However, the final responsibility for following procedures and meeting university, college and program requirements as outlined in the University Catalog rests solely with the student.
3. Being familiar with the current academic calendar, including, but not limited to, deadlines for course registration, course withdrawal and application for graduation.
4. Knowing his or her academic record, including student schedule (found on the Student Printable Schedule in FlashLine) for each semester, and academic progress toward program completion.
5. Maintaining a current and accurate mailing address, phone number and Kent State e-mail address in FlashLine, and reading and responding promptly to all communications from the university.
6. Being familiar with and adhering to the university's rules, regulations and policies as published in the University Catalog and University Policy Register.

Thesis for the Master's Degree

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Effective Date: Fall 2020
Last Reviewed: Spring 2020
Last Revised: Spring 2020
Next Review: Spring 2032

Policy Statement

The writing of an acceptable thesis is mandatory or an option in certain master's degree programs.

Thesis Topic

The thesis topic must be approved by the student's academic unit and filed with the college dean no later than the semester preceding that in which the candidate expects to receive the degree. The thesis topic should be one that will further the student's educational development by developing research or other skills that will help the student keep abreast of the field and enable the student to pursue independent work. The thesis topic is formulated by the student in consultation with the advisor and submitted to the academic unit for approval according to normal procedures for that academic unit.

All students preparing a thesis are required to file a Notification of Approved Thesis Topic form. After the topic has been approved by the student's advisor and a committee has been formed, the advisor, members of the committee, graduate/program coordinator and lead administrator of the academic unit sign the form and forward it to the college dean for approval. The college office returns a copy of the completed form to the academic unit.

When submitting the form, the student should attach a short summary of the thesis (no more than a paragraph) that includes a clear statement of the problem to be undertaken and the procedure or methodology to be used in the research.

Thesis Committee

When the student has developed a thesis topic acceptable to the advisor, a thesis committee is convened, responsible for overseeing the progress of the candidate's thesis. The graduate/program coordinator appoints the members of the committee in consultation with the student and the student's advisor. This group will consist, at minimum, of three members:

- The advisor, who chairs the committee
- Minimum two additional members from the candidate's academic unit
- If appropriate, one or more committee members also may be selected from other academic units. However, the majority of the committee members must be from the student's home academic unit.

The advisor must be a member of the graduate faculty who has been approved to direct theses. The other members of the committee must have associate or full graduate faculty status and be approved to serve on a master's committee. A co-advisor, if is used, will count as one of the required members from the student's academic unit.

Special permission must be obtained from the college dean for anyone on the thesis committee who does not meet the qualifications stated above.

The graduate/program coordinator, in consultation with the graduate studies committee will, as necessary, review the composition of the proposed committee for appropriate balance, and the topic for strength and suitability.

Thesis Registration and Applicability Toward Degree

Upon approval of the thesis topic, the student is required to register continuously for Thesis I (6x199) each semester (fall, spring) for a total of 6 credit hours. A student who has completed the required 6 credit hours of Thesis I but has not finished the thesis is expected thereafter to register continuously for Thesis II (6x299) each semester (fall, spring) until all degree requirements are met. Students who are planning to defend their thesis in summer or early fall, or who are requiring access to university resources during the summer months — including, but not limited to, feedback or mentoring from their thesis advisors, use of university buildings and other research resources — must register for thesis in the summer term. For students in good standing, those credit hours will be approved by the academic unit administrator. The student receives an In-Progress (IP) administrative mark until the thesis is completed, at which time the IP mark is changed to either the Satisfactory (S) or Unsatisfactory (U) grade No more than 6 credit hours of Thesis I may be counted toward completion of degree requirements. Credit hours earned in Thesis II do not, under any circumstances, count toward the degree.

Student must register for thesis no later than the last semester they are in residence. The thesis must be completed and in the hands of the examining committee by the deadline as determined by the college and communicated in advance to the student.

Final Examination (Oral Defense)

In some academic units, a final examination (oral defense), open to the university community, may be required of candidates writing a thesis. This examination is directed primarily toward the thesis but may contain other topics with which the committee feels the candidate should be familiar. The procedures for the final examination are detailed in the procedures section below.

Thesis Submission

Master's candidates are required to submit their thesis in electronic form to the OhioLINK Electronic Thesis or Dissertation Center, where the thesis is made publicly available. Information on the process can be found on the University Libraries guidelines for ETD preparation website. The thesis must be prepared according to established guidelines, which are available in the college office. Individual units may still require submission of a paper copy for their archives and the deadline for the thesis to be filed in the college office is the last day of classes for the term of graduation (some colleges may require an earlier deadline). It is the responsibility of the master's student to fulfill this requirement.

Reason for Policy

Policy enforces uniform standards for the master's thesis submission and oral defense and defines the thesis committee and applicability toward the master's degree.

Procedures

When the thesis has been accepted by a student's advisor, the advisor will arrange for the final examination, and the student will distribute the thesis to members of the thesis committee. The advisor will designate the time and place of the oral defense and notify the student and all members of the thesis committee. The oral defense should be scheduled to allow a minimum of 10 days for all members of the thesis committee to review the thesis. The college dean will be kept informed of the time and place of the examination and the composition of the examining committee.

In the absence of the advisor, the graduate/program coordinator will postpone the oral defense. In the case of long-term absence or enduring illness of the advisor, the lead administrator of the academic unit, in consultation with the graduate studies committee and the original advisor, should make arrangements for a substitute.

The oral defense will be open to the university community. The advisor should notify the academic unit of the time and place of the so that it may be announced in a suitable way. The student should provide copies of the thesis abstract to the academic unit so that it will be available to interested individuals prior to the defense to familiarize members of the graduate faculty with the methodology and findings.

Students may participate in the oral defense in a different location than the committee members (i.e., by web conferencing) if they are declared in a fully online degree program or have obtained permission in advance from the committee chair. See the policy on remote participation in a thesis or dissertation defense in the University Catalog.

The thesis advisor will act as the moderator at the oral defense. The duties of the moderator are to preside and ensure that all participants act in a civilized, polite and proper manner. The advisor should be familiar with the procedures of the oral defense and has the authority to suspend proceedings should a situation arise that would not be conducive to a fair examination. The student will open the defense with a brief presentation of the thesis findings, after which the members of the thesis committee will question the student in an order determined by the advisor. Questions dealing with the substance, meaning and usefulness of the research in the thesis are of greatest priority. Inquiries or comments dealing with punctuation, grammatical minutiae, spelling, etc., are out of order and should be written out and privately submitted to the student and the advisor.

When, in the judgment of the advisor, members of the thesis committee have had an adequate opportunity to question the student, the advisor may open the examination to non-committee members of the graduate faculty, then, as the advisor deems appropriate, to others present. If, in the opinion of the advisor or upon a motion duly passed by a majority of the committee, it is deemed desirable to discontinue the oral defense, the advisor may recess the oral defense until a time mutually agreeable to the advisor, the student and the thesis committee.

When the questioning has run its course, the advisor will excuse everyone except members of the thesis committee and, if in attendance, the graduate/program coordinator and lead administrator of the academic unit. Parliamentary procedure will be followed to determine the success or failure of the student, with the advisor serving as chair. The student should be evaluated upon both: (a) the overall quality and significance of the thesis, and (b) the oral defense of the findings.

The advisor and members of the thesis committee will sign the Report of Thesis Final Examination form, and all register their vote of "pass" or "fail." Thesis committee members may not abstain in this vote. A student passes the oral defense and becomes a "candidate" for the degree if there is no more than one dissenting vote. The graduate/program coordinator and lead administrator of the academic unit also signs the report, and the document is forwarded to the college for the signature of the dean. The college returns a copy of the completed form to the academic unit.

Following any revisions required by the committee, the advisor and the lead administrator of the academic unit must approve the final version of the thesis document by signing the signature page of the Thesis and the Thesis Preparation Approval Form when the student submits the thesis.

Frequently Asked Questions

There is no FAQ associated with this policy.

Definitions

Academic Unit: An academic department, school or a designated graduate program within a college, department or school.

Defense: Defense refers to students presenting, explaining and defending their ideas submitted in their thesis. The defense is designed so that faculty members can ask questions to ensure that students understand their chosen field and focus area.

Thesis: A thesis is a highly individualized investigative study that results in the development and writing of a scholarly, comprehensive paper and fulfills the culminating requirement for a master's degree. The thesis topic is formulated by the student in consultation with the advisor and should be one that will further the student's educational development by developing research or other skills that will help the student keep abreast of the field and enable the student to pursue independent work.

Policy Statement

The integrity of a student's academic transcript is fundamental to the validity of coursework and degrees certified by the university. Therefore, all student transcript entries (grades and other notations) are finalized when the degree is officially posted to the permanent academic record following the effective date of graduation. Subsequent revision and alteration of any transcript entry, after the relevant degree is awarded, is permitted only for the correction of a proven error as certified by the appropriate academic dean and the registrar. Degrees are posted to students' permanent academic records approximately 30 days following the effective date of graduation.

Frequently Asked Questions

1. What's the difference between and official and unofficial transcript? Official transcripts contain the seal of the university and the signature of the university registrar and are sent directly to the final recipient (e.g., your employer or graduate school). Unofficial transcripts are available to current students via FlashLine and are for your own reference only.

2. When will my most recent grades or degree be noted on my transcript?
   Final grades and degree postings do not appear on official transcripts until the end of the term. To find processing dates, visit Grades and Transcript Processing Dates. Degrees are posted to students' permanent academic records approximately 30 days following the effective date of graduation.
3. How do I request a transcript?
   Students can request transcripts online. For more information on requesting transcripts, visit the Transcript Requests website.

Transfer of Graduate Credit

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY
Effective Date: August 2024
Last Reviewed: April 2022
Last Revised: April 2024
Next Review: September 2028

Policy Statement

Graduate courses earned at another college or university may be transferred into a Kent State University graduate program. Students who wish to have those courses considered for transfer must petition administrators of the graduate program. The program can accept or reject such courses based on the program requirements, regardless of the discipline or institution in which the credits were earned.

The following conditions must be satisfied to transfer graduate credit:

1. A maximum of 12 credit hours of transfer courses may be applied toward a master's degree, the Educational Specialist degree or a doctoral degree. Some programs may have a lower maximum.
2. The graduate credit was earned at an institutional accredited college or university (or international equivalent).
3. The credit was not used for a previously awarded degree.
4. The student earned, at minimum, a B or satisfactory (S) grade in each course for which credit is to be transferred.
5. The transfer coursework satisfies a requirement in the student's program.
6. Time limits for transfer credit must follow established policy. Refer to policy for time limits for graduate programs.
7. The student's petition for transfer credit with an official transcript is filed with the program and college.
8. The student's program coordinator approves the petition.

Accepted transfer credits are posted on the Kent State University transcript in semester hours and count toward total credit hours earned for graduation at Kent State. Transfer credits and grades will not count toward the students' Kent State Grade Point Average (GPA) and residence requirement; nor will a transfer grade replace a grade earned in an equivalent course at Kent State. Transfer grades, however, may be considered for prerequisites to a specific course or admission to and/or progression for a specific program.

Students who are enrolled in a Kent State graduate program and wish to take graduate credit at another college or university to be transferred back to their Kent State's program must obtain approval from their program coordinator prior to taking the courses.

Reason for Policy

This policy specifies where authority resides for decisions regarding transferability of graduate credit and outlines the conditions required for the transfer of credits to Kent State graduate programs from other institutions.

Procedures

Students who wish to transfer graduate-level credits into a Kent State graduate program must obtain approval from their program coordinator by submitting the Request for Transfer of Graduate Credit form and including an official transcript of the courses.

Frequently Asked Questions

1. Are Kent State courses taken for one graduate program considered "transfer" if I want to apply them to another Kent State graduate program?
   Courses completed at Kent State are not considered transfer. However, courses taken in one Kent State program may be applied toward another Kent State program with approval of that program's coordinator.
2. Is there an appeal process if my transfer request was denied?
   Yes, if a student wants to appeal a decision made on a transfer course, follow the administrative policy and procedure for student academic complaints
3. Does the 12-credit limit include courses transferring from a certificate to a degree?
   The 12-credit limit pertains to any and all coursework taken at another institution regardless of program type. The limit does not pertain to coursework taken for a Kent State graduate program (major, minor, certificate) that is being requested to apply toward another Kent State program.

4. Where do I start the transfer process?
   Meet with your faculty advisor and/or program coordinator to review the courses in question for applicability toward your degree program.

Definitions

Credit hour: Units based on contact hours in a learning environment that are acquired for completed coursework applied toward a degree or certificate.

GPA (Grade Point Average): An indication of a student's academic achievement at Kent State University, determined by the number of credit hours attempted at Kent State University and the grades received. The Kent State GPA is calculated to three places past the decimal point and not rounded.

Graduate credit: Courses earned for a master's, Educational Specialist or doctoral degree or for a graduate-level certificate program. Graduate credit at Kent State are courses numbered 50000-69999 for master's level and 70000-89999 for doctoral level.

Institutionally accredited college or university: Previously called regional accreditation, the primary form of accreditation for traditional colleges and universities in the United States. There are six institutional accrediting organizations recognized by the Council for Higher Education Accreditation and the U.S. Department of Education, including the Higher Learning Commission, which accredits Kent State University.

Revision History

Amended August 2024: Revised policy clarified earned credits from other institutions may be used in Kent State University graduate programs. The revisions also clarified language that students changing from one Kent State program to another are not considered transfer of credit.

Amended August 2023: Revised policy removes restriction that students with an earned Kent State graduate degree cannot transfer courses, with program permission, to another Kent State graduate degree.

Amended August 2015: Revised policy provides more guidance about the conditions associated with the transfer of credit at the graduate level, including the transfer of credit into the educational specialist (Ed.S.) degree; the transfer of credit that was earned at Kent State University; and the conditions surrounding the transfer of credits (e.g., role of the student, time limits, impact on the student's GPA). Transfer of Undergraduate Credit

Effective Date: Fall 2025
Last Reviewed: Spring 2024
Last Revised: Fall 2016
Next Review: Fall 2034

Policy Statement

Students may transfer academic credit to Kent State University as admitted new undergraduate students, as active degree-seeking students or as returning students.

Transfer credit will be accepted for college-level courses (e.g., not remedial/developmental, eligible to count toward a degree) from institutional accredited or international equivalent institutions as determined by Kent State's Credit Transfer Office per the following conditions:

College or University in Ohio:

- The student earned a minimum D grade (or Credit or Pass or Satisfactory) in fall 2005 or later.
- The student earned a minimum C grade prior to fall 2005.
- The student earned a minimum D grade (or Credit or Pass or Satisfactory) in fall 1990 or later that was applied toward an earned Associate of Arts or Associate of Science degree with a minimum overall 2.000 GPA.

College or University Outside Ohio:

- The student earned a minimum D grade (or Credit or Pass or Satisfactory) in fall 2010 or later.
- The student earned a minimum C grade prior to fall 2010.

Effective fall 2010, upper-division and lower-division credit hours are awarded for transfer based upon the level of course to which they are equated at Kent State.

Accepted transfer credits are posted on the Kent State University transcript in semester hours based upon the number of hours earned at the source institution.

Transfer credits hours count towards:

- Class standing
- Total credit hours earned for graduation at Kent State

Transfer credits and grades will not count towards:

- Kent State Grade Point Average (GPA)
- Residence requirement
- Graduation honors
- Grade earned in an equivalent course at Kent State

Transfer grades may be considered for:

- Prerequisites to a specific course
- Admission to and/or progression for a specific program

The Kent State college that houses the student's major determines the applicability of these courses toward the desired degree or certificate. Some programs may require students to earn higher grades in specific courses or requirements. Students will be held to the required grade and GPA standards for admission to and graduation from these programs.

Students who have attended schools that are not institutionally accredited or that are not candidates for such accreditation are not granted credit by the Credit Transfer Office for work completed there. The students' Kent State college, however, may grant such credit at its discretion. Although the evaluation of a student's performance at a non-accredited institution is considered in the admissions decision, any work completed at an accredited institution takes precedence. See the Alternative Credit policy in the University Catalog for more information on limits of credit hours.

Transfer Credit Appeals Process

Students must submit in writing to the Credit Transfer Office (either by letter or email) an appeal regarding their transfer credit. Upon recommendation by the Transfer Review Committee, students will be notified of the outcome in writing.

Active Students - Transient Coursework

Active undergraduate, degree-seeking students who wish to take college-level coursework at another institution (as described in the policies above) while continuing their studies at Kent State need to complete Transfer Course Planning form, in consultation with the academic advisor, prior to enrolling at the other institution.

After completing the transfer coursework, students are responsible for submitting an official transcript from the other institution to the Kent State Admission office. Students are discouraged from taking transfer coursework during their last semester because of the time necessary to receive and process transcripts, which may delay the student's graduation.

Returning Students

All transfer policies described above apply to Kent State students who interrupted their studies at the university for one or more years, completed coursework at another college or university and are now returning to Kent State.

- Kent State students who have not attended for one year, were not academically dismissed and completed coursework at another college or university during their absence should refer to the Former Undergraduate Students section of the Admission of Undergraduate Students policy in the University Catalog.
- Kent State students who were academically dismissed and completed coursework at another college or university during their absence should refer to the Dismissal, Appeal and Reinstatement policy in the University Catalog.

Reason for Policy

Ensures that students can transition from other institutions to Kent State while maintaining the academic integrity of their degrees. This policy allows the university to assess and validate prior learning, helping students avoid repeating courses and progress efficiently toward graduation, while upholding the university's academic standards.

Procedures

The procedures below are for active, degree-seeking Kent State students who plan to take courses at another institution to transfer back to Kent State. Failure to complete these steps may result in coursework not transferring as expected.

1. Meet with their academic or faculty advisor to review program requirements, course prerequisites, remaining coursework, possible impact if repeating courses and transfer course equivalencies.
2. Complete the Transfer Course Planning form.
    a. The form is valid for one term only (quarter, semester, etc.), or for one academic year for year-long study abroad/away opportunities.
    b. The form is subject to all restrictions of the dean of the student's college.
3. Complete the Ad Hoc Consortium Agreement if applying for financial aid during the term at the institution or to continue eligibility.
4. After the grade for the transfer coursework has been assigned, students are responsible for submitting an official transcript from the other institution to the Kent State Admission office.

Frequently Asked Questions

See the Credit Transfer website.

Definitions

Active Student: An "active" student is one who is enrolled at Kent State University for a minimum 1 credit for one semester or longer without more than a one-year interruption.

Credit Hours: Units based on contact hours in a learning environment that are acquired for completed coursework applied toward a degree or certificate.

GPA (Grade Point Average): Grade point average is determined by the number of credit hours attempted at Kent State University and the grades received. The GPA is calculated to three places past the decimal point and is not rounded.

Institutional Accreditation: Institutional accreditation validates the quality of an institution as a whole and evaluates multiple aspects of an institution, including its academic offerings, governance and administration, mission, finances, and resources.

New Student: An official evaluation of transfer credit is completed for undergraduate students who have been admitted to the university and have submitted official transcripts from all post-secondary institutions previously attended.

Prerequisite: Course(s) or condition(s) required before enrollment in a more advanced class. Example: FR 13201 is a prerequisite for FR 13202.

Ohio Transfer 36: Ohio Transfer 36 (OT36) is a specific subset or the entire set of a college or university's general education requirements (Kent Core), developed by the Ohio Department of Higher Education. OT36 completed at one public Ohio college or university will automatically meet the requirements of the OT36 at the receiving Ohio institution, once the student is accepted. Students may be required, however, to meet additional general education requirements that are not included in the OT36.

Transfer Student: Any student applying to Kent State University who has attended any institution of higher learning since leaving high school.

Transient Courses: Courses approved for active Kent State University students who attended another accredited institution while maintaining enrollment at Kent State.

Transient Student: Any student enrolled in another college or university who will attend Kent State University for one term.

Upper-Division Courses (30000-49999): Upper-division credit should be awarded for courses that are major related with the specialization, breadth and depth in a particular field. These courses typically have prerequisites because it is understood that it is advanced study, and students need the proper knowledge before taking the course.

Revision History

Amended August 2025: Revised policy updated the format and language to reflect all of the current state and national transfer policies.

Amended August 2016: Revised policy merged information on transfer (students who transfer to Kent State and transient (Kent State students who take courses elsewhere).

Amended August 2014: Revised policy for Kent State transient students eliminated the 18-credit hour restriction; added requirements that students be enrolled at Kent State for at least one semester before applying and be in good academic standing for eligibility; extended approval for transient coursework from one semester to one year for students who plan to be away from Kent State for a year-long study abroad/away; and removed information about previously accepted grade for transfer, which changed from a C to a D grade in 2005 for Ohio institutions (and in 2010 for all accredited institutions).

Undergraduate Students Enrolling in Graduate Courses

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Undergraduate students who have earned a minimum of 90 credit hours and minimum 3.300 overall GPA may enroll in a maximum of 12 credit hours of graduate coursework and apply these hours to the completion of the bachelor's degree. These credit hours cannot be applied to a future graduate degree at Kent State University (nor can the student take the course again). Enrollment in graduate coursework is limited to master's (50000 and 60000) level courses, and students must obtain permission in advance.

To obtain permission to enroll in the course, the student must complete a Permission for Undergraduate Students to Enroll in Graduate Courses form. The request form must be approved by the instructor of the graduate course.

To obtain permission to apply graduate coursework to the bachelor's degree, the student must meet with their undergraduate advisor to complete a Petition for Exception to Undergraduate Program Requirements form. The advisor may approve the request if all of the following conditions apply:

- Student has earned the minimum undergraduate semester credit hours and minimum GPA requirement.
- Graduate course will provide enrichment while the student pursues the undergraduate degree.
- Student does not exceed the maximum 12 graduate credit hours.

Another option for undergraduate students to take graduate level coursework is through a combined bachelor's/master's degree program. See the Combined Bachelor's/Master's Degree Program policy for more details.

University Readiness Standards and Placement Assessment

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

In 2012, the Ohio Department of Higher Education established uniform statewide standards and college testing thresholds for remediation-free status for undergraduate students. Students meeting these standards and thresholds are deemed remediation-free and are eligible to enroll in college-level courses in the respective subjects. These standards and thresholds do not replace Kent State's placement assessment policies.

Kent State University Placement Assessment

Kent State University uses ACT, SAT, GED, high school GPA and/or placement assessment(s) to determine appropriate course placement in mathematics, English, foreign language and critical and core reading strategies. Any required placement assessments must be completed before a student registers for classes in order to ensure student readiness and correct course placement. Any student required to attend a campus-specific orientation program (e.g., Destination Kent State: Advising and Registration) will be required to complete all appropriate assessments prior to the orientation program.

Students who earn college credit before enrolling at Kent State may be exempt from taking some or all placement assessments. Students must submit their college transcripts (including College Credit Plus and dual enrollment credit), Advanced Placement (AP), International Baccalaureate (IB) and military transcript(s) for review and consideration of transfer credits in order to be exempt from taking some or all placement assessments.

Most assessments are accessible online. Students will be provided with information about assessments that are required and how to access the assessment, either by e-mail, "My Lists" Checklist or some other form of communication.

Time Limits: ACT, SAT, ALEKS mathematics and Accuplacer scores are accepted for two years from the date of the assessment and can be used for placement in mathematics, English and critical and core reading strategies. Placement assessment scores for Foreign Language provided through WebCape can be used for one year from the date of assessment.

Mathematics Placement

In addition to the remediation-free standards established by the Ohio Department of Education, Kent State's Department of Mathematical Sciences accepts the following for students in a program that does not require higher levels of mathematics (i.e., non-algebra track):

- Students with a 3.00 overall high school GPA or higher may take MATH 10040 or MATH 10050, regardless of their score on assessments mentioned in the standards listed above.
- Student with a 3.50 overall high school GPA or higher may take MATH 10041 or MATH 10051 regardless of their score on assessments mentioned in the standards listed above.

All undergraduate degree programs require the successful completion of the Kent Core Mathematics and Critical Reasoning requirement. Some programs may require specific mathematics course(s). Placement into mathematics courses is determined by a student's score on the ALEKS placement assessment and/or the ACT or SAT score or scores on the other listed assessments. Not all students need to take the ALEKS mathematics placement assessment, and students should check their "My Lists" checklist in FlashLine for that determination. However, all students scoring below 22 on ACT mathematics or below 530 on SAT mathematics or below the threshold in the other listed assessments need to take the ALEKS placement assessment.

Students may improve their initial placement score by working in an individualized learning module on ALEKS, then retaking the ALEKS mathematics placement assessment. They have free access to their learning modules and reassessment for one year from their initial assessment. Students who score 80 percent mastery in the learning modules have an excellent chance of improving their placement through a proctored reassessment.

Students deemed remediation-free in mathematics , as described in the table above, or with an overall 3.5 high school GPA or higher, may register for one of the following courses, as required by their major.

- Algebra Track: MATH 10675, MATH 10771, MATH 10772
- Non-Algebra Track: MATH 10041, MATH 10051, MATH 11008

Remediation-free students who want to register for a course other than the ones listed above may take the ALEKS mathematics placement assessment.

Students who are not deemed remediation-free in mathematics, as described in the table above, must take the ALEKS mathematics placement assessment to determine the course they should take as required by their major.

Additional information regarding placement after taking the ALEKS assessment may be found on the Department of Mathematical Sciences website.

English Placement

English Placement

All undergraduate degree programs require successful completion of the Kent Core Composition requirement. Placement into the appropriate starting course in the sequence is determined by ACT English or SAT evidence-based reading and writing or high school GPA. In the event students do not have ACT, SAT scores or qualifying high school GPA and are attending a Kent State University regional campus, they will take Accuplacer Next Generation reading and Writeplacer. This assessment is available on site or remotely. Students who have taken Accuplacer sentence skills, Writeplacer or reading comprehensive at another institution within two years of their initial start date may opt to transfer those scores to Kent State University.

Students enrolled at a Kent State University regional campus who do not meet the university readiness standards will be required to enroll in and earn a minimum C grade in ENG 01001 and a minimum C- grade ENG 11002 before they can enroll in ENG 21011 . Students who wish to challenge their writing placement may do so using the Writing Placement Reassessment.

To provide more opportunities to all students, ACT/SAT scores and/or high school GPA older than two years are acceptable for English placement. Regional Campus students should also be informed about the Stretch sequence and given the option to enroll in Stretch, regardless of their older ACT/SAT or GPA. Students who do not have ACT/SAT scores or high school GPA will take Accuplacer Reading and Writeplacer.

Core and Critical Reading Strategies Placement

Kent State University regional campuses offer two courses to help students develop reading strategies to successfully complete college-level coursework — READ 00003 and READ 00006. A student placed into READ 00003 must take READ 00006 the following term. Both courses require a minimum C grade. Students who have taken the Accuplacer Classic or Next Generation at another institution within two years of their initial start date may opt to transfer that score to Kent State University.

Foreign Language Placement

Students intending to study Chinese, French, German, Italian, Russian or Spanish should take the placement assessment 48 hours before their academic advising appointment.

Students planning to study a language other than the ones listed above should contact the Department of Modern and Classical Language Studies via email (mcls@kent.edu) or website for further placement instructions. All students should begin foreign language study in the appropriate course, which may be determined in one of the following ways:

1. Webcape Placement Exam available on the Placement Channel in FlashLine for Chinese, French, German, Italian, Russian and Spanish.
2. Placement interview with a faculty member in the Department Modern and Classical Language Studies for languages for which there is no Webcape Placement Exam.
3. Placement based on alternative credits accrued per one of the approved methods specified in the University Catalog.

Foreign Language Requirements: Generally, foreign language requirements are met by passing the highest level course in the language requirement or a course beyond the highest level in the requirement. Students should review the University Catalog and consult with their academic advisor(s) to determine specific language requirements for their college and program. Some students may begin their university foreign language experience beyond the Elementary I level without receiving credit for the previous course(s) and, thus, may complete the requirement with fewer credit hours and fewer courses than specified in their language requirement. In this case, the credit hours not used for the language requirement may be still required for graduation, but may be applied toward coursework in the student's major or minor or as electives.

Foreign Language Proficiency Waiver: Students able to demonstrate foreign language proficiency comparable to the highest course in their foreign language requirement may be able to have their language requirement waived. Students should review the University Catalog and consult with their academic advisor(s) and the Department of Modern and Classical Language Studies to verify eligibility. Proficiency waivers will be granted for the following:

1. International students who were educated through high or secondary school in a language other than English. Foreign language waivers will be granted to international students who have
   a. TOEFL, IELTS, MELAB, PTE Academic score recorded in their Kent State University academic record;
   b. completed English-as-second-language courses at Kent State; or
   c. provided documentation that they attended a secondary or high school in a country in which courses were taught in a language other than English (e.g., high school transcripts or diploma in the original language along with a certified English translation).

2. American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages (ACTFL) Exams. The tests are administered by Language Testing International. Students are responsible for the costs of the exam(s) and for providing the Department of Modern and Classical Language Studies with a copy of the certificate(s). Instructions for taking the ACTFL Exams may be found on the department's website.
   a. A proficiency waiver will be granted through Elementary II of a foreign language to students who provide either
      i. an official ACTFL Oral Proficiency Interview (OPI) certificate that documents proficiency at the Intermediate Low or higher level; or
      ii. comparable qualifying score on an ACTFL-based proficiency exam such as those accepted for the Ohio Seal of Biliteracy confirming oral proficiency of at least an intermediate low level.
   b. A proficiency waiver will be granted through Intermediate II of a foreign language to students who provide either
      i. an official ACTFL Oral Proficiency Interview (OPI) and Writing Proficiency Test (WPT) certificates with scores at the Intermediate Low or higher level; or
      ii. comparable qualifying ACTFL-based proficiency exams such as those accepted for the Ohio Seal of Biliteracy confirming oral proficiency and writing proficiency of at least an intermediate low level.
3. Common European Framework of Reference for Language (CEFR) Ratings. A proficiency waiver will be granted through Elementary II of a foreign language to students who provide an official (European) CEFR certificate confirming oral proficiency of at least the B1.1 level. A proficiency waiver will be granted through Intermediate II of a foreign language to students who provide an official CEFR certificate confirming oral and writing proficiency of at least the B1.2 level. Students are responsible for providing the Department of Modern and Classical Language Studies with a copy of the certificate(s).
4. Defense Language Proficiency Test (DLPT). A proficiency waiver will be granted through Elementary II of a foreign language to students who were tested during military service and provide an official DLPT certificate confirming oral proficiency of at least ILR 1. A proficiency waiver will be granted through Intermediate II of a foreign language to students who provide an official DLPT certificate confirming oral proficiency of at least ILR 1+.
5. Ohio Seal of Biliteracy. A proficiency waiver may be granted through Elementary II or Intermediate II of a foreign language to students with an Ohio Seal of Biliteracy, depending on the results of their qualifying test scores. Students who have qualified for the Ohio Seal of Biliteracy by means of an International Baccalaureate (IB) or Advance Placement (AP) exam or who submit their ACE transcripts may be eligible to receive credit for the Ohio Seal of Biliteracy. Students will be required to submit their certificate and exam results to Kent State University officials to determine which level of proficiency will be granted. For more information, visit the

Upper-Division Requirement

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

Most specialization in bachelor's degree programs is pursued through upper-division coursework. Upper-division courses are numbered 30000–49999 and expect both greater familiarity with the subject matter and greater intellectual sophistication. Students must complete the appropriate prerequisites in specified lower-division courses before entering upper-division courses. In general, baccalaureate programs require the successful completion of minimum 39 upper-division credit hours of coursework.

Workshops for Graduate Students

ASK A QUESTION OR SUBMIT FEEDBACK ON THIS POLICY

The Office of Continuing Education, in cooperation with academic departments, offers a variety of for-credit workshops. These workshops are especially designed to meet identified needs of various professions. Each workshop is set up to recognize the needs of the audience in terms of time, place, format and content.

A student holding a bachelor's degree from an accredited institution and who has been accepted by a workshop director for a specified workshop, institute or other special program offering graduate credit may be admitted as a special non-degree workshop student for the term of the workshop only. Prerequisites for admission are set by the instructional department. The temporary admission is valid for only one workshop consisting of a maximum of 12 credit hours. Students desiring to take other non-workshop graduate courses concurrently with the workshop or to do graduate work beyond the length of the workshop term must apply for admission to the appropriate college or school under regular procedures. A student may reapply for subsequent workshop participation under workshop admission regulations.

A maximum of 4 credit hours earned in graduate workshops may be applied to a graduate degree program. All workshops are graded S/U (satisfactory/unsatisfactory). Some departments may be more restrictive. Students are advised to consult their departments regarding application of workshop credit toward degree requirements.
